PATIENT HAD NOT DIED

A Salem Physician Has an Amusing Experience With an Inquisitive Local Reporter.

Late Saturday evening a Salem physician, while returning from a professional visit to a patient, had an experience with an inquisitive local newspaper reporter that he did not exactly relish, by reason of the inference that might be deduced from the reporter's questioning. The doctor observed that he was being closely scrutinized while on the street car, and when he left the car he was not much surprised to see the other fellow, whom he knew by reputation to be a reporter, leave the car also. The professional man paid no attention to the fact, and continued on his way up street. He had gone but a few paces, however, until he was accosted in the following terms: "Any thing new tonight, doctor?" to which the doctor replied negatively, explaining that there was nothing out of the ordinary. He continued on his way, and was somewhat surprised to note that his questioner was following but a few paces behind. He had gone about a block further, when the persistent reporter inquired again if the doctor could not contribute a news item, and concluded the query by stating that he thought probably a death had occurred. By this time the patience of the doctor, who did not have even a speaking acquaintance with the questioner, became exhausted, and, turning to the reporter, he said: "What in the devil do you take me for, anyway, an undertaker? This ended the interview. The doctor did not appreciate the assumption that a professional visit by him must be attended by the fatal consequences that the reporter had presumed.

ANTHONY TROLLOPE.

Miseries and Irritations Incident Upon His Start in Life.

Anthony Trollope's start in life was unpromising. As he knew no languages, ancient or modern, he became classical usher at a school in Brussels, with the promise of a commission in the Austrian army. Then he was suddenly transferred to a clerkship in the London postoffice. He was disinclined to the new position of regular ignorance and special incapacity for the simplest arithmetic. A vague threat that he must pass an examination was forgotten before it was put into execution, and Trollope characteristically takes occasion to denounce the system of competitive examination by which he would have been excluded. Meanwhile he was turned loose in London and attempted to live like a gentleman on £90 a year. The results are indicated by a couple of anecdotes.

A money lender once advanced him £4, for which, first and last, he paid £200. This person, he says, became so much attached to him as to pay a daily visit to his office and exhort him to be punctual. "These visits were very terrible and can hardly have been of service to me in the office." This mild remark applies also to the visits from the mother of a young woman in the country who had fallen in love with him and to whom he "lacked the pluck to give a decided negative." The mother used to appear with a basket on her arm and an immense bonnet upon her head and inquire in a loud voice before all his companions, "Anthony Trollope, when are you going to marry my daughter?"

No wonder that he was miserable. He was hopelessly in debt and often unable to pay for a dinner. He hated his work, he says, and he hated his ill-fated; he quarreled with his superiors, who thought him hopelessly incapable and felt that he was sinking "to the lowest pits." At last he heard of a place in the Irish postoffice which everybody despised and was successful in applying for it, because his masters were glad to get rid of him. At the same time they informed his new superior that he would probably have to be dismissed on the first opportunity.—National Review.

"STOMACH TROUBLE."
"About ten years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach," writes Mr. Wm. Connolly, of 215 Walnut Street, Lorain, Ohio. "I got no sleep for a week, my stomach would bloat, and I would get up every night in awful distress at such times. I have been employed and been treated by the best doctors in this city but got no relief. I have since had a cure of my stomach, others cut out, others dyspeptic. I have bought and tried everything I saw advertised for stomach and stomach trouble, but continued to get worse all the time. About three months ago I was in such a condition that my friends had some fear about my recovery. I called a doctor and he said I was in a very bad shape. Hands and limbs were cold and dripping with cold sweat. He told me that I had a very bad case of chronic indigestion if I was under his treatment with this spring (1901) but did not improve any. By some way or other I happened to get hold of a box of your 'Pellets,' and I thought they helped me. It was then I wrote to you for advice. You told me that by my symptoms you thought I had liver complaint and advised the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' in connection. These medicines I have since obtained, and am very happy to state that I commenced to get better from the start, and have not had a day this summer on account of my stomach. I feel top-top, and better than I have for ten years."

GAINED SIXTEEN POUNDS.
"It was twelve years ago that I derived so much help from Dr. Pierce's 'Pleasant Pellets,' writes Mrs. Olive Murray, Cook Co., Ill. "I was afflicted with a scrofulous tumor in the left side of my neck. It was fully as large as a large sweet potato, and so painful that I could get but little sleep at night. I doctored with several physicians, but without success. The tumor grew rapidly and became inflamed and my general health became impaired. I was very weak. One physician said I would be in consumption in a very short time. Our home physician said I would have to have the tumor removed, but afterward told my husband that I had heart trouble and he would not have me use chloroform ether, so he told me to be very careful; gave me medicine but did me no good. I went to Michigan, and was there three months, and while there took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and used 'Lugol's Solution' as directed in your pamphlet. While away I gained sixteen pounds, the tumor became smaller, and less painful, and today there is not a sign of it. I feel confident I shall never be troubled with it again. We think there is no medicine like Dr. V. Pierce's, and we have recommended it to a great many who have taken it with very favorable results. The Golden Medical Discovery cured my neck entirely."

Brain With Corn For Steers.
A correspondent asks The Breeder's Gazette: "How much bran at $18 per ton can be profitably fed with corn at 55 cents per bushel to matured steers to the feed yard?"

W. A. Henry answers as follows: "Our correspondent will find that if he gives his steers a ration consisting of a quarter or third part by weight and the remainder corn he will materially improve the quality of his feed supply to the fattening steers. Bran furnishes a large amount of mineral matter, such as phosphoric acid and potash. It also supplies nitrogen. It has a generally beneficial effect on the digestive tract of ruminating animals and will cause the steers to more fully utilize the corn which is fed him. The requisite result ing from corn is much richer than that made through corn feeding, and where fertility is given any attention this side of the subject is of importance. Our correspondent is urged to feed some bran and to note the results."

BAKER FARM IS SOLD

Value of One Marion County Farm Advanced $3000 in Three Years—Eastern Man Makes Purchase.

Really values have advanced materially in this county in the last few years. A few days ago the old Frank Baker farm, near this city, was sold by Wm. Gair to W. H. Grebenhorst, a recent arrival from Webster county, Iowa, for $12,500. The farm includes 317 acres, and the sale included some $500 in stock. Gair purchased the farm three years ago, paying $10,000 for the farm and stock. He recently sold $500 worth of stock, and in the sale that has just been consummated he made a clear profit of $3000, besides selling some stock during the time he owned the property, and harvesting three years' crops from the premises. Mr. Grebenhorst is accompanied by two sons, each of whom will invest in a farm in the valley.

Bed Time.
I take a pleasant herb drink, the next morning I feel bright and my complexion is better. My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. If you cannot get them for free, send for them. Address, Orator Woodward, LeRoy, N. Y.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75 cents. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A NATURAL RESULT.
It is very reasonable to suppose if the foundation of a structure was removed that the building itself is bound to come down. This same principle can be applied to disease. Take a medicine into the system that will remove the cause of sickness, and the illness leaves of itself. Dyspepsia, indigestion, sick-headache and biliousness have their foundation in stomach disorders. Remove this weakness and the other symptoms are no more. There is one cure for all this that all druggists sell for 25c per box. It is called Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills. They got right at the beginning of these diseases and make the cure by taking away the cause of it. We will send a small box free by mail, or a large box on receipt of 25c. Address Dr. Gunn, Philadelphia, Pa. For sale at Dr. Stone's Drug Stores, 4

Mother Always Keeps It Handy.
"My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spalding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once, and in a few days she was able to do anything she wanted, remarking that she feared no bad effects, as she has her bottle of Kodol handy." Don't waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If you stomach is sound your health will be good. Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digesting your food. It's nature's own food.

Belgianian Belgians.
The Balkan mountains have been the homes and haunts of many brigands through centuries of Bulgarian history. In the sixteenth century a national movement against the oppression of Turkey fell into the hands of brigand chiefs. They were known by the name of Haiduths. They were represented as friends of the poor, the protectors of the weak, the allies of Christians and the foes of the Mohammedans. In legends and in songs their names and fame were perpetuated. They increased from the ranks of the avengers and the wolfish. Once identified with them a brigand's safety consisted in continuing with them. The Turks blocked the way to return to the ranks of common citizenship. Villagers often welcomed them as deliverers from their oppressors.—Lusilla's Week.

BEETLE BATTLE

In studying the respective points of the beef and dairy animals as outlined it is best to commence with the head. There are two types of beef heads as shown—namely, Hereford and Short-horn, says farmers' bulletin No. 143, issued by the United States department of agriculture. The beef head should be short and compact, medium in size, refined in appearance, clean cut in contour, broad, with wide forehead, indicating a good supply of nervous force; the eye large, clear and limpid; the ear fine, active and covered with soft, silky hair; the mouth large; the muscle medium in size, heavy and free from coarseness; the jaw medium heavy, well fleshed, with a good opening between the submaxillary space; the poll rather broad and flat, and the horns medium sized.

The eye is a very important factor in the makeup of any animal. It receives its nerve supply directly from the brain, and its clearness, brightness and size indicate the degree of nervous energy and disposition of the animal. An animal showing a large amount of white around the eye or with a small pupil and a suppressed eye is generally of a nervous, irritable temperament and is on this account a poor feeder. A broad and high forehead gives ample space for the housing of the brain, which, of course, directs and controls the nervous energy and influences digestion, assimilation, circulation and other functions of the animal organization.

The nostril of the beef animal should be medium in size, with a clear, bright lining membrane. If it is large, it indicates a predisposition to scrofulous diseases and the unnecessary oxidation and waste of food. If it is small, there is not sufficient room for the proper development of the air passages, and this is an indication of respiratory weakness. Under such circumstances sufficient air will not be drawn into the lungs to complete the oxidation of the food, which must proceed rapidly in the case of animals consuming large quantities of "roughness."

As the chief function of cattle is to consume large quantities of food for the formation of flesh, fat and milk it is necessary that the mouth be large and the teeth firmly set. A medium sized horn, a refined ear and an intelligent, active appearance are all indications of considerable importance, as they are associated with good breeding, sufficient nerve energy, freedom from sluggishness and gentleness of disposition—all points of great importance to the cattle feeder.

"About ten years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach," writes Mr. Wm. Connolly, of 215 Walnut Street, Lorain, Ohio. "I got no sleep for a week, my stomach would bloat, and I would get up every night in awful distress at such times. I have been employed and been treated by the best doctors in this city but got no relief. I have since had a cure of my stomach, others cut out, others dyspeptic. I have bought and tried everything I saw advertised for stomach and stomach trouble, but continued to get worse all the time. About three months ago I was in such a condition that my friends had some fear about my recovery. I called a doctor and he said I was in a very bad shape. Hands and limbs were cold and dripping with cold sweat. He told me that I had a very bad case of chronic indigestion if I was under his treatment with this spring (1901) but did not improve any. By some way or other I happened to get hold of a box of your 'Pellets,' and I thought they helped me. It was then I wrote to you for advice. You told me that by my symptoms you thought I had liver complaint and advised the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' in connection. These medicines I have since obtained, and am very happy to state that I commenced to get better from the start, and have not had a day this summer on account of my stomach. I feel top-top, and better than I have for ten years."

GAINED SIXTEEN POUNDS.
"It was twelve years ago that I derived so much help from Dr. Pierce's 'Pleasant Pellets,' writes Mrs. Olive Murray, Cook Co., Ill. "I was afflicted with a scrofulous tumor in the left side of my neck. It was fully as large as a large sweet potato, and so painful that I could get but little sleep at night. I doctored with several physicians, but without success. The tumor grew rapidly and became inflamed and my general health became impaired. I was very weak. One physician said I would be in consumption in a very short time. Our home physician said I would have to have the tumor removed, but afterward told my husband that I had heart trouble and he would not have me use chloroform ether, so he told me to be very careful; gave me medicine but did me no good. I went to Michigan, and was there three months, and while there took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and used 'Lugol's Solution' as directed in your pamphlet. While away I gained sixteen pounds, the tumor became smaller, and less painful, and today there is not a sign of it. I feel confident I shall never be troubled with it again. We think there is no medicine like Dr. V. Pierce's, and we have recommended it to a great many who have taken it with very favorable results. The Golden Medical Discovery cured my neck entirely."

Belgianian Belgians.
The Balkan mountains have been the homes and haunts of many brigands through centuries of Bulgarian history. In the sixteenth century a national movement against the oppression of Turkey fell into the hands of brigand chiefs. They were known by the name of Haiduths. They were represented as friends of the poor, the protectors of the weak, the allies of Christians and the foes of the Mohammedans. In legends and in songs their names and fame were perpetuated. They increased from the ranks of the avengers and the wolfish. Once identified with them a brigand's safety consisted in continuing with them. The Turks blocked the way to return to the ranks of common citizenship. Villagers often welcomed them as deliverers from their oppressors.—Lusilla's Week.
