Don't Treat Symptoms

Go after the cause. Stimulants and cathartics will never cure indigestion. They may temporarily relieve the system but the next meal clogs it again. The food should be digested. The nourishment—health—strength it contains should be appropriated—absorbed by the system.

KODOL

purifies, cleanses, strengthens and sweetens the stomach. This new discovery digests all classes of food and assists the stomach and digestive organs in assimilating and transforming it into the kind of nourishment that is taken up by the blood and fed to the tissues throughout the various organs of the body. Kodol cures indigestion and dyspepsia, thus removing the cause of all stomach troubles. Kodol gives strength to the body that it is invaluable in all wasting diseases.

"I wish to thank you for what Kodol has done for me," writes Clifton Glynn, Collett, Ind. "It cured me of dyspepsia after everything else had failed. When I tried Kodol it helped me right away. I cheerfully recommend it."

Kodol Digests What You Eat.

HOW TO CURE DANDRUFF.

If we lived in perfect harmony with the principles of truth we would not be afflicted with dandruff or baldness or deafness or blindness or any other "ness."

But until we do so live many will be helped by remedies, and out of that fact grows the multiplicity of hair restoratives and barber's lotions.

Mark Twain found he was getting along in years and growing bald and began to cast about for a remedy. He tried many but at last was advised to buy a stiff brush and brush his hair every morning.

He says he bought a very stiff bristle brush and plowed up his scalp every day, and at once began to grow a fine crop of hair. This demonstration ought to satisfy anyone. As Mark Twain has the hair.

A first class bristle brush has to be made by hand and costs from four to five dollars, but that is a small price to pay for a head of hair. Dandruff is nothing more nor less than an unclean head.

"I wrote Dr. Pierce regarding my case, and received a prompt reply, free."

"I endured nearly four years of suffering," writes Mrs. J. L. Myers, of Washington, W. D. "caused principally from improper medical attention after the birth of a child, and female weakness, resulting in a complication of diseases. Had a terrible cough and an incessant pain and soreness in lungs. Was reduced in flesh from 184 pounds to about 100 pounds in eighteen months. I had no appetite, and became so weak and nervous I could scarcely sit up. I doctored with our home physicians for two years with no benefit, I was finally induced to try Dr. Pierce's medicine. I wrote to Doctor Pierce regarding my case, and received a prompt reply, free, advising the proper medicine for my case. After taking four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and four of his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' three doses each day, also taking one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed and some of his 'Pellets,' I ceased coughing, and am now enjoying splendid health and have gained thirty-five pounds in weight. I again feel like my former self, thanks to Dr. Pierce and his great medicines."

Not women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter FREE. All correspondence strictly confidential, and all communications guarded by strict professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S DECISION. Theoretically the direct legislation amendment was part of the fundamental law of the state as soon as it was adopted. It is not and will not be statute law until it has been enacted by the legislature and executed by the properly constituted authority. There is no such thing under our form of government as "self-executing law."

If there were any such thing why is the slot machine law and scores of other laws, as plain as laws can be made, not "self-executing?" The constitution must be construed as a whole. The initiative and referendum amendment is a part of it. The whole constitution must be enacted into statutes before it is "self-executing."

The amendment is in full force and effect as an amendment and it may be taken advantage of by the people as it stands if everybody is willing. But Mr. Blackburn in his final round-up says: "THERE IS NO POSITIVE DIRECTION TO THE SECRETARY OF STATE TO SUBMIT ANY OF THESE MATTERS TO A VOTE OF THE PEOPLE." Let us suppose that the legislature shall fail to enact legislation to put the referendum into effect and the people acting under the amendment file a petition to pass a fat salary law under the direct legislation theory. Would not the Secretary of State agree with the above, that there was no law to submit anything?

The decision settles nothing. It may soothe the consciences of those who wanted to throw the people a populist sop and then deprive them from the benefit of putting it into effect. When it is considered how boldly and brazenly officials violate the letter and spirit of the existing constitution, talk about an untried experiment, like the referendum amendment, being "self-executing" must be received with a grain of allowance. If all the state officials were ardent champions of the people's rights under the amendment it might be "self-operative," but such is not the case.

The Governor assumes that the legislature shall act at the regular session, and if it should act at the regular session, why is it not more important that it shall act at a special session? The amendment itself provides that there shall be legislation to put it into effect, and then makes temporary provision that until laws can be enacted to put into effect the existing laws shall be effected to give the people the benefit of its operations. But it may be found that that was only a trick to deceive the people.

The principle of liberal construction of the amendment is stated by the Attorney-General as a reason why no legislation is needed. But "liberal construction" may be friendly or hostile to the popular rights. The very officials against whom the people seek protection will do the construing. They have construed it out of existence in South Dakota, just as they may decide to do in Oregon. The principle was "liberally construed" into the limbo of forgotten political nostrums in California. The politician's program is to keep the Referendum inoperative. Some who now contend it is in full force and effect will go into the courts and assail its operation because there is not adequate legislation to carry it into effect. That is "politics," as "she a played" everywhere.

CAPTAIN MACKLIN.

Richard Hardin Davis, who gained renown as a military attaché in the Spanish war and in South Africa, has written his most finished piece of fiction under the above title. The Scribners' have published what will probably stand as the best war story of the year.

The traditions of military heroism are maintained gallantly and justly, and yet without brutality. The hero is a gentleman and not a mere swaggering, butchering slaughterer of his own species.

The novel is lightly sprinkled with sentiment, and yet the end is manly and soldierly. There is not the usual conquest by petticoats with the accompanying sloppy apologies for a poorly arranged love story.

Captain Macklin is a story of action and dramatic interest. You feel at once that it is a finished work of art. It is mature and yet has the freshness and buoyancy that fascinates youth.

THE GRAPE CROP.

The markets show that Oregon is producing a very fine grape crop this year. There are grapes from Southern Oregon, from Butteville, and beautiful grapes from all over Marion county.

The Concord and the Niagara are the best kinds for table use. The latter is a seedling of the former and is a great improvement in some ways. It has a slightly musky aroma that some do not relish.

Near Salem are vineyards that are producing very fine vine grapes. Mr. Aufrance on the road just east of the penitentiary has a large crop of the white and black Burgundy. He grows tons to the acre.

He also grows several kinds of the French Riesling from which the most famous wines are made in Europe. These grapes are grown on the flat black prairie soil, but Mr. Aufrance is a vine-dresser by trade.

At Mt. Angel these wine grapes are grown to great perfection. All this proves that the grape industry is becoming quite important and may take rank with apples, prunes and straw berries some day.

participate, but is obsolete in its methods of giving information to the public about the gigantic grafts that are carried on against the public.

It is heavy on perspicacity, but a light-weight when it comes to telling the truth about any public official, unless it happens to have a grudge against him. Unfortunately, there are but few grafters who incur its omnia, and the public get but little benefit when it does show up one of them, because it is generally done to get even with some one, instead of being done because it is right. But people must not expect too much from a newspaper performing the obsolete function of a party organ.

The politicians of the state are not going to prevent a special session and consideration of the pledges they made the people without having the whole matter aired. The people voted for the referendum and flat salaries almost unanimously, and are entitled to a fair trial of these returns in good faith. The Journal believes they will get this, and believe those who trifle with such matters will be punished with public condemnation, as they deserve.
