Local Events in the Social Realm

GRAND SIGHT TO SEE.

And Something Also to Learn at the Glass Blowers' Show.

As the nature of the work of the glass blowers, who are giving exhibitions at 299 Commercial street, becomes better known the attendance grows larger. It is a show which everyone who sees will naturally advertise. The exhibitors of this wonderful work are the best in their line, and are same who made the glass for the Prince's Palace, of Spain, at the World's Fair in Chicago, in 1893, and about whom there was so much talk at that time.

Mr. Owen, the glass blower, who, assisted by Mrs. Owen, is giving these exhibitions in Salem, is a lecturer of more than ordinary ability, and makes clear to his audience as he proceeds with his work many things that in the hands of a less intelligent and fluent talker would remain as mysterious as they are interesting. A visit to Mr. Owen's exhibition cannot fail to prove educating in art and science.

Apart from the wonder which the glass blowers will excite there is much in their work that is a feast for the eye.

Everyone who attends the show is presented with one of the beautiful works of art, which, as a souvenir, is worth more than the price of admission, while, in addition to this, each patron who retains the coupon given with the admission ticket is promised a chance for a grand prize on Saturday night, and a certainty on some sort of a present as well.

The glass blowers will give exhibitions every afternoon and evening this week. It is certainly worth any one's time and money to see them at work and to learn a few things about natural science that everybody should know, and most everybody is ignorant of.
