CANAL PLANS MOVING

Minister Conchas Is Not Wanted

To Act For the Republic of Colombia

America Need Not Accept Panama Route

Washington, Dec. 1.—Senor Herran, of the Colombia legation called on Acting Secretary of State Hill this afternoon and informed him that Minister Conchas, owing to ill-health, was obliged to go to New York indefinitely, and that during his absence there in he was especially empowered to conduct the Panama canal negotiations in behalf of Colombia. Although the department has not received official advice, it is generally believed that Conchas has been recalled on account of dissatisfaction with his diplomacy, and Herran will act as minister and successor.
The check in the negotiations relative to the Panama canal has given great encouragement to the friends of the Nicaragua project, and the first evidence of renewed activity on their part was the appearance at the state department of Senor Corea, Nicaragua minister to Washington. Secretary Hay has several times called the attention of the Colombian government to the fact that under section 4 of the Spooner act, if he is unable to obtain control of the necessary territory in Colombia by treaty then he is required to obtain such territory from Costa Rica and Nicaragua.
It is now said to be probable that to emphasize his repeated declaration that the action of congress in the passage of the Spooner amendment did not finally commit the United States to the acceptance of the Panama route, Secretary Hay may proceed to draw up a treaty with Nicaragua and Costa Rica, and submit it to the senate, along with such a treaty with Colombia as he may be able to conclude. In this way the senate itself will have at hand the Nicaraguan-Costa Rican treaties, so that there will be no excuse for delay in the canal project.

INTERESTING FACTS

For Nearly Every Man, Woman or Child.

A short time ago we published an article recommending to our readers the new discovery for the cure of Dyspepsia, called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and the claims then made regarding the wonderful curative properties of the remedy have been abundantly sustained by the facts. People who were cautious about trying new remedies advertised in the newspapers and were finally induced to give Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets a trial were surprised and delighted at the results. In many cases a single package, costing but 50 cents at a drug store, made a complete cure, and in every instance the most beneficial results were reported. From a hundred or more received we have space to publish only a few of the latest, but assure our readers we receive so many commendatory letters that we will publish each week a fresh list of genuine, unsolicited testimonials, and never publish the same one twice.
From James Yemmelser, La Cross, Wis.: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are doing me more good than anything I ever tried, and I was so pleased with the results that I gave away several boxes to my friends, who have also had the same benefits.
From Jacob Anthony, Port Murray, New Jersey: I have taken Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with the best results. I had dyspepsia for six years, and had taken a great deal of medicine, but the Tablets seem to take right a hold, and I feel good. I am a farmer and lime burner, and I heartily recommend to every one who has any trouble with his stomach to use these Tablets.
From Mrs. M. K. West, Preston, Minn.: I have received surprisingly good effects from using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I gave one-half of my last box to a friend, who also suffered from indigestion, and she had the same good results.
From Mrs. Agnes K. Ralston, Cadillac, Mich.: I have been taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and am very much better, and feel very grateful for the great benefit I have received in so short a time.

It will positively cure Headache, Nausea, Belching, Flatulency, Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Kidney Troubles. Try a bottle and be convinced of its value. The genuine has Our Private stamp over the neck of the bottle. Avoid all substitutes and imitations.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a certain cure for all forms of indigestion. They are not claimed to be a cure-all, but are prepared for stomach troubles only, and physicians and druggists everywhere recommend them to all persons suffering from nervous dyspepsia, sour or acid stomach, heartburn, bloating or wind on stomach and similar disorders. 12-1-3-5

Congress and The Senate.

burn believes that the Sherman law is sufficient, if rigidly enforced.
Bills, placing coal on the free list, were introduced by Mudd, Republican, from Maryland, and Gaines, Democrat, from Tennessee.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—In anticipation of the receipt of President Roosevelt's message, members of the senate today assembled early in the senate chamber and the cloak rooms adjoining. Many of the senators, particularly the close personal and political friends of the President, such as Lodge, of Massachusetts; Burrows, of Michigan; Spooner, of Wisconsin; Fairbanks, of Indiana, and Scott, of West Virginia, were already familiar with the principal features of the message, but the reading of the important state paper of the President was marked with unusual interest. Those passages of the message treating of the trust and tariff issues were listened to with closest attention, notwithstanding the fact that the recommendation concerning the creation of a non-partisan commission and the cautious attitude regarding the question of trusts had been generally forecast. Equal interest was displayed by the senators in those portions of the message relating to the question of reciprocity with Cuba, and to the existing conditions in the Philippines, Porto Rico and Hawaii. The recommendation in regard to statehood for the territories, irrigation and the protection of forests evoked nods of approval from the Western senators. Mention of the satisfactory status of the isthmian canal question also was received with general approval.

There was a good attendance in the house long before the hour arrived for the assembling. The members gathered early, chatting and discussing prospective legislation. The trust and tariff issues were the main topic. The exchange of congratulations was in order among re-elected members, and everyone was jovially slapping everybody on the back. The arrival of the new speaker, the venerable "Uncle Joe" Cannon, was the signal for an ovation, which was graciously acknowledged by the distinguished member from Illinois.
Pushing about on the floor were crowds of visitors, mostly women, all anxious to obtain tickets which would entitle them to seats to witness the opening of congress. The opening of congress is distinctly a woman's day, and women were present in great numbers. Fashionably dressed in bright colors, they began to invade the galleries as early as 10 o'clock. Most of the sections were filled with women and children, and the time, up to the noon hour, was spent chiefly in admiring the floral tributes which adorned the members' desks. Many of them were of great beauty, and some of the mahogany desks were almost hidden beneath their fragrant burdens.
When Clerk McDowell rapped the house to order on the stroke of 12 there was not an empty seat in the galleries. Admiring constituents had even pre-empted the seats in the galleries, and they refused to leave. After the body had been wrapped to order the chaplain delivered the opening prayer. He prayed that the members and the speaker might receive Divine guidance during the session. The moment the chaplain concluded the members began to scatter about, and talk with old friends. William R. Hearst, the young newspaper publisher of New York, Chicago and San Francisco, and a new member of congress from New York City, was a conspicuous member on the floor. His was one of several new faces that was constantly pointed out to the gallery visitors by persons who recognized him. Looking fully as vigorous as he did a score of years ago was Representative Grosvenor, of Ohio, who was kept busy exchanging greetings with his friends. Other prominent members, whose desks were centers of attraction, were Babcock, of Wisconsin; Dalzell, of Pennsylvania;

Landis, of Indiana; Hitt, of Illinois, and Ketcham, of New York.

Speaker Henderson found his desk heaped high with floral tributes from his many friends and admirers. He was cordially greeted by his colleagues, who, without exception, it may be said, sincerely regret that he will soon disappear from the arena where he has been such a prominent and influential figure for so many years.

Congressman Richardson, of Tennessee, was another member who was surrounded during the brief session by Democratic representatives anxious to consult him. Payne, of New York, and Underwood, of Alabama, were also conspicuous on the floor.

It had been arranged in advance to swear in the new members, even though unprovided with credentials, there being no threats of a content. This plan was chosen on account of tardiness of returning boards of New York, Texas and Connecticut. Cannon dropped a bill into the basket providing for a $50,000 anthracite coal commission. Another, by Brownlee, of Tennessee, creates a bureau of Public Roads in the department of agriculture to secure national, state and local cooperation for permanent improvement of public highways. Before the gavel fell the appearance of Mrs. Roosevelt in the gallery created a stir. Congressman Taylor, of Ohio, threw a bomb into the Democratic ranks shortly after the preliminaries were through, by offering a resolution calling for the investigation of the title of Carter Glass, a newly-elected member from Virginia, to a seat. The question raised being whether negroes were not unlawfully deprived of a franchise. It was referred to the committee on election, of which Taylor is chairman. At 12:50 Henderson appointed Bingham, Hitt and Richardson a committee to wait on the President, and consult his wishes and ask for the message. Then in honor of the memory of Representative Russell, of Connecticut, the house adjourned.

The President's Message.
This document has been received at The Journal office and put in type, but cannot be given to the public until it has been delivered to congress, which will be on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Gasoline Engines

The man who has investigated gasoline engines knows that there are more points to be considered than he first thought.
The FairbanksMorse people build engines that have the weight and the strength to stand anything. They weigh more pounds than other engines; they have bronze boxes instead of babbit. They have platinum points on the sparkler. The shafts are forged turned to a perfect fit, and heavy enough to pull the load. The shaft and pitman runs in oil, making it all ways in best of condition. Suction feed, instead of gravity, the only safe feed to use, for gasoline in suspended tanks is a hazard.
