ILLINOIS ARSENAL BURNED

Shop A at Rock Island Destroyed

Loss Estimated at Nearly Two Million Dollars

Shop A, the principal storehouse of the Rock Island Arsenal was destroyed Tuesday night by fire, together with its contents, which included cavalry and infantry equipments of every description, and 1,000,000 rounds of Krag-Jorgensen smokeless ammunition. The contents were worth $1,500,000. The building was a massive structure, three stories in height, and was erected 20 years ago at a cost of $400,000.

The flames in the great institution endangered property worth many times the amount lost. The fire was under control by 1 o'clock Wednesday morning. Major Blunt, the commandant, estimated the loss at $1,900,000. There was no casualties so far as known.

Thousands of people stood on the sides of the river and watched the fire. When the flames got beyond the control of the arsenal fire brigade, an appeal for help was sent to Davenport, Rock Island, Moline and Des Moines. Two companies of firemen from each of these nearby cities responded, but by the time they arrived the storehouse was a mass of flames, and owing to the large amount of ammunition in the building, it was considered dangerous to life to permit them to approach the building. Accordingly all their efforts were directed towards preventing the destruction of other buildings of the plant. In this they were successful.

For full two hours, and even after the warehouse was a mass of glowing embers, there was a continuous rattle of exploding rifle ammunition.

The force of the Rock Island arsenal has been working under rush orders for several weeks. Fifteen hundred men have been employed, and the officers in charge have been advertising daily for more machinists needed to carry out the orders from the war department. While the factory of the arsenal is left practically intact, a great hole has been made in the government stores, and it is feared that the work in hand will be seriously delayed.

The new small-arms plant, just equipped at a cost of several million dollars, escaped the flames. This plant is now nearly in readiness to begin the turning out of the new modern rifles.

WESTON AND HERBERT

Vaudeville Monday and Tuesday

Show This Season Consists of Nine Big Acts

The Three Rosebuds the Very Cleverest Trio

W. A. Watson, the popular manager of the Weston and Herbert Big Vaudeville Company, is one of the best known performers in the vaudeville profession. He has devoted a lifetime to that particular line, and his musical specialty, which he presents in conjunction with Miss Herbert, is considered one of the greatest acts in vaudeville. In speaking of this particular form of amusement, Mr. Weston said: "Vaudeville is becoming more popular with the people every year, and we find many desertions from the ranks of the dramatic and operatic profession to the more lucrative life of vaudeville. Such well-known artists as Dorothy Morton, Peter F. Dailey and Willie Collier have left their first love and joined Vaudeville, and have scored the hit of their lives. We are giving the public this year more for their money's worth than they have ever received before. I believe that a successful manager should keep in touch with the times, and as his reputation improves he should also improve the medium through which he earned it."

The Weston and Herbert show this season consists of nine big acts, including Hugh J. Emmett, the celebrated monologist and humorist. Emmett is a decidedly clever entertainer. Apart from his really remarkable musical and ventriloquist abilities, he is possessed of a fund of quiet humor which never fails to "catch on."

The four Bragadons, a head line act and their character stunts and knockabouts, are a positive hit, and received with screams of laughter.

Miss May Myers, introduces new and beautifully illustrated songs. The Three Rosebuds are a clever trio, and they introduce the very latest songs, dances, and give a very pretty exhibition of Indian club swinging.

Edison's latest improved Bioscope shows new and intensely interesting Moving Pictures.

At the Grand Opera house Monday and Tuesday next week. Reserved seats are on sale at Theater boxoffice Monday at 9 a. m.; prices 35, 50, 75c.

"Blue Grass."

One of the best bills in the Shirley company's repertoire is "Blue Grass," a story of old Kentucky. In brief the story is as follows: A young husband happily married is followed to his happy home by an adventuress, who, with the object of blackmail, seeks to destroy his wife's affection for her husband. Repenting, she agrees to return a bundle of letters written in the earlier days when he was in college. They appoint to meet at the old ruined church—the wife follows expecting to see him with the beautiful adventuress, but finds her dead body instead. Brand, the husband, is suspected of the crime, arrested and locked up in jail. It is here in this act that the methods of the celebrated "White Caps" is fully illustrated. A howling mob of "White Caps" enter the jail, urged on by the real murderer, and they are in the act of dealing out their supposed justice when the friends of the young husband (in the disguise of "White Caps") hold the mob at bay and allow the intended victim to escape. This play will be mounted in a most elaborate manner, the stage settings and the scenery are promised to be the best ever seen in this theater. A real, live baby adds to the naturalness of the home scene in the first act.

"Blue Grass" tonight, Saturday night "Held by the Enemy," and Saturday matinee, "Under Two Flags."

RULERS OF THE WORLD

Meat Eating Nations Are the Leaders in Every Branch of Human Achievement

The ruling nations of the world are meat eaters and history records that they always have been.

Vegetarians and food cranks may explain this in any way they choose, but the facts remain that the Americans, English, French, Russians and Germans are meat eating nations, and they are also the most energetic and most progressive.

The principal food of the heroic Boer soldier, known as Biltong, is a sort of dried beef, affording a great deal of nourishment in a highly concentrated form.

The weak races of people are the rice eating Chinese, Hindoos and Siamese, regarded ever since the dawn of history as non-progressive, superstitious and inferior, physically and mentally, to the meat eating nations who dominate them.

The structure of the teeth plainly indicates that human beings should subsist upon a variety of food, meat, fruit and grains, and it is unhygienic to confine one's diet to any one of those classes to the exclusion of another.

Meat is the most concentrated and most easily digested of foods, but our manner of living is often so unnatural that the digestive organs refuse to properly digest meat, eggs and similar nutritious and wholesome food, but it is not because such food is unwholesome, but the real reason is that the stomach lacks, from disease or weakness, some necessary digestive element; hence arising indigestion and later on, chronic dyspepsia.

Nervous people should eat plenty of meat, convalescents should make meat the principal food, hard working people have to do so and brain workers and office men should eat, not so much meat but at least once a day and to insure its perfect digestion one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets should be taken after each meal, because they supply the peptones, diastase and fruit acids, lacking in every case of stomach trouble.

Nervous dyspepsia, catarrh of stomach, gastritis, sour stomach, gas and acidity are only different names for indigestion, the failure to digest wholesome food, and the use of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets cures them all because by affording digestion the stomach has a chance to rest and recover its natural tone and vigor.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the real household medicine; it is as safe and pleasant for the stomach of the baby as it is for the imperfect digestion of its grand sire.

They are not a cathartic, but a digestive and no pill habit can ever follow their use; the only habit Stuart's Tablets influence is the habit of good digestion and consequently good health.

Held by the Enemy."

What a lot of enthusiasm a good actor or actress can arouse in an audience. And this is especially the case in a military play, and with Americans in particular. We all want to form in battle array and go forth to fight for the Stars and Stripes. Every tribute paid to our country on the stage seems so much more patriotic, and then, when the orchestra plays old war-time melodies, the whole audience are ready to "do or die."

So the Shirleys made a decided hit with their rendition of "In the Hands of the Enemy" last night.

Their selection of this play was the most happy, as the company is adapted to it, and the whole performance goes through with a smoothness and vim that gives no chance for monotony.

The entire company did well, although one might criticize the work of Mr. Gilbert, as "Senor astro." The role is out of his usual line, and he seems to lack earnestness.

Mr. Harry B. Smith, manager of the company, is an excellent addition to the local orchestra, being a violinist of ability. His accompaniments to the songs of Miss Marsky were especially fine.

The crowds increase with each night, until the house is now taxed to seat all who come.

Tonight "Blue Grass," a swift moving story of old Kentucky, will be put on here for the first time.

A fine five acre tract and beautiful home, two blocks from car line, at a bargain.
