ELABORATE STYLES.
 Renaissance Embroideries - Ingenious Combination.
 Black pearls and renaissance scroll figure in all the many beautiful embroideries which seem to be an essential part of the dress of today, and many gowns have perpendicular bands of ribbon or embroidery carried all the way down the skirt.
 The blouses are particularly handsome this winter. They, most of them, have full sleeves set into a very deep gauntlet cuff, but a few of them have horizontal puffs from the wrist to the shoulder, and many are made of materials which appear to have ribbon stripes going downward, while other materials display chine effects. Rows of insertion are deftly introduced, sometimes in a series of vandykes across the front. Pretty and warm blouses for present wear are made of zennana cloth in pink and white, and other mixtures and blue ladies' cloth make up charmingly with white cloth applications.

It is curious to see what ingenuity is brought to bear in the trimmings of dress, the braid being even fringed at the ends to form garlandures.

Blue and green combined will be very smart all through the winter. Watered silk is a favorite mode for brides, but almost hidden by lace.

The hat shown is of tacked white felt threaded through with black velvet ribbons.

UP TO DATE TRIMMINGS.
 Groups in Black and White Applique.

Embroideries play a great part in the dressmaking and tailoring world, and they offer great scope for ingenuity.

Groups in white and in black applique are all the rage.

There is a fad at present for green, and this is very becoming to fair women. A beautiful peignee gown seen recently was of green zibeline cloth fastened down the side with tuffet and chiffon bows in different shades of green. This was worn with a big chinchilla toque trimmed with a green bird of paradise and tabs of green velvet ribbons.

The expensive Russian sable is closely imitated in this year's dyes of fine baum marten.

Next to the sack coat, the blouse style postillon back is the favorite style in fur coats.

The illustration shows one of these garments. It is made of sable with wide revers, a blouse front and a tight fitting postillon back.

WALKING SUITS.
 Zibelines and Speckled Materials. Motor Coats.

Walking suits are made with the skirts just clearing the ground. The materials are usually speckled tweeds or zibelines.

There is no doubt the craze for motoring has given a great impetus to the fur trade. Many of the motor coats have fur hoods large enough to throw entirely over the hat or toque.

Those that are long have the fullness of the skirt of the coat secured by buttons or loops on either side of the front, which certainly makes them very comfortable wear, for they are ready to vet resting on the lace. There were, furthermore, a wide chinchilla stole and a chiffon muff lined with green velvet. Both chinchilla and sable are handsome mixed with emerald green.

Plaids are very popular in Paris and are worn with particular charm by the Frenchwomen. They are not very bright, but mostly of nondescript mixtures, dull reds and greens. Plaid traveling toques are now to be seen in soft crushed shapes. They are very effective when worn with a smart tailor made.

The dress for a schoolgirl shown in the cut is of canvas's hair cheviot trimmed with braid and gilt buttons. The hat is of velvet.

FUR FASHIONS.
 Originality the Keynote of This Year's Garments.

Fur stoles are growing wider and even flatter. One of the newest ways of wearing them consists in tying the stole in a loose knot directly over the bust and letting the ends hang unevenly.

Muffs are very flat and larger than ever; they are trimmed with paws and tails.

The graduated collar with long stole ends is another smart style. Baum marten is especially effective made up this way with three little groups of paws and tails. The loose sack coat of squirrel is often lined with ermine and has a wide shawl collar of the same fur. This makes a very artistic garment.

let in and out at will. The sack shape and the three-quarter length characterize the newest garments of the moment, while pouched bodices are the mode for gowns.

Nearly all the jackets for out of door wear accompanying gowns are made wide enough to cover the chest well, and a great many have capes on the shoulders. Deep cuffs to the sleeves are still in favor.

The brown tailor made in the out has a three-quarter length coat trimmed with applications of panne. The collar is especially smart.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

I Did Not Feel That I Could Walk

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It is with thankfulness I write that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been of the greatest help to me. My work keeps me standing on my feet all day and the hours are long. Some months ago it didn't seem as though I could stand it. I would get so dreadfully tired and my back ached so I wanted to scream with the pain. When I got home at night I was so worn out I had to go right to bed, and I was terribly blue and downhearted. I was irregular and the flow was scanty, and I was pale and had no appetite. I told a girl friend who was taking your medicine how I felt, and she said I ought to take it too. So I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and commenced to take it. It helped me right off. After the first few doses menstruation started and was fuller than for some time. It seemed to lift a load off me. My back stopped aching and I felt brighter than I had for months. I took three bottles in all. Now I never have an ache or pain, and I go out after work and have a good time. I am regular and strong and am thankful to you for the change. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I hear of a girl suffering, for I know how hard it is to work when you feel so sick."—Miss MAMIE KEIRNS, 553 9th Ave., New York City.

Women should not fail to profit by the experiences of these women; just as surely as they were cured of the troubles enumerated in their letters, just so certainly will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure others who suffer from womb troubles, inflammation of the ovaries, kidney troubles, irregular and painful menstruation, nervous excitability, and nervous prostration; remember that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing women, and don't allow any druggist to sell you anything else in its place.

Miss Amanda T. Petterson, Box 131, Atwater, Minn., says:
 "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I hope that you will publish this testimonial so that it may reach others and let them know about your wonderful medicine.

"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with the worst kind of fainting spells. The blood would rush to my head, was very nervous and always felt tired, had dark circles around eyes.

"I have now taken several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am entirely cured. I had taken doctor's medicine for many years but it did me no good.

"Please accept my thanks for this most excellent medicine which is able to restore health to suffering women."

No other female medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles.

Those women who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred thousand times, for they get what they want—a cure. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Refuse all substitutes.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

The Cry of Macedonia.
 The facts, as stated in late dispatches, that Turkey is sending a large force of troops from Asia Minor into Macedonia and that great military preparations are in progress in Salonika, indicate that the war cloud in the Levant is already somewhat larger than the traditional "man's land."

Macedonia is of course the storm center, and the years are few in which the mutterings of discontent are not distinctly audible at Constantinople and at the European capitals.

It hardly need be said that Macedonia means to be free from Turkish rule; it is simply a question of time and opportunity. But time and opportunity involve several things—ripeness of preparation and feeling in Macedonia, unreadiness of Turkey, neutrality or friendliness of Russia and the quiescence of the other great powers.

However, the situation is causing great uneasiness in European capitals, and the Turk is unquestionably girding himself for another struggle to maintain his prestige in Europe. During the last century Turkey lost slice after slice of its territory, and it begins to look as if it were time for another portion of her domain to be freed.

Early in the last century Greece became independent, and Serbia, Roumania and Bulgaria, and later Crete, have secured their freedom, and Bosnia and Herzegovina have been taken by Russia, and Egypt and Cyprus by England, while Syria is put under the protection of France and other powers.

The great celebration of the victory of Shipka pass by the Russians and Bulgarians occurred just as the outbreak in Salonika and Monastir had become serious and is taken by the Macedonian revolutionists as a most favorable omen. It is regarded as significant that at the foot of Shipka pass the Russian government has built a magnificent Greek church, which was presented to Bulgaria as a permanent memorial of the five days' battle between the Russians, commanded by General Gourko, and the Turks, commanded by Suleiman Pasha. This was one of the greatest and most sanguinary battles of modern times. In it the Turks lost 60,000 in killed and wounded, and the Russians, whose defensive attitude exposed them to fewer perils, lost 30,000. It was fought just twenty-five years ago. In it Russia held its ground and subsequently under General Todleben captured Plevna and forced its way to the gates of Constantinople. Just why Russia chose to remember the battle in this signal way at this time may be surmised. It is not, however, to be wondered at that the building of the memorial should be interpreted in Macedonia and Bulgaria as evidence of the undying purpose of Russia sooner or later to drive the Turk out of Europe and open the Black sea through the control of the Bosphorus.
