

THAT THROAT-TICKLING

It's first, the throat;
Then, the bronchial tubes;
Next, the lungs;
At last, Consumption.

There's nothing so bad for a cough as coughing!
There's nothing so good for a cough as—

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

The best time to take it is when the cold first comes on, when the trouble is in the throat. Throat tickling, throat colds, throat coughs are all easily controlled with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Doct. A. first prescribed this nearly 60 years ago. They use it more today than ever. They know its ingredients. They understand how it heals congested membranes and overcomes inflammation. Ask your own doctor about using this medicine for colds, coughs, and all lung troubles.

J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.
Sole Agents: J. B. DANFORTH, St. Joseph, Mich.

"I had a terrible cough last spring, and it took just one bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral to completely cure me. I have used this medicine in my family for many, many years."

A RIGHT OF THE PEOPLE.

The Oregonian and other newspapers are saying that it is disloyal to Oregon to ask the referendum on the World's Fair bill and other large appropriations.

These newspapers go so far as to threaten to publish the names of all the voters who sign the petitions for the referendum.

No one should be frightened out of their intention to ask for a vote on anything that was done by the legislature.

The greatest confession of weakness in the virtue of the people would be to admit that they were not fit to vote on the question.

What is the referendum for if the people are not to be permitted to vote on appropriations as large as those rushed through at the session?

Why should anyone refuse to leave a matter to a vote of the people when they have to pay the bill? Yet read this:

The Oregonian will obtain from the office of the secretary of state the list of names of those persons who have so little pride in their state as to try to defeat the Lewis and Clark centennial.

It's So Easy

To take cold. It's so common to neglect the cold. That is one reason why there are so many people with "deep-seated," stubborn coughs, and so many more with "lung trouble."

The short, quick way to cure a cough is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The quicker this remedy is used the quicker the cure. But even when neglected on the lungs, "Golden Medical Discovery" may be relied on to cure in ninety-eight cases out of every hundred.

The only motive for substitution is to permit the dealer to make the little extra profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines. He gains. You lose. Therefore accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery."

"I am feeling quite well," writes Miss Dorcas A. Lewis of No. 1134 1/2 St. Washington, D. C. "My cough is very much better, and I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I cannot say too much in praise of the medicine. I had been quite a sufferer for a long time, and after reading Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Discovery, I commenced taking it in May, 1902. Had not been sleeping well for a long time. Took one teaspoonful of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and slept nearly all night without coughing, so I continued taking it. I am in great sympathy with everybody who suffers with a cough. I had been a sufferer for more than ten years. I tried lots of different medicines and different doctors, but did not feel much better. I coughed until I commenced applying blood, but now I feel much stronger and am entirely well. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine I have ever taken. My home is in Williamsburg, Virginia."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a ladies' laxative. No other medicine equals them for gentleness and thoroughness.

nal; and it will publish the list by counties. In this way it will be shown what dead weight Oregon is doomed for the present to carry.—Oregonian, March 22d.

Has Oregon had a greater handicap to carry for forty years than the Portland newspaper monopoly? Some persons think not, and if the people finally see fit to repudiate the whole fair, it will be due to that "and nothing more."

The Eugene Guard, commenting on the above, has this to say, and it is right to the point:

"The robber hits his victim on the head with a club or shoots him. In case he resists, the Portland paper proposes to take a more cowardly course—to attempt to injure its victims without taking chances of personal hurt. It will think some more, though, before it publishes the names of people who want the voters to have the opportunity to say if a half million dollars shall be taken from the wealth of the state that Portland may have a holiday. The Oregonian is in business. Not a few of the people whose names it might publish are its patrons."

THE GREATEST PROMISES.

We talk about politicians promising about prosperity of the material variety, but the promises of the Old Testament of the Hebrews exceeds by far the greatest promises ever made on this earth.

Read and try to understand the fifty-eighth chapter of Isaiah, and see if there is anything greater promised than you find in those words of Scripture.

We are enjoined to "loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, to let the oppressed go free, and to break every yoke."

We are told to deal our bread to the hungry, to bring in the poor that are cast out, to cover the naked and hide not ourselves from our own flesh, in the Hebrew scripture every man was our brother.

Then follow five verses of that chapter so pregnant with meaning that almost any man or woman with any belief whatever in the reality of spiritual life ought to feel encouraged to lead the better life.

Then shall the light break forth as the morning, and thine heart shall spring forth speedily; and thy righteousness shall go before thee; the glory of the Lord shall be thy reward.

Then thou shalt call, and the Lord shall answer; thou shalt cry, and He shall say, Here I am. If thou take away from the midst of thee the yoke, the putting forth of the finger, and speaking vanity.

And if thou draw out thy soul to the hungry, and satisfy the afflicted soul; then shall thy light rise in obscurity, and thy darkness be as the noonday.

And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought, and thou shalt be like a watered garden, and like a spring of water, whose waters fail not.

And they that shall be of thee shall build the old waste places; thou shalt raise up the foundations of many generations; and thou shalt be called, The repairer of the breach, The restorer of paths to dwell in.

FIELD WORK FOR YOUNG LADIES

The increased acreage of strawberries and the intention of the Fruit Growers' Union to pack for the larger city markets is going to require a better grade of pickers in the fields.

There is urgent need that many of the dyspeptic, short-winded and appetiteless young ladies one sees in the city take up some of the lighter kinds of field labor.

They would have rougher hands, less delicate complexions and have to wear coarser shoes, but their blood would circulate, their lungs would expand, and their muscles and sinews grow tougher.

They would sleep better at night, and require less calls from the physicians, and consume less patent medicines.

The idea of a young lady being a creature of flabby delicacy, with an occasional spurt of indoor gymnastics, if she be a college girl, ought to be dispelled among those who want to become attractive to men who think, and are not mere chasers after the butterflies of fashion.

Field work with the hoe or picking fruit will add years to the life of the average city belle, and make her a woman who will endure the stress of life's more serious duties, to say nothing about enabling her to earn some money by honest industry for valuable services rendered.

The high-backed corsets and collars three inches high would have to come off, and give themselves a breathing spell.

Young ladies of fashion and society, think about it and give yourselves a chance in the race for life.

THE MIGHTY RIVER'S WORK.

Do we fully appreciate the beauty, the tireless industry and the moral quality of tireless endeavor on the part of a river?

Stand on the light bridge which spans the Willamette, and watch the hurrying water as it speeds onward to the sea. How restless it is; how eager to remove all traces of winter; what sweet music it makes at its work; how angry it gets if aught opposes its progress, and how sure is the vengeance which follows. For has not the spring come, and is not the long period of rains and floods past and gone? Think of the business that must be done before another rainy season returns! The land must be clothed and fed and adorned—decked out in the wondrous tints of summer and autumn; made beautiful and rich with all manner of flowers and fruit, for beauty and for use. So in the space between winter and summer, when all nature breathes forth a sigh of relief, the river hurries and bubbles, gurgling with joy as it passes under the bridge; bearing on its surface many a relic of the past, flooding the lowlands as it goes upon its way, knowing that there is a time to give and a time to withhold; a time to work and a time to play.

Surely all who are listless and dawdling can learn a lesson from merely gazing at the busy stream.

THE FIGHT FOR CONGRESS.

Of course, the big timber land thieves have no interest in who shall be sent to congress from this district!

The great corporations and syndicates, the Eastern timber land locusts, are all indifferent as to who shall be representative from this district!

The combinations that have gutted Oregon of hundreds of thousands of acres of the finest timber in the world at merely nominal prices, they do not care who goes to congress!

They have robbed the state and the United States, and will continue so to do, and they are entirely indifferent about who shall be congressman, so long as he does not interfere with their graft!

A congressman with the energy and the ability to stop the whole swindle, and back the administration in its fight to save the remnants of public lands for the homesteader, is wanted in this district.

A candidate who, on the stump and in congress, and with tongue and pen would expose those frauds is what the people want.

Will they get such a man? Yes, over the left, in the neck-bone, NIT!

JOURNAL SPECIAL DELIVERY.

A number of places of business in the suburbs of the city are being supplied with sub-stations for the delivery of The Daily Journal.

In South Salem, Mr. A. Daus has kindly consented to act as the distributing agent, and a postoffice has been established there.

Subscribers who wish to receive their mail at these sub-stations will pay no extra charge, and have The Journal served earlier, and brought within one to three blocks of their own door.

The popularity of The Journal with all classes of readers is unabated, and the natural increase of circulation is constant.

Its growing family of readers is invited to read the advertisements, and call on the advertisers for what they announce, and tell them where they saw the ad.

The number of Salem families that rely for information on a Portland or San Francisco paper is growing smaller all the time.

Salem has the best evening paper in the Northwest, so far as we know. Salem is the best town in Oregon that we know anything about.

THE RUSH TO GRAB LAND.

The craze of the age is to grab land, not to learn how to make use of it.

Even the so-called students at our agricultural colleges are more keen to get hold of a government land-grab or a clerkship than to ever work land themselves.

But that is American human nature—or rather human nature the world over.

It is inherent in the human race to want monopoly of the earth, air, water, sky and to want office—in short to want privilege.

The rush to grab land is only a repetition of the feudal system of Europe, where a few lordly landholders have always owned the earth, and held the majority of the earth as serfs and renters.

The establishment of that kind of an aristocratic graft is about the main result of government for the past twenty years.

While an occasional citizen gets 160 acres big syndicates grab millions of acres.

THE RIGHT TO DISAGREE.

Some people seem to be of the opinion that unless they believe with the editor of The Journal on the different subjects it becomes his duty to write that they should not send in any communication on the topic, or set forth their views in the columns of this paper.

This is surely an error. We do not desire to be wrong, and doubly anxious are we not to advise or counsel others wrongly, and for these very reasons, it is when you differ from us, that we are most anxious to have your views of the situation.

If a question is discussed in a purely impersonal way there is no need for giving your name to the public; but the name of the writer should always accompany the manuscript, so that the office may know its correspondents.

The Journal's columns are always open to both sides of any question, and let the readers judge for themselves.

Dear old Oregon is to get a ten thousand-dollar exhibit from Missouri, after having spent about five times that much on the St. Louis exposition. Well, it gave Governor Geer employment in the meantime, and that is important. It would be a shame for a man of such ability to ever have to go to work for a living again.

There are still a few of the men living in Germany who made the "March days" historical in the revolution of 1848. That was the German war of the revolution, although "Einheit und Freiheit" were not accomplished until 1872, and not as fully then as the patriots of 1848 planned for, and almost accomplished.

Well, if the United States is maintaining any suzerainty in the Philippine archipelago, they are quiet, orderly, well-behaved little fellows, and don't stir up any trouble, like the big sultan of Turkey. That fellow ought to have his head chopped off.
