

A CHILD'S LIFE FOOD

Physicians speak of fat food as "life food" and say that all children ought to have it in abundance. They say too, that weak, thin, nervous children must have fat food and recommend Scott's Emulsion.

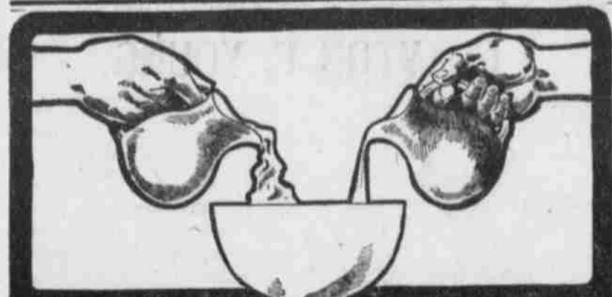

It promptly returns sickly, delicate children to rosy health. It is the life of flesh-creating food and keeps the scale of child-health evenly balanced.

Being prepared for easy digestion Scott's Emulsion is readily accepted by the stomach and quickly passed into the blood. There commences at once the repairing of wasted tissues, the enrichment of the blood and the strengthening of the whole system.

Any child who needs more and better nourishment than it seems to be getting from its ordinary food will be greatly benefited if given Scott's Emulsion:

DAVIS DEFAULT REVIVED

By Petition for Rehearing Being Filed

Crawford Says State's Claim is Not Outlawed

Attorney-General Crawford has filed a petition for rehearing in the suit of the State of Oregon upon the bond of George W. Davis, the defaulting clerk of the state land board. Mr. Crawford raises several questions not presented in the briefs in the case when it was tried by his predecessor, Attorney-General Blackburn, the principle contention being that under the language of the stipulation of facts, it is not agreed that the defaultation took place prior to January 1, 1895, and as the suit was commenced more than six years later than that, the courts held that the state's claim was outlawed. It was generally understood that the stipulation into which Attorney-General Blackburn entered expressly agreed that the conversion occurred Attorney-General Crawford does not view it in that light. He says in his petition for rehearing:

"All the stipulation shows is, that up to and including the 31st day of December, 1894, Davis had collected $363,927.43, and had state treasurer's receipt for the same period of only $322,945.45, leaving an apparent balance of $40,981.98 in his hands, which he did not pay over until after the first day of January, 1895.

"It is entirely consistent with the facts stipulated that Davis received all of this balance on the 31st day of December 1894, and paid it over to the state treasurer the 2d day of January, 1895. At least there is nothing in the facts stipulated that warrants any conclusion of law to the contrary.

"Therefore it seems clear that unless the mere facts of the receipt of this balance on the 31st day of December, 1894, and failure to pay it over until the 2d day of January, 1895, afford a conclusive inference that such payment was not made within a reasonable time regardless of any other circumstances or conditions, actual or possible, the court cannot so conclude as matter of law and determine that Davis did not make 'immediate payment' thereof, and thereby committed a breach of that obligation of his bond. Also, it is obvious that any conclusive inference of an actual conversion from the same facts would be even more difficult to sustain.

"Davis could not pay the money over on the intervening first day of January, 1895, as that was a legal holiday and the ordinary methods of collecting and paying over money in large amounts through drafts and checks on banks, of which the court must take judicial notice, furnishes a ready explanation of the only delay in payment which the court can say as a matter of law occurred in this case, and is of itself sufficient to preclude any legal conclusion that the payment was not made within a reasonable time."

In support of his contention that the defaultation occurred after January 1, 1895, Mr. Crawford cites the report of the legislative investigating committee which says that the books of the office were correct and all moneys accounted for on February 23, 1895. This report has been claimed as a settlement between the state and Davis and his bondsmen up to that time, but Mr. Crawford chooses to view it as evidence that all money had been accounted for up to that time, and that the shortage occurred later. It being agreed that nearly $41,000 was converted by Davis, and there being evidence that it was taken after February 23, 1895, the reasonable inference is that the actual defaultation occurred on July 31, 1895, at which time Davis' term of office ended and at which time he should have accounted for all moneys received by him for the state. There was also a stipulation that Davis collected $60,621.46 after January 1, 1895, and paid a like sum into the state treasury. Mr. Crawford contends that it is not agreed and is not a necessary inference that the money paid after that date was the same money collected. The money paid, he asserts, may have been money collected prior to January 1st.

Numerous authorities are quoted to sustain the contention that where there is no proof showing the time of a misappropriation, the presumption must be that it occurred at the end of the term. The attorney-general also argues in his petition that even if it be established that the defaultation did occur prior to January 1, 1895, the fraudulent concealment of the conversion should prevent the running of the statute of limitation until such time as the state had an opportunity to discover the wrong. If Mr. Crawford's view of the effect of stipulation is correct the state may recover $5000 of the $31,000 embezzled by Davis.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

A Remedy Which Has Revolutionized the Treatment of Stomach Troubles

The remedy is not heralded as a wonderful discovery nor yet a secret patent medicine, neither is it claimed to cure anything except dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach troubles with which nine out of ten suffer.

The remedy is in the form of pleasant tasting tablets or lozenges, containing vegetable or fruit essences, pure aseptic pepsin government test, golden seal and diastase. The tablets are sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Many interesting experiments to test the digestive power of Stuart's Tablets show that one grain of the active principal contained in them is sufficient to thoroughly digest 3000 grains of raw meat, eggs and other wholesome food.

Stuart's Tablets do not act upon the bowels like after dinner pill and cheap cathartics, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines without having any effect whatever in digesting food or curing indigestion.

If the stomach can be rested and assisted in the work of digestion it will very soon recover its normal vigor, as no organ is so much abused and overworked as the stomach.

This is the secret, if there is any secret, of the remarkable success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, a remedy practically unknown a few years ago, and now the most widely known of any treatment for stomach weakness.

This success has been secured entirely upon its merits as a digestive, pure and simple, because there can be no stomach trouble if the food is promptly digested.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act entirely on the food eaten, digesting it completely, so that it can be assimilated into blood, nerve and tissue. They cure dyspepsia, water brash, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive power which weak stomachs lack and unless that lack is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure by the use of "tonics," "pills and cathartics," which have absolutely no digestive power.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be found at all drug stores, and the regular use of one or two of them after meals, will demonstrate their merit better than any argument. $30-4-1-3

GOOD FOR CHILDREN. The pleasant taste and harmless effect of Stuart's Cough Cure gives immediate relief in all cases of Cough, Croup and Laryngitis, because it does not pass immediately into the stomach, but takes effect right at the seat of the trouble. It draws out the inflammation, heals and soothes and cures permanently by enabling the lungs to contribute pure life-giving and life-sustaining oxygen to the blood and tissues. For sale by F. G. No Truth in Rumor. Chicago, March 31.—Attorneys for the election commissioners this afternoon telegraphed Washington asking that the protection of the general government be given them to prevent Lorimer's forces from getting possession of the ballots in the Lorimer-Durborow congressional contest by force. An answer is said to have been received promising to review the case in the federal courts by the judge, who will be sent to give both sides an impartial hearing.

Chicago, March 31.—The report sent out last night that the troops would be called for in the Lorimer-Durborow election contest is utterly without foundation.

WINONA.
Two times seven thou art today,
My dear, my precious daughter,
Time speeds upon his winged way
Around his cycles, day by day
Swift as the rushing water.
But yesterday thou wert a child—
Today a maiden fair,
Thou'st many a weary hour beguil'd
With song and kiss and laughter wild
And banished many a care.

But lo! the years have chang'd the scenes,
Days agone, are mem'ries now,
By all that love or hope e'er means,
To papa thou art queen of queens,
More fair than royal brow.

What e'er thy fate this thought embrace
Talisman and charm 'twill be—
Keep pure thy heart thy childhood's grace
A wreath of smiles, a bright sweet face,
The world will smile with thee.

There's much of weeping, much of woe,
Of sunny smiles too few,
Make heavy hearts to lighter grow,
And pale, sad faces, to brighter glow,
Let sunshine follow you.

God bless thee now—God bless thee ever,
My little girl, twice seven,
God bless thee now—forsake thee never.

But bear thee on, and on forever,
Unto the gates of heaven.

"Reaping the Harvest."
Resplendent with beautiful scenery, presented by a strong cast, in which the author appears at the head, comes the popular play, "Reaping the Harvest," at the Grand opera house, Friday night, April 3.

While this is the second season of the play, it will be its first visit to Salem, and in lieu of its coming with such splendid endorsements it is safe to say the engagement will be a profitable one. "Reaping the Harvest" is a grand powerful story of human emotions which finds its atmosphere in Louisville, Kentucky, on Elmwood Heights, with the historic Elmwood drive in the distance. Act third introduces you to quaint old Clarksville, Ohio, in its beautiful autumn dress. The historic Kronk Tavern in this act will be readily recognized by anyone who has ever visited the quaint old town of Clarksville, Ohio. With act four the scene goes back to Louisville showing the new home of the illuminated snow scene of Christmas eve. Seats on sale at boxoffice Friday, April 3, at 9 a. m.; prices, 75, 50, 35.

WOMEN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ and, of course, stops falling hair, and cures baldness.

Is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary H. Crick, of White Plains, N. Y., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years—tried all kinds of remedies, but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength, and can eat whatever I like. Kodol digests what you eat, and makes the stomach sweet." For sale by F. G. Haas, 96 State street.
