

Clocks that tell no Lies

There are a great many lying clocks about—clocks that have gotten so used to telling time incorrectly that it is an ingrained habit. If you possess such a clock we want you to consider the purchase of a new one. Drop in this store and see the magnificent lot of new mantel clocks just received. They have splendid works—the kind that last a life time and are truly beautiful in design and finish. Priced at from $5.50 to $20.00—and each one at less than its rightful price, at that.

Miss Collette to Wed.

Miss Susie Collette, one of Salem's most accomplished salesladies, today severs her connection with the Dalrymple dry goods house, where she has been employed for nearly four years, and her many friends will be pleased to learn that on April 22d this estimable young lady will be married to Mr. Fremont Woodworth, of Tacoma. She leaves next Monday for Everett, where she will visit her friend, Mrs. Kag, a former Salemite, and at whose home the marriage will take place. Mr. Woodworth is a railroad man on the Northern Pacific, and many people hereabouts think he must be a lucky fellow indeed. Many will regret to have Miss Collette leave Salem, yet all sincerely rejoice in her good fortune, and join in good wishes for the forthcoming event.

Hanford Coming Again.

Readers of the Journal will recall the contest conducted by this paper a year ago to select the most popular saleslady in Salem. The prize was a theater party for the favorite and her friends at the presentation of "The Taming of the Shrew," by Charles B. Hanford and his company. No more delightful theatrical performance was given in Salem last year, and the announcement that Mr. Hanford is to return in a new play is a guarantee of a treat that none should miss. Mr. Hanford will appear on this occasion as "Benedict" in "Much Ado About Nothing."

First Anniversary.

The local union of painters and paper hangers will appropriately observe the first anniversary of the organization of their union this evening by giving a program at their hall in the Turner block. All members of the union and their families are invited.

Studying Art.

A class in art has been organized under the personal direction of Ivey, the painter. There are about 50 members in the class, from all parts of the state, and the course will cover three weeks. Three members of the class reside in Salem. They are: Mrs. T. T. Geer, Mrs. J. N. Brown and Miss Callista Moors.

Frizzell, who spent the Easter vacation in Salem with relatives, returned to Eugene yesterday. Miss Lillian Metschan, after an extended visit with relatives in this city, has returned to her home in Portland.

SUPREME COURT OPINIONS

John Lichty Wins Out in Water Right Dispute

Albany Saloon Dealer Must Stand a Fine

Three opinions were handed down by the state supreme court this afternoon. Two cases were affirmed and the third reversed and remanded for a new trial. The following cases were decided:

Lichty Wins Case. Union Light and Power Co., appellant, vs. John Lichty, respondent, from Marion county; R. P. Boise, judge; affirmed; opinion by Chief Justice Moore.

This was a suit to restrain the defendant from interfering with the natural flow of the waters in Silver Creek. Lichty constructed a dam in the stream about six miles above appellant's light station, and used the same as a means of providing a sufficient flow of water to float his logs to market. The operation of the dam deprived the appellant company of sufficient water power to run its plant for two days in the summer of 1902, hence the suit was brought to enjoin Lichty from further interrupting the flow of water in the creek. Lichty maintained that, as riparian proprietor, he had the right to the use of the water. This was denied by the plaintiff company, which insisted that Lichty could not retard the flow of the water to facilitate the floating of his logs, when, by so doing, injury resulted to its business. In reviewing the testimony adduced at the trial of the case, the court holds that Judge Boise had the right to dismiss the suit since the company had a remedy at law, in an action for the recovery of the damages it sustained.

In Albany's Favor. H. L. Cranor, appellant, vs. The City of Albany, respondent; from Linn county; R. P. Boise, judge; affirmed; opinion by Justice Bean.

Cranor was convicted in the Albany recorder's court for selling liquor on Sunday, in violation of the city ordinance. He instituted writ of review proceedings, but the action of the recorder's court in imposing a fine of $50 and costs, was affirmed. Plaintiff then appealed. The principal contention of the appellant was that the ordinance under which he was convicted is invalid, because it was not within the power of the council to enact.

The Albany city charter gives the council power and authority "to tax, license, regulate, restrain and prohibit the sale of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, etc., and the court holds that the power thus vested in the council gives it the power to prohibit, by ordinance, the sale of liquor on Sunday.

Other errors on the part of the trial court were alleged, but the court finds that no error was committed, and affirms the lower court.

Southern Oregon Case. N. B. Nye, respondent, vs. The Bill Nye Gold Mining and Milling Company, appellant; from Jackson county; H. K. Hanna, judge; reversed and remanded; opinion by Justice Wolverson.

This was an action brought to recover wages amounting to $900, alleged to be due plaintiff for services furnished defendant corporation, as foreman. The trial court gave plaintiff judgment for the amount sued for, but the case is reversed by the supreme court, because of a defective complaint.

Governor Makes Appointments. Governor Chamberlain this afternoon announced a number of appointments, as follows:

Battle With an Ax

Redding, Cal., April 6.—E. Ogilvie and S. McCaw fought a bloody duel near the Doon mill, in Butte county, today. McCaw used an ax and cut his antagonist three times on the head and face and severed one thumb. Ogilvie knocked McCaw down afterwards, when McCaw again grabbed the ax and chopped Ogilvie's head open.

Silk Weavers to Strike. Valencia, Spain, April 6.—A general strike is feared here today, which will affect the entire silk industry.

To Clean Silk or Wool. For silk or fine wool goods, such as cashmeres, flannels, etc., gasoline is a much better cleansing agent than water. For a dress waist about one gallon of gasoline will be required. Take one-half of this and place in a clean pan or washbowl. Put the garment in and wash with the hands, rubbing good white soap on the soiled spots same as with water. Squeeze and rub until the dirt is loosened, then squeeze dry and rinse in the remaining fluid. Squeeze dry or partly so and hang in the open air until the odor has evaporated. Never use this in any room where there is a light or fire, as the gasoline is very inflammable. Goods cleaned in this way require no ironing.

New Silver. New silver frequently is lacquered. In other words, the surface has been varnished with a solution of gun cotton and other. This is done by manufacturers to prevent the silverware being tarnished, also to keep the surface in good condition. The varnish sometimes peels off, leaving the exposed surface to tarnish. In this case there is nothing to do but to place the silver in boiling water for two or three minutes, after which the lacquer can be easily removed. Silver can be relacquered if desired.

Dusty Books. To free books from an accumulation of dust, first brush them carefully. Then, holding with the backs uppermost, rap them gently upon a table or other solid surface so that the dust will drop out from between the leaves. Repeat this operation, holding the book on end. Then carefully wipe again and return to the shelf. This is the way a librarian does it.

Wooden Tubs. When wooden tubs or pails have to stand for some time, instead of filling them with water, which is sure to become stagnant, try painting them over with glycerin. The wood will not shrink until the glycerin dries on, and that will not happen for months.

Thoughtless Gran'ma. Master—What are you crying for? Office Boy—My grandmother's dead, and she's going to be buried on a holiday.—Judge.

Promptly Accepted. He—You are not the girl to give yourself away, are you? She—No; but you might ask father.—Judge.
