

MRS. IDA McDONALD,

Supreme Deputy of the Maccabees of the World.

MRS. McDONALD, No. 477 Beaubien Street, Detroit, Mich., is a prominent woman who was greatly benefited by the great woman's medicine, Wine of Cardui. Mrs. McDonald is the supreme deputy of the Maccabees of the World, and is one of the most widely known women in the United States. Thousands of women gather to hear her lecture everywhere she goes. The great work she has done for the Maccabees is appreciated by every member of the order. She was so absorbed in her work that she neglected to give her health proper care—failed to take warning that the symptoms of approaching kidney trouble gave her, the anlow complexion and torpid liver. But Wine of Cardui cured her the same as it has cured thousands of others and Mrs. McDonald has written this letter in order that other suffering women may secure from Wine of Cardui the same relief she got from it.

that I must do something to regain my health. A friend advocated your Wine of Cardui treatment so strongly that I decided to try it, although I had little faith in patent medicines. I am now very thankful that I did so, for within ten days blessed relief came to me, and in less than three months I was cured, and have enjoyed fine health ever since. I know there is nothing better for a sick woman who wishes to enjoy perfect health and am very pleased to give my hearty endorsement.

No suffering woman can afford to ignore such a letter as Mrs. McDonald writes. Her plans and advice have proved valuable in building up one of the greatest women's organizations in the United States and she takes time to give advice which she knows will help you.

Do not delay in securing this medicine. There is nothing to gain and everything to lose by delay. The choice is before you. Will or will you not secure relief now by taking Wine of Cardui? All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui as well as 25c packages of Tholford's Black-Drainage.

For four years I suffered with torpid liver until my skin looked yellow and dull. I then found my kidneys were affected and had severe pains across my back, and I felt

ROAD SENSE FROM B. L. H.

Of Road District Number Two Marion County

Ed. Journal: I wish to give a few practical ideas on road building, to the supervisors of the state. Good roads are the most important thing in any state, and the first thing to be considered—for it is the basis—is the grading.

Never plow up the center of the road, leave eight or twelve feet in the center. This is firmer than you can make it, and is a benefit for under-drainage. Where it is possible have the grade slope to the center of the ditch; have no square banks next to the road where it can be avoided; build your grade one foot higher than enough. A grade wide enough for two tracks, eighteen feet, make a better road than one forty feet wide. The eighteen foot grade should have one gravel track and one dirt. You can grade two miles of the two track road and keep it in better condition than you can one mile of the forty foot grade at the same expense. The grading of a road should be done as early as possible, say in March, and not later than April—it will pack much quicker while the earth is damp, and there will be less dust. No gravel should go on a road until it is thoroughly drained and graded, for in time it will be lost by making a grade. Coarse gravel should be used first on a new grade, this should be packed well with a roller, and then given a coat of fine gravel. Then you will have a road bed for ages. To get the most benefit of your gravel, where it costs $1.50 per yard, after your grade is finished, use an average tread wagon, drive correctly where you want the track to be, then take a good sized plow and run two furrows eight inches deep, plowing out the wagon track and throwing the dirt to the center. Fill the furrows with gravel. One yard will go as far as three spread in the old way. Gravel never ought to be spread any wider than the tread of the wagon, where you only want one track. The gravel will soon scatter it wide enough. Road builders ought to bear in mind not to gravel permanently hills or hollows, for sooner or later the hills will be graded down, and the hollows filled up, and the work will be lost. In regard to culverts and small bridges, they ought to be put on a level with the surface of the road. If it would cost $3 to build a wooden culvert and $15 to build a stone one, the stone would be the cheapest in the end. About dirt roads, where gravel or crushed rock is not to be had grading and drainage is the main thing, and while the grading is being done a six or eight-ton roller should be taken over the center of the grade as often as the grader goes. The road should have as much attention in the fall as in the spring. It should be gone over after the first rains, and be rounded up with the grader, and the holes filled up, and the gravel put back in the center. Clean out your ditches and culverts, then you will get some benefit of your spring work. Two loads of gravel put on in the fall is worth more than three put on in the spring. I imagine some one will say, "any fool ought to know this much," but show me the man that has back-bone and brains enough to put these few thoughts into practice.

INSURANCE REPORT ISSUED

State Received $43,000 from this Source Last Year

Secretary of State Dunbar, as state insurance commissioner, has issued a statement with reference to the amount of insurance business done in this state during the past 12 months. Comparative figures are given in the report covering a period for a dozen years back and indicating the remarkable growth of this business since 1887. During the past year the state realized from the various insurance companies doing business in the state the sum of $43,503.90. This represents the aggregate of the license charged for doing business, and the 2 per cent tax on net premiums that is collected from each company.

PAINTERS UNION CELEBRATE

Their First Annual Anniversary

Numerous Recitations, Music and Addresses

The Painters' Union of Salem was organized April 3, 1902, and last night celebrated its first birthday event.

The letters B. P. D. P. A. (Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America) were over the speaker's stand. C. A. Bort, Mel Ringo and Robt. Penton were the committee in charge of the entertainment.

Frank Willman presided, and explained the benefits of fraternity induced by unionism and personal acquaintance of painters with each other.

"We receive," said the speaker, "a funeral benefit in case of death of members, or, if we should be so unfortunate, of our wives." This caused some merriment among the married ladies present.

Judge Judah Speaks.

The chairman next introduced the speaker of the evening, who discussed "Shall the Labor Unions Live?" He answered in the affirmative in his usual vigorous fashion.

He argued that labor unions would live until there was no more need for such organizations. The cause of labor unions was in its own keeping. It stood for good order and fraternity, its mission was Christlike. It could fight no conscienceless battle, and its leaders must be thinkers. The demands of the union must be founded on justice, and proceed on a wise council. Unions should study the cause for which they were organized, and employ their power intelligently. In order that it may live and perform the duties for which it is called into existence.

Mr. Judah was loudly applauded at the conclusion, and his address will be published in full in our next issue. Ristine's orchestra now played a number in their usual spirited manner.

"Just Like Other People" was recited by Miss Edna Parrish. It was a very fine rendition that greatly delighted the audience.

H. M. Buell, of the Painters' Union, recited how Peter Sorghum won his bride, and won a generous round of deserved applause.

Gid Sherwood was down for a recitation, but in his introductory speech intimated that a number of the young ladies present were, or wanted to be, members of the Painters' Union. He would not wipe his nose on anything but a union-made handkerchief (laughter). He had gone three blocks out of his way this evening to buy five cents worth of goods. If all would do that unionism would live. He then recited "Go 'Way, Becky Miller, Go 'Way," and won a good round of applause.

Jack Ristine gave two fine specimens of clog dancing, receiving an encore.

Ed. Ristine gave an alphabetical recitation that caused a great deal of amusement, some of the ladies nearly doubling up over some of his jolly cracks. There are few better entertainers than the Ristines.

The evening closed with more music and an elegant spread of refreshments in the banquet hall.

FEE WILL ADVANCE

Marriage Licenses Will Cost $3 Each After May 1

Officiating Clergymen Must Make Two Certificates

Persons of limited financial means, contemplating matrimony, had better conclude all negotiations, including the performance of the ceremony or at least procure the requisite license, before May 1, for on that date, the charge for a wedding permit in this county will be increased from $2.25 to $3 each. At the last session of the state legislature the fee to be charged for these licenses was made uniform throughout the state and placed at $3.

The law making this change was introduced by Malarkey of the Multnomah delegation, and in addition to increasing the license fee, the law requires that all ministers and magistrates officiating at these ceremonies, shall certify to the performance of the ceremony and to make a return of the same to the county clerk in which the ceremony is performed and also to the clerk of the county from which the license issued. Under the requirements of the law now in force the officiating magistrate is required to file this certificate only with the clerk of the county in which the ceremony is performed. Quite frequently the marriage ceremony is performed in other than the county from which the license issued and under the old law in such cases there existed no record of the performance of the ceremony. It can now be easily determined if the marriage really takes place. There has been instances in this county where the prospective bride changed her mind after the license was procured and failed to perform her part of the expected service.

HELD SOCIAL MEETING

Yew Park Volunteer Fire Fighters Drink Cider

The members of the volunteer fire department of Yew Park held an enjoyable social meeting at their hall on Tuesday evening, the occasion being the regular monthly meeting of the organization. But instead of extinguishing fire, the fire laddies consumed in one form, that which not only quenches fire but thirst. Knowledge of the meeting, and admiring the efforts of the residents of that section of the city in protecting against serious loss by fire, G. Stolz, a member of the city council, sent the boys a generous quantity of sweet cider, that was fully enjoyed. Although Mr. Stolz's property is located without the boundaries of the district that is served by this organization of fire fighters, it is a safe guess that if any of that gentleman's building were in danger of destruction by fire that the department would tender its services.

The volunteer department is in splendid condition. It is well organized, and has a full membership of 33, while there is many others desirous of having their names enrolled on the membership list. The company is captained by Wm. Siegmund, as chief, and on several occasions he has demonstrated his efficiency in preventing serious loss of property in that district.

Male Attendants at Asylum Have Filed Petition

With Board for Increase of About $5 Each per Month

At a meeting of the asylum board Monday afternoon, a petition was received from the male attendants at the state insane asylum, asking for an increase in the salaries being paid them. The board is asked to revise its schedules of salaries to conform to the following: Maximum salary all first attendants, $45 per month; maximum salary all second attendants, $42.50; maximum salary all third attendants, $40. This represents an increase in the schedule now in effect of about $5 each per month for the attendants who are concerned. The petition asking for an increase in pay is a lengthy one, and the reasons urged for advancing the pay are the increase in the cost of living, and the confinement and exposure to disease that the position of attendant means. No action was taken by the board in considering the petition at the meeting yesterday.

The monthly report of Superintendent Calbreath for the month of March shows a decrease in the population of the institution from 1298 to 1292. The expenses of the institution for the month of March aggregated $6873.2.

HERPICIDE TO HAVE THICK, LUXURIANT HAIR
is the most longed-for desire of every woman. She knows that powerful aid to beauty is in, and endeavors to make her own as soft, glossy and thick as possible. Comparatively few of them are aware as yet that Newbrow's Herpicide, a recent scientific discovery, will enable them to possess hair as thick and luxuriant as anyone could desire. It works on a new theory of destroying the germ that feeds upon the hair root, and thus making standstill and falling hair impossible. It thus proceeds to produce a growth of thick, glossy hair that soon becomes the pride of its owner. One trial will convince you of its virtues.
