To the Public.

Owing to a mistake in not instructing the motorman to go to the Lee Mission, instead of the Odd Fellows' cemetery, on Sunday, with the car for the funeral of Mr. Ralph, of 22d and State streets, the car did not get out until the services were over at the cemetery, and the friends were coming away.

The street car company regrets exceedingly that it should have happened, and is sorry that the motorman, through not understanding where he was to go, was seemingly discourteous to its patrons, and take this method of apologizing to the friends of the family for the mistake, and everything connected therewith.

FOUNDED ON A ROCK.

The Pueblo of the Acoma Indians in New Mexico.

A traveler from New Mexico was telling the other night of the wonders of that country.

"You have all heard the advice about building on a rock, I suppose," said he. "Well, to see that injunction carried out to the letter, you should visit the Acoma Indians. Their pueblo is built on a mesa rising 300 feet from a comparatively level stretch.

"They tell a funny story about how they came to land on the top of such a huge rock. It seems that they were formerly located on another rock, and one day when they were all out working along came a great rainstorm and wiped off the map the only path leading up to their rock city. Well, there was nothing for it but to hunt up another rock, and they took a life lease of their present location.

"It's a picturesque place when one gets up there. The houses are built of adobe, and one has to get out of doors to get upstairs. You see, they have a ladder up which they climb to get into the second story.

"They have ways of their own of cooking. They grind their flour in a trough with stones. They grind the wheat as a woman washes clothes and spread it to dry on an old shawl. That part of it may look simple, but I tell you it takes some skill to spread a thin batter over a red-hot soapstone as they do when baking. When it is done, they take hold of one corner and lift it off as one would a porous plaster.

"But those people are past masters in the art of making pottery. They have been at it for years and turn out some beautifully colored water jars, bowls and such things. Altogether they are a picturesque people, and a visit to them is well worth the climb up to their rocky home if one happens to be in that part of the country."—New York Tribune.

Alabama Has A Cyclone

Birmingham, Ala., April 8.—A cyclone passed over the country a mile north of Haneville, Collam county, this morning. Twelve are reported killed and 25 injured, there being six members of one family among the dead. The details are meager, as all the wires are down.

Additional details of last night's cyclone show that 30 farm houses were destroyed. Thirteen dead have been recovered. The path of the storm was narrow and it cut a path through the forest.

Discretion.

Two burglars broke into the house of a merchant who was generally considered to be very rich. After herculean efforts they managed to open the safe, but who can describe their disappointment when they found that it was empty and all their labor in vain? At that moment the master of the house, awakened by the noise, appeared on the scene. For a moment all three stood there as if turned into stone. The merchant was the first to come to himself.

"Gentlemen," he said, "let us all maintain a discreet silence over this incident. And now permit me to show you the door."—From the German.

He Was Prompt.

"I once knew a newly appointed minister," said a well known congressman in discussing the foreign service the other day, "who took eight months to reach his post on account of 'numerous social engagements en route,' as he explained. He arrived at his legation at 9 o'clock one morning and at 2 in the afternoon called for an increase of salary."

CLUBS MUST PAY

City License for Bar Privilege

A Famous Social Organization Must Contribute

The Salem city council has taken the initial step against the Ilihee and Commercial clubs of this city, to compel the payment by those social organizations of the annual license of $400 that is collected from the saloons of the city.

Legal counsel will be employed by the city, and the fight will be an interesting one.

At the council meeting Thursday evening, the following resolution was introduced by Sims, and adopted by unanimous vote on motion of Stols, seconded by Pohle:

"Whereas, The Ilihee Club, a social organization of this city, is maintaining and operating a bar for the sale of spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, and is selling said liquors to its members and its guests, without having paid the license imposed by the ordinances of this city, namely, $400 per annum; and is, further, maintaining a bowling alley on its premises and operating the same for money fees paid by its members and its guests; all in direct violation of the laws of Salem; and

"Whereas, The Salem Commercial Club, a semi-social organization of this city, is maintaining and operating a bar for the sale of spirituous, vinous and malt liquors to its members and its guests, without having paid the license imposed by the ordinances of this city, namely $400 per annum; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the common council of the city of Salem, Oregon, do employ legal counsel and proceed against the said organizations for the collection of the licenses hereinbefore referred to, under the terms of the ordinances requiring them."

Willamette XX XX University

The W. U. Glee Club, who gave its last concert at the University chapel, in this city Monday evening, has disbanded for the year. Three of the members of the club, students of the medical department, Wm. Judd, '06, Wm. Robhan, '06; J. O. VanWinkle, '04; left the city yesterday. W. J. Zimmerman, '07, of the literary department returned to his home at Canyonville Tuesday. The Glee Club had a successful tour, and President Coleman complimented the boys very highly for their work.

J. O. VanWinkle, a junior medic, has been engaged as agent for the college of medicine during the coming summer. This is the first time that the medical college has employed a solicitor to bring students to their department. Mr. VanWinkle is a capable, energetic young man, and will swell the ranks of the college next year.

Miss Eva J. Marriott, of Jefferson, has taken up her work at the University again this term. She was taken ill with typhoid fever at the beginning of last term.

A welcome donation to the University library arrived this morning, in the form of a large collection of books, the gift of Hon. Geo. M. Irwin, at present living in Alaska. Mr. Irwin was superintendent of public instruction in this state for one term, and

A Horse on Them.

A couple of Fayette young ladies hired a livery horse at Hayes' stable to make a drive into the country a short time ago. Young Mr. Hayes told them the horse would be all right if they kept the reins away from his tail. On their return they were asked by the liveryman if they had any trouble. "Oh, no," said one, "we held the umbrellas so that not a drop touched the horse's tail." Of course, Mr. Hayes had a horse laugh.—Fayette Democrat-Leader.

Germs in Milk.

The only effective way of killing the germs of diphtheria, typhoid and other such disorders found in milk is to boil the milk for at least twenty minutes. To warm it merely is quite useless. Boiling lessens the potential nutrition of milk by rendering certain of its constituents more difficult of digestion.
