By The Fruits of Our Labor
 We are known to all people of taste in Oregon who have a horror of cheap and common laundry work. Anything finished at our establishment is as fine as a poet's fancy, having received a touch which may be described as the verse form of linen. Come to us for laundry results as suggestive of satisfaction as home sweet home.

SMILE AS YOU GO.
 Everybody Loves the Man With a Shining Countenance.
 Brighter than the most brilliant of gems, electrifying with a radiance that does not dazzle so much as it calls forth a reflection of brightness, is the shining countenance.
 The soul of each man is a sun of infinite energy and glorious light. But how few allow themselves to shine! How few faces are lit up with their possible divine life!
 Take your thoughts away from the swamps of fear and evil, center them on the ideals of faith and love, on good intentions for others, and your countenance is at once illuminated.
 Look in a mirror, and you shall see that my words are true. Absolve yourself of all troubles, be peaceful, be still, cease all your repining; then your countenance will shine.
 That such an instantaneous physical change can take place by a change of thought suggests what power there is in a renewed habit of thought, a habit created by repeated conscious, successful efforts of calm, concentrated thinking in line with the ideal.
 Not only is the countenance changed by a bright thought, but the whole body. The atoms are so many vortices of ether, and the central force of each is the mind.
 A shining countenance is a smiling countenance. Look on life rightly, and you cannot but be pleased. Then you will smile, you will laugh with joy, because of life's possibilities.
 You have perhaps desired to reach greater heights of power. You will reach them easier if you will but smile as you go.
 There is every reason why the heart should be glad, and your love for others will show this so. This is the sunshine that expresses itself in your countenance. The mere fact of loving drives away fear and darkness. All false conceptions of duty, the conclusions of a biased reasoning, vanish at the appearance of love.
 Every one loves the sunny days, and every one loves the man whose soul or individual sun shines through his face.
 Such a man will be trusted wherever he is. He is an interpreter of life; he will intuitively grasp the meaning of things; he will be welcomed everywhere; he will recognize all and he will be recognized by all; he will be received as the Son of Man, a true exemplar of his race, a leader in the evolution of humanity; he will be an encouragement and an incentive to all.
 A shining countenance is first of all an immediate phenomenon expressive of the proof of right thinking, and the same source of this illustration contains the potency of completely changing character, body, surroundings, of influencing the person, the community, the race, of issuing forth from its infinite solar center great streams of life, giving out more vigor, raising the whole realm of existence to the higher plane.—Fred Barry.

Too Generous.
 "What was the trouble between Arabella and her young man that they gave up the idea of marrying?" asked a former resident of Bushby.
 "Arabella was always teary," said the young lady's aunt, with impersonal calmness, "and that was the trouble—that and her being so literal. It's a terrible risky combination of qualities."
 "They kept having hitches all along, but cause Christmas time Albert asked her right up and down what she wanted, for fear of making the wrong choice, and she said, 'You can give me enough candy to fill my slipper,' looking at him coolly."
 "Well, her feet aren't as small as some, but that wasn't the idea. 'Twas because he's generous and not literal. He sent her a five pound box, poor, dejected wretch, and she up and broke the engagement, and his little sister ate the candy and enjoyed it, by what I hear.'—Youth's Companion.

In a Critical Attitude.
 Some people seem to be born in an unhappy frame of mind. They cannot admire excellency without making some comment on deficiencies. With them the "times are always out of joint." They are simply in a critical attitude, and nothing except grumbling will satisfy their morbid condition, says the Pittsburg Press. They remind one very strikingly of the old lady who, when she was asked how she felt, replied that she felt better, but that when she felt better she always felt worse, as she knew if she felt better she was going to have a worse spell again.

The Curate's Compliment.
 In a west end church on a recent Sunday the Junior curate was preaching on reasons for coming to church. "Some people," he remarked, "come to church for no better reason than to show off their best clothes." Then he paused and glanced thoughtfully over his audience. "I am thankful to see, dear friends," he added, "that none of you has come here for that reason."—London Telegraph.

Prudence of Lastness.
 Head of Department—What's this lying on my desk? The last dunning letter received from my tailor, duly initialed by all my clerks! Oh, dear, what have I done? Actually sent it round to be duly noted without taking the trouble to look at it!—Fleeguide Blatter.

His Maxims.
 "It's always well to be on the safe side," mused the burglar, with a glow of satisfaction, as he crawled into the bank through the opening in the wall.—New York Times.

A COPY OF THE KORAN.
 How a Foreigner Must Go About Purchasing It in Stamboul.
 In Stamboul there are several book-stores the proprietors of which are either Persians, Arabians, Abyssinians or Turks. Not in the frequented streets are these stores, but in dark and narrow alleys. The books in them comprise various editions of the Koran, translated into all the languages of the orient; theological and historical treatises on the Koran in the Turkish, Persian and Arabic tongues, annals which clearly prove that all the sultans of the Ottoman dynasty were prodigies of genius and sanctity; marvelous fairy tales and stories of adventure, which are more or less fantastic and the sole object of which is to prove that no one should be considered honest, intelligent or happy unless he is a Turkish Mussulman, unless he venerates the swiftness, unless he lives in Stamboul all his life without ever quitting it even for a day and unless he regards as utterly fabulous all that he hears about Europe.
 A Mussulman is forbidden to sell a copy of the Koran, and therefore a foreigner who desires to purchase the sacred book must proceed as follows: Go into the bookstore, having on your face as pious an expression as possible, and say to the proprietor:
 "I shall consider myself eternally indebted to you if you will present me with a copy of the Koran."
 "As I am a devout believer," the proprietor will answer, "I think it my duty to assist any unbeliever who desires to instruct himself in our law. Moreover, you seem to be a serious man, and I am convinced that it is not vain curiosity which prompts you to obtain a copy of the Koran, but a sincere desire to study our religion. Therefore I am willing to make you a present of this copy, though I value it highly, for I paid a good price for it."
 You will then put the book in your pocket, and a minute or two later the proprietor will say, "I shall consider myself eternally your debtor if you will make me a present of —," naming a certain sum. If you think the price too high, you may bargain with him, but you must take care not to make the slightest allusion to the copy of the Koran in your pocket, for in disposing of it the proprietor has clearly broken the law, and it would not be good policy for you to remind him of that fact.

EARLY MILLIONAIRES.
 Apuleius expended in gluttony $2,000,000.
 Escopia paid for a single dish $400,000.
 Caligula spent for saw supply about 600.
 Hellogabalus spent for fine bowl $100,000.
 Larentius usually paid $100,000 for a peep.
 The philosopher Pythagoras had a fortune of $12,000,000.
 Lentulus, the snail-eater, had a fortune of $10,000,000.
 The sum of $2,000,000 was paid for the house of Antony.
 Caesar before he entered upon any other work nearly $11,000,000.
 Tibullus at his death left $18,125,000, which Caligula spent in less than ten months.
 Credits possessed in landed property a fortune equal to $8,000,000, besides a large sum of money, slaves and furniture.
 Antony owed $1,500,000 at the end of April and squandered $75,000,000 of the public money.

The Servant Problem Not New.
 Students of household management will learn with satisfaction that in 1500 many of the evils now to be complained of were distinctly recognized. Some of the more curious ones which were imposed by a country gentleman upon offending servants were a penny for leaving a door open, mislaid pennies, leaving beds unmade after 8 (presumably a. m.), and cooks could only have followers at the rate of a penny fine for each one. A curious custom seems to have then existed that entrance to the house was denied during the family meals, and as the fine for allowing a breach of this custom was heavy it may be presumed that the sin was esteemed great.

Taking No Chances.
 "Now, Freddie, go and kiss your little sweetheart and make it up," said Freddie's mother.
 "No, I won't."
 "Go and tell her how much you love her and how sorry you are."
 "No, I won't. Pa says he got into a breach of promise case by telling a girl that and had to marry the old thing. I won't run any risks, I won't."—London Tit-Bits.

A Modern Ananias.
 Mrs. Mateland—Henry, I wonder if you love me as much as you used to love me before we were married. You never say the pretty things to me that you did in those days.
 Mrs. Mateland—That's because I love you more than I did then, dear. I love you too much now to lie to you, you know.—Boston Transcript.

Was Economically Inclined.
 Wantano—And is your friend strong in the faculty known as "saving common sense?"
 Duzno—Remarkably so. When it comes to saving common sense, he is a regular miser. I never knew him to use a particle of it in his life.—Baltimore American.

If you argue with a fool, he will get the best of you. Theories in the hands of a fool are always stronger than facts in the hands of a man of sense.—Acheson Globe.
