

STRIKE GETTING BITTER

Hod Carries and Concrete Men

Employers Say They will never Employ Union Labor

Will Import Mechanics from the East at Once

Portland, Or., April 13.—The hod carriers and concrete men struck today, joining the small army of building trades employees already out. Employers this morning demanded police protection for each building, which was granted. They will import mechanics of all lines to take the place of the strikers, and agreed not to in the future employ any union men. All building operations will be suspended for a few days.

John D. Kane Died.

John D. Kane died at the Salem Hospital Saturday morning of pneumonia. The deceased was 53 years old, a native of New York, and for the last 10 years was employed as an upholsterer in this city.

Mr. Kane was of a gentle and kindly nature, and these qualities will remain as pleasant memories to those who knew him best. He leaves a widow and five children, Wallace W., Douglas, an attorney at Marshfield; Lucia, 16; Richard, 13, and Joseph, 13. The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 from the residence of Rev. Kantner. Interment in City View cemetery.

Senator Hanna Guest of Honor.

Syracuse, N. Y., April 13.—Senator Hanna, of Ohio, came to Syracuse today, at the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce, and tonight he will be the guest of honor at the annual banquet of the organization. Five hundred representative business and professional men of Central New York have been invited, and the banquet promises to be the most notable affair of its kind ever given in this city.

New Clerk Begins Work.

C. L. Parrish, formerly of Klamath county, arrived today from Portland, and assumed his duties as chief clerk in the school land office. He succeeds Geo. Brown, of this city, who was recently appointed clerk of the school land board, to succeed M. L. Chamberlain. Mr. Parrish has for some time served as chief clerk in the purchasing department of the O. R. & N. Company, in Portland.

Prince Chung Promoted

Peking, April 13.—An imperial edict has been issued promoting Prince Cheng, head of the foreign office, to the post of grand secretary, succeeding Yung Lu, who died Friday. The new grand secretary became internationally known when associated with Li Hung Chang, as China's representative during the peace negotiations.

Thousands in Parade

Lowell, April 13.—Eight thousand persons took part in the labor parade this afternoon. The route was carefully guarded by the police, and there was no demonstration. It was exceedingly orderly, and fully 3000 women and girls took part. The mayor reviewed the parade bareheaded. Father McGrady made the address. It was a scathing denunciation of trusts and capital.

Dredger Men Strike

Chicago, April 13.—A thousand engineers, firemen and deck hands on the dredgers struck this morning, because they were paid smaller wages when working at other ports than when at Chicago. An attempt will be made to operate with non-unionists, the employers relying on government protection, as the work affects government and shipping interests generally.

White House Egg-Rolling.

Washington, D. C., April 13.—The green sward back of the White House was alive today with swarms of children, who, with baskets filled with brightly-colored eggs, entered with zest into the annual Easter Monday egg-rolling carnival. The attendance was not confined to children, for a great many elders were present. The grounds were open from 9 a. m. until sunset. The Marine band gave a popular concert for the youngsters in the afternoon.

Dunsmuir Refuses

Victoria, B. C., April 13.—Dunsmuir, owner of the coal mines, who precipitated the present strike by discharging his men for joining the Western Federation of Miners, now refuses to recognize the arbitration board appointed by the Dominion government, consisting of Chief Justice Hunter and Rev. Dr. Howe. He says there is nothing to arbitrate, and won't recognize the Western Federation, and declares the commission can do nothing.

Mark Twain's First Earnings.

Mark Twain was once asked by a friend if he remembered the first money he had ever earned. "Yes," answered Mr. Clemens, puffing meditatively on his cigar, "I have a distinct recollection of it. When I was a youngster, I attended school at a place where the use of the birch rod was not an unusual event. It was against the rules to mark the desks in any manner, the penalty being a fine of 25¢ or public chastisement. "Happening to violate the rule on one occasion, I was offered the alternative. I told my father, and, as he seemed to think it would be too bad for me to be publicly punished, he gave me the 25¢. At that period of my existence 25¢ was a large sum, while a whipping was of little consequence, and so"—here Mr. Clemens reflectively knocked the ashes from his cigar—"well," he finally added, "that was how I earned my first 25¢."

Why the Audience Laughed.

At a public entertainment recently a conjurer had an experience which was highly comical, though quite disastrous from a professional point of view. Having produced an egg from a previously empty bag, he announced that he would follow up this trick by bringing from the bag the hen that laid the egg. This little arrangement he left to his confederate to carry out. He proceeded to draw the bird from the bag, but what was his surprise on finding that the alleged hen was an old rooster, which strutted about the stage with ruffled feathers and offended dignity and set up as vigorous a crowing as if it had just awakened from its nocturnal slumbers.

The Tumbleweed.

The tumbleweed is a curious plant, indigenous to the western prairies. It grows in all directions from a central stem, making a large flat head, close to the ground. In the fall, after being touched by the frost or dried by the weather, the stem breaks off, the head becomes the sport of the wind and is driven off across the prairie, scattering seeds as it goes and finally bringing up against some obstruction which arrests its progress. These weeds have been seen piled ten feet high against a fence, driven there by the wind.

Eruptions

Dry, moist, scaly tetter, all forms of eczema or salt rheum, pimples and other cutaneous eruptions proceed from humors, either inherited, or acquired through defective digestion and assimilation.

To treat these eruptions with drying medicines is dangerous. The thing to do is to help the system discharge the humors, and strengthen it against their return.

Hood's Sarsaparilla permanently cured J. B. Hines, Frank, Ill., of eczema, from which he had suffered for some time; and Miss Alvina Water, Box 112, Algona, Wis., of pimples on her face and back and chafed skin on her body, by which she had been greatly troubled. There are more testimonials in favor of this great medicine than can be published.

A Phenomenal Artist.
"He is the only true musical phenomenon I ever saw or heard."
"Why do you say that?"
"Because he acknowledges that he tours the country for cash first and art second and that this isn't his farewell appearance."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

"Faint Heart" Won.
"I can never marry you," said the beautiful blond.
"But," pleaded the wealthy old man, "won't you make my life happy for the short years I will be here? I am troubled with a weak and faint heart."
"In that case I accept you."
And yet they say faint heart never won fair lady.—Nashville American.

Old Case Decided

Washington, April 13.—California's famous Mission Rock case was decided in the supreme court today. The rocks proper are two small barren islands in San Francisco bay, which McKinley set aside for naval purposes. In 1870, the California legislature conveyed the submerged lands surrounding the islands to the Mission Rock Company, which built up and created 14 acres, and improved them. The United States brought suit for the islands, also for the submerged lands, and won in the circuit court. The court of appeals modified it so the United States had no title to the submerged lands, but held the islands, which have a surface of less than one acre. The decision was sustained by the supreme court today, the court holding that California had title to the submerged lands, and had the right to convey them. That wasn't the policy of the President to reserve more than the islands themselves. The land in question is valued at about $350,000.

Miss Harriet Lane, of Portland, arrived today, and is the guest of Miss Sallie Bush.

Mrs. C. C. Maring, of Seattle, and Miss Marian Plummer, of Portland, are visiting in this city, the guests of their sister, Mrs. Claud Gatch.

JUDGE QUASHED VERDICT

Mayor Humes of Seattle out of it

Judge Holds he is Not to Act as Police Officer

Seattle, April 13.—Superior Judge Bell, this morning, quashed the grand jury indictment against Mayor Humes charging him with failure to suppress gambling and kindred vices. The judge held that the law does not contemplate that the mayor shall act as a police officer.

SALEM'S NEWEST CHURCH

Sunday Special to the Portland Oregonian

The First Christian Science church building erected in Oregon was dedicated in this city today. It was erected by the Second Church of Christ, Scientist, at a cost of $5000, and is one of the prettiest and best furnished churches in the city. The dedicatory exercises were conducted by Mrs. R. S. Bean and Wylie A. Moore, first and second readers of the church, and addresses were also delivered by Mrs. Blanche Hogue and David B. Ogden, of Portland.

As there was not room for all who wished to hear the services, the exercises were repeated in the afternoon, when about 100 members of the church in Portland were present. With a membership of 50, among them some of the most highly esteemed residents of Salem, the church has begun its worship in its new home under most auspicious circumstances.

The new church building is located on Chemeketa street, just west of the city hall, and in one of the most desirable parts of the city. The structure is of wood and simple in design. To the thought of strength and durability which one receives from a view of the building from the outside, is added a perception of richness, beauty and comfort, when one enters the church and passes through the parlor, reading room, assembly room and study. The parlor, reading room and study are neatly furnished, and the walls are adorned with appropriate pictures. The assembly room is conveniently arranged with a seating capacity of 300. The interior woodwork is finished in hard oak, and the whole building is heated from a furnace in the basement. The acoustics of the assembly room are excellent. As is the case with all Christian Science churches, the property was entirely paid for before it was dedicated. W. C. Knighton, of Portland, is the architect.

Blind Chaplain Dead.

William Henry Milburn, D. D., the blind chaplain of the United States senate, died at his home in Los Angeles, at 11:45 o'clock Friday morning from a general breaking down in health. While delivering an address at Lincoln, Neb., four years ago, Chaplain Milburn sustained a stroke of apoplexy, and has been in ill health ever since. He went to Los Angeles last October with his two adopted daughters, the Misses Gealey, with strong hopes of relief from the effects of the paralytic stroke. He was almost helpless when he arrived, but for a time gradually improved, and took frequent carriage rides in the country.

As Others See Us.

(From the Eugene State Journal.)
Col. E. Hofer, of the Salem Capital Journal, was in Eugene this week taking observations and writing for the Republican congressional convention for his paper. He is a brilliant writer, a ready speaker and a pleasant gentleman. He and his brother are good newspaper men, and make one of the brightest and best papers in Oregon—not the organ of any party of men, but free and independent.

Colonel J. L. McGowan, editor-in-chief of the Chattanooga Times, is Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock.
