PLAY'Resurrection' at the Grand Opera House Saturday.A Work that has Stirred the Literary WorldIn Tolstoi's great work "Resurrection," which will be seen in this city at the Grand opera house on Saturday night, April 18, the great writer and thinker expresses himself as follows:

"Fortunes are acquired always either by violence—the most common way —or by avarice, or by some huge villainy, or by chronic swindling, as in case of trade. The better a man is the more sure he is of losing his wealth, and the worse a man is the more sure he is of retaining and increasing his fortune. The common sense of the people says, 'By honest labor one cannot acquire stone palaces,' and 'By labor one becomes not a rich man, but a cripple.' So it was in the ancient times, and so it is, even more so, now, when the distribution of riches has been accomplished in the most inequitable manner. Even one allows that, in a primitive society, a temperate and industrious man will acquire more than one who is intemperate and lazy, that is not the case in our present society. The workman who plows another man's land, who buys the indispensable necessaries of life at the price demanded of him, and who labors with instruments not his own, can never acquire wealth, however temperate and industrious he may be. On the other hand, the most profligate and idle man, who creeps into the good places of the government or of wealthy people, or who becomes a warrior, or a factory owner, or a banker, or a wine merchant, or the owner of a house of debauchery, can easily acquire a fortune, as we see in thousands of cases."

No work of recent years has so stirred the literary and reading world as his latest masterpiece, "Resurrection." The original American production is dramatized from the original Russian manuscript, by Mr. Chas. W.
Chase.

Patience—I hear you are breaking in a new girl? Patience—Well, we've got a new girl, but she seems to be doing the breaking.—Yonkers Statesman.

TWENTY YEARS TRIAL.
There are lots of good things the doctors know nothing about. We frequently cure people of disease after the doctors have given them up. If the disease comes from over work, dissipation, of exposure, causing weak and watery blood, and loss of flesh and strength, we have the one sure remedy in Dr. Gunn's Blood and Nerve Tonic. These tablets taken with meals turn the food into rich red blood, making strong steady nerves, and increasing the strength, building up solid flesh at the rate of 1 to 3 lbs per week. This means health. For nervous prostration, loss of memory, or a pale, sallow complexion, a better remedy was never made. Doctors know nothing about this remedy only the fact that we make cures; as we have been doing this for twenty years; we know our method to be the right one. Druggists sell Dr. Gunn's Blood and Nerve Tonic for 75c per box, or 2 boxes for $2, or sent by mail on receipt of price. Write us for a pamphlet telling all about this great medicine. Address Dr. Bosanko Co., Phil-

ACTOR
ACTRESS
AND PLAYAll are of the Highest ClassShakespeare's Most Sparking Comedy TonightElaborate Costumes and Bewildering Display of Jewels

The day is past when the fine gowns of an actress alone could suffice to insure success. Despite the pessimism which a few critics profess in connection with dramatic art, real ability is the first essential, and no amount of embellishment can compensate for its absence yet there never was a time when good dressing was more thoroughly appreciated, the difference being that elegance of costume is essential and not a luxury. Charles B.
Hanford has fully realized this fact, and his coming productions of Shakespearean comedy will be graced with specimens of brocades and needle work which may be without exaggeration be called works of art. They are idealized reproductions of the styles of a period whose intellectual grace was accompanied by the most lavish personal adornments. In those Elizabethan days, women were by no means permitted to monopolize brilliant colors and fantastic effects, as they are now and Shakespeare dressed his Benedick and his Petruchio with a wealth of silks and satins which in the present day only an Oriental noblemen would dare to don.
However, in the consideration of finery, place must always be given to the ladies, and a description of the gowns to be worn by Miss Marie Drofah, the leading lady of the company would tax the vocabulary of an expert in millinery. They are almost uniformly Princess models; yet through richness of ornamentation and skill of workmanship full of contrast and variety.

In the first act of "Much Ado," Beatrice wears a gown of blue crepe de chine, with cluny lace and Pann velvet applique. In the second she wears a yellow embroidered with gold and studded with turquoises in Van Dyke panels. Act IV. reveals another yellow brocade but of totally different design. This time a broder-ing of pearls is used, and the white broc de tabard which practically constitutes the front of the costume is ornamented with blue applique outlined in gold. For the wedding scene in the fifth act a climax of millinery splendor has been secured in the shape of a delicate old rose costume, figured with the faintest of flowering and topped by a plush tabard of harmonious tint, embroidered in silver.

There are jeweled girdles in abundant from which are suspended possibly bejeweled in sparkling mosaics splendid receptacles for the dainty morsels of lace which my lady delights to accept as kerchiefs.

Miss Drofah will wear these beautiful gowns at the Grand tonight.

Blood

On The Brain—Lost
Self Control.Lived in Misery For Ten Years.Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure Cured.

The reason Dr. Miles' Remedies cure such a large percentage of cases is because they are formulated to and actually do go at once to the root of the disease. Doctors often make the mistake of treating the symptoms, a method which must always fail. Dr. Miles' Nervine restores health, strength and vitality to the nerves. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure enriches the blood and improves the circulation so that the patient speedily regains health.

"I feel it is a pleasure as well as duty to inform my friends the means I used to regain my health. I have been troubled a great deal with nervousness and headache. I began to observe enlargement of the neck until it became so bad I felt it severely, especially blood on the brain. The least excitement gave me dreadful pain and I would lose all control of myself. I lived in this misery for about ten years; consulted many doctors, but secured no relief whatever. I commenced the use of Dr. Miles' Nervine and a few days later began the use of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and within a week I felt very much better. The second week my friends told me I was looking very much better.
This encouraged me and I continued the use of the two remedies until now I am well enough to do my own housework without any trouble whatever. I consider my health good, the cure permanent and I can do any kind of work."—MRS. CHARLOTTE ELLIOTT,

AGES OF
ALL THE SENATORSPettus of Alabama the OldestTwelve Others over Seventy, and a Dozen 65And Bailey of Texas the Only One Under 40

Robert H. Watkins has arranged some interesting data relative to the ages, length of service and public careers of the members of the United States senate. He shows that Senator Pettus, of Alabama, is the oldest man in the body, and that Senator Bailey, of Texas, is the youngest. The compiler calculates that the average age of the members of the senate is 56.7 years. The majority of whom constitute the great legislative assembly are, therefore, something past middle life. Grouped according to age the senate of the Fifty-eighth congress is as follows, the older being named in each group:

Over eighty years—One, Edmund W.
Pettus, of Alabama.

Between seventy-five and eighty—Six, John T. Morgan, of Alabama;

York; Matthew S. Quay, of Pennsylvania; Chauncey M. Depew, of New York; Francis M. Cockrell, of Missouri; Russell A. Alger, of Michigan; John H. Mitchell, of Oregon; Addison G. Foster, of Washington; Jacob H.
Gallinger, of New Hampshire; Joseph H. Millard, of Nebraska; Julius C.
Burrows, of Michigan; Samuel D. Mc-Enery, of Louisiana, and Marcus A.
Hanna, of Ohio.

Between sixty and sixty-five—Seventeen, Knute Nelson, of Minnosota; James B. McCreary, of Kentucky; Joseph C. S. Blackburn, of Kentucky; George C. Perkins, of California; William A. Clark, of Montana; Arthur P. Gorman, of Maryland; John F. Dryden, of New Jersey; Hernando D.
Money, of Mississippi; Augustus O.
Bacon, of Georgia; James H. Berry, of Arkansas; Thomas H. Patterson, of Colorado; Stephen B. Elkins, of West Virginia; Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island; Thomas R. Bard, of California; John W. Daniels, of Virginia; Nathan B. Scott, of West Virginia;
John C. Spooner, of Wisconsin.

Of Average Age.
Between fifty-five and sixty—Nine, William P. Dillingham, of Vermont; Joseph V. Quarles, of Wisconsin; Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming; Levi Anthony, of Washington; Henry E.
Burnham, of New Hampshire; Joseph B. Foraker, of Ohio; George P. Wetmore, of Rhode Island; Albert J. Hopkins, of Illinois; Louis E. McComas, of Maryland.

Between fifty and fifty-five—Eight-teen, Thomas S. Martin, of Virginia; uous service of over thirty years, be-

A sunnier world now welcomes him—A world brimful of snap and vim, Which formerly was sick and grim.
Since proper food put life in him,
"Force" changed the world for "Sunny ginning March 4, 1873. Next in line of continuous service is Senator Cockrell, who, in 1875, succeeded Carl Schurz. Senators Hoar and Morgan entered the senate together just two years later—March 4, 1877—and have served continuously since. Other senators who have served without a break over twenty years are Aldrich, date of service beginning March 4, 1881; Hale '81; Hawley, '81; Cullom, '83; Frye, '81.

"Ten years is a long time to have written for publication and held out against the reduction of the novel," says Miss Louise Betts Edwards, whose first novel, "The Tu-Tu's Tower," will shortly be published by H.
T. Coates & Co. of Philadelphia. Miss Edwards, so her family annals say, was born writing, and at an age when most girls are still in the school room was conducting a woman's weekly magazine, especially shining as a contributor to the "mother's page."

Her first attempt at fiction was a short story in 1894, "Step-Brothers to Dives," which was accepted by the first magazine to which she sent it, Harper's Monthly. It dealt from a novel viewpoint with the much-bewailed problem of the extravagance of the poor. Since then she has contributed steadily to leading newspapers and magazines. Her two novelettes, "A Woman for Nothing," published in Lippincott's Magazine for July, 1901, and "A Friend of Cara's," in The Smart Set for September, 1902, attracted much favorable attention, both in this country and in England, where they were reviewed in leading London newspapers.

Held the Top Hand.

N. T. Bridges, an employe of the Booth-Kelly Lumber Company, in Lane county, who came down to Roseburg a few days ago, to visit his family apparently became dissatisfied at something while playing cards at C. L.
Reed's saloon last night, and holding Bud Thomas, the dealer, back with one hand, raked in all the cash in sight with the other. Then, despite Thomas' struggles, he forced open the drawer in front of the faro dealer, and took out a loaded revolver, with which he kept everybody at bay until he had pocketed every cent that lay before him. When this was done, he emptied the revolver of its contents, threw it on the table and walked out of the saloon unmolested. It is estimated that Bridges got about $160. Up to noon today he had not since been seen.—

For New Trans-Atlantic Record.

London, April 15.—The new North German Lloyd liner Kaiser Wilhelm II. sails today for New York and by this time next week persons on both sides of the Atlantic who follow the trend of events in ship building and the breaking of records will know whether this latest addition to the great fleet of trans-Atlantic liners is to have the title of "Queen of the Sea." It is hoped, if the seas are favorable and the engines can be worked to their maximum, to maintain a daily average speed of 23 1/4 knots per hour throughout the voyage. Should the great liner be able to live up to this expectation she will, of course, break the Deutschland's record and come nearer making the passage in five days than was ever done before.

Designed to be the fastest of all ocean liners, the Kaiser Wilhelm II. is also one of the most luxurious vessels afloat. The vessel can accommodate 2900 persons, but her passengers will be limited to 1888. With two imperial suites, each with dining, drawing, bed and bath rooms, eight state apartments with sitting, bed and bath rooms, and other elaborate cabins, the passenger accommodations will attract great attention. There are sittings in the first-class saloon for 554 persons.

The dimensions of the liner are:
Length, 706 feet 6 inches; beam, 72 feet; depth, 52 feet 6 inches. Her registered tonnage is 20,000 tons and her displacement 25,000 tons. Her capacity, exclusive of the 5,700 tons of coal for the bunkers and the engines is 20,000 tons. Her draught to load line is 29 feet.

The Latest Yarn.

A Pittsburg drummer tells this new yarn: I always carry a bottle of Kemp's Balsam in my grip. I take cold easily, and a few doses of the Balsam always makes me a well man.
Everywhere I go I speak a good word for Kemp. I take hold of my customers—I take old men and young men, and tell them confidentially what I do, when I take cold. At druggists, 25 and 50 cents.

No Afraid of Work.

The story is told of a man who, on being chided for being a vagrant, was asked whether he was afraid of work, to which he replied: "No, I can sit down right along side of it and go to sleep." That's the trouble with a good many people who are seeking work.
They complain that they can't get anything to do, yet the Help Wanted columns of The Journal frequently contain calls for all kinds of labor, skilled and unskilled, while the Situation Wanted columns give unemployed persons the opportunity to make a widespread call for work.

SALEM, OREGON

Outlook is Poor.

Advises from Astoria to the local railroad officials indicate that the salmon catch is not expected to be very great this year, as all indications point to high water during the fishing season. There is considerable snow in the mountains that will probably come off with a rush when the sun gets out.
This will naturally raise the river, and prevent sein fishing, and also fill the river with muddy water, that prevents the fish from entering the river.

There seems to be no doubt about the approaching conditions, and the fishing men are looking a little doubtful about a successful year. When the Columbia is muddy the fish usually go into the smaller rivers, and thus the fishermen along the river are cheated out of their harvest.

Three canneries have been added to the number that will operate this year. There is a new one at Astoria; Seaburg will conduct one on the other side that, has been idle for several years, and the combine will also open the old cannery at Eagle Cliff, in order to compete with the one to be opened by the Seaburg Company.
