REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL TICKET.

For Member of Congress First District:
HON. BINGER HERMANN.
Election day, Monday, June 5th.

REAMES AND TONGUE ON THE TARIFF.

One of the amusing parts in the political program of Reames, the Democratic candidate for congress, is that he claims to stand in the shoes of the late Thos. H. Tongue on the tariff, and agrees with Roosevelt on tariff revision.

This is not exactly in keeping with the platform of the Democratic party, which declares in favor of lowering down the tariff barriers. Would Tongue and Roosevelt stand with Reames on that platform?

There is a hidden movement in the Republican party for tariff reform. Western Republicans generally believe in revision for the purpose of weakening the trusts and extending commerce—the lower kind.

If Reames agrees so exactly with the late Congressman Tongue on the tariff, there isn't much use for Democratic voting for him, because Tom Tongue was about as strong a protectionist as they make them.

If there were any weak points in Tongue, it wasn't on the tariff. He was what you might call a hot ring for protection. To make a little sliver of one of his tariff speeches, give it a Democratic twist, and then answer the idea that you are a Tom Tongue tariff man to get Republicans to vote for you, well, that is smooth politics.

But, if all Reames says is true, if he has a sort of family agreement with Tom Tongue on tariff revision, and will vote for a tariff bill that Tom Tongue would have voted for, what claim has he on Democratic votes?

The Democratic tariff position and Tom Tongue's tariff position were radically opposed to each other. They cannot be reconciled in Mr. Reames. Is he trying to palm himself off as a member of the Republican party?

BENEFIT OF INDIVIDUAL OWNERSHIP.

Salem is about to get the benefit of having individual residence ownership of the electric lighting plant.

There has long been non-resident corporate ownership, that was not in touch with our people, and not interested in the development of local enterprises.

The gas works and the water works have had resident ownership, and they have always been paying properties. Their service has been progressive and satisfactory.

With such management there is little occasion or demand for public ownership of such utilities.

With progressive resident and individual ownership of the lighting plant, with a service at fair, reasonable and popular rates, the demand for public ownership will disappear.

Individual ownership means that some one person must be identified himself with the people and their interests that the plant becomes popular and profitable.

If that policy is not followed there are bound to be efforts at regulation of charges and demands for collective ownership.

There is no reason why the Salem light and power plant should not be a valuable and popular enterprise—serving the community well at the same time.

As a successful Salem enterprise, paying taxes here and employing a large force of laborers, it becomes an integral part of the community, making for lasting with its growth and development.

The Journal believes that so far as these lines are followed, this community is to be congratulated on individual ownership of the lighting and power plant.

A RECIPE FOR BEAUTY.

A young woman who is working for a living writes The Journal for a recipe to preserve her beauty and to succeed in life. In the order enumerating. Well, here goes, and we are giving you a beauty receipt. Go to bed early and read a good romance on retiring, that takes your thoughts off your business, your family, your cares, and lets you drop into peaceful sleep with your mind freed from the worries of the day. Do not let any one provoke you. Let your heart go out in good will toward all, and bring the world your best. Do not be stubborn at the idea that a employer could run to suit as well, but allow them patiently and kindly how to do it. Eat what you enjoy in your health's conduct, but in great variety, and as plain as possible. Live on a high plane of conduct, and with all the faith of a child. Think not of the things which perish, but lay up the treasures that endure forever—good thoughts and good friends, good acts and good impulses, and you shall be radiant and happy and possess the earth that perishes not. Dress beautifully, neatly and yet without affectation. Give your body all the freedom possible and take several hours exercise each day in the open air. Do not listen to mean things about others and say only good things yourself. Do not take your worrying business affairs or social annoyances and set a stiff wind blow on you. Use an effervescing saline. I be a little coffee for breakfast and take a bath every morning, at least for the hands, face, mouth, feet, in cool water. Cultivate music and good company and go to new scenes, enjoy sports and occasionally a good play. Keep no diary and do not worry about the weather or what other people say about you. Both are equally unimportant and beyond your control. Honor thy father and mother and be loyal to those who are dependent upon you for good behavior.

A NEW CLASS OF WORLD'S PROBLEMS.

The great subjects that now have the most attention in five different quarters of the world are projects for the betterment of backward masses of mankind. The building up of the most fortunate people of Ireland, in Russia, in South Africa, and in our own Southern states now engages the wisest men of three great nations. This is a happy change from thoughts of war and even from the routine of peaceful politics.

If the long unrest of Ireland is about to end in quiet and prosperity, if the peasantry of Russia be lifted even a little and some dream of religious and personal liberty shine in an unimprisoned life there, if the reconstruction of the British colonies in South Africa goes on smoothly, and if the enthusiasm of Southern philanthropic leaders continues to substitute until the illiteracy in the backward part of the population—these practical movements will all mark definite evolutionary progress of inestimable value; for they will bring into productive activity a large population that has not yet contributed its share to world-wide civilization. To these great movements may be added the advancement of the populations of our island world in the Philippines and in Porto Rico.

If all these populations—the Irish peasants, the Russian peasantry, the Dutch and the natives in South Africa, the Negroes and the backward whites in our Southern states, and the Philippine people—were brought up to the same level of efficient life as the masses of men in any of the dominant industrial parts of the world, there would be such a gain as it has hitherto taken centuries of being. They would add to the productive classes as large a number of workers as the productive classes now contain. For a very small part of mankind are yet the economic masters of the world.

Since we all these large tasks are and perhaps impossible as some of them are within any reasonable period, significant the work of some of the governments and of many of the foremost minds of our time is the work of developing backward populations. It is the most straight forward effort that civilization has ever made to extend itself.—The Bay State's Work.

THE EARLY SUMMER FASHIONS.

The bequest of the summer fashions is picturesqueness. The gown of the season is unlined and made to fall in lines that are graceful and easily adapted to different figures. Linen dresses, made either in simple shirtwaist style or lavishly trimmed with embroidery and antique lace, are the ultra fashionable modes of the season. Parasols are used more than ever, all new hats worn are stylish, and one of the charms of the summer bodice is the deep cape collar made either of tiny tucks and insertion or all over lace.

One of the most popular fabrics is silk voile. Taffeta, dotted, checked and figured in a score of ways, and satin weaves are used especially for tailored dresses. The sombre or shaded effects in the silks make them wonderfully effective.

Hand work gives the utmost touch to the trend of the season, and the newest trend is embroidery in the new silver or heavy cream lace. Among the most elaborate dressing devices are the "Art Nouveau" evolutions, artistic designs in cutwork and appliqued lace, velvet or silk, or lace motifs. The popular peasant embroideries are now made of linens and cottons that will withstand washing, and some of the new wash waists are deliciously soft and pliable to be draped in graceful patterns. Buttons are a principal source of embellishment this season, and jewelled ornaments are a feature of the smartest gowns.—From the Delineator for June.

DEMOCRATS FIGHTING REAMES.

In his speech at Woodburn Mr. Reames is reported by the Portland Journal as saying that he is advocating the principles that are in opposition to the Republican party.

This gives some color to the following from the bedrock Democratic paper, the Medford Inquirer, edited by Horace Kahn, formerly of Marion county having conducted a Democratic paper at Stayton for years:

"Mr. Reames and his lieutenants are representing that Judge Crowell wanted the nomination for congress. This charge is made for two reasons: first to injure Mr. Reames, and second to discredit Mr. Crowell because he takes no interest in Mr. Reames' campaign.

"A year ago when Judge Crowell was stumping the county for the Democratic ticket, he everywhere told his hearers that he never would be a candidate for anything to their gift. After Mr. Tongue's death when his friends asked him to make the race, he emphatically said, 'No, I don't want the nomination for the assistance and responsibility of making a campaign. I am too old to chase rainbows.'

"The person that represents that Mr. Crowell wanted the Democratic nomination for congress is willingly and maliciously untruthful, as they also have been in spreading the report that the editor of this paper has written a letter to Sam White stating that Mr. Crowell was the only man to nominate from this end of the state on the Democratic ticket for congress.

"Judge Crowell has always worked for the Democratic ticket in Jackson county. Mr. Reames knows it and that unfriendly and truthful accounts for Mr. Crowell's want of interest in Mr. Reames' personal ambitions. Mr. Crowell has never been afraid of offending his Republican friends by advocating the interests of the Democratic party in Jackson county.

"GOD HATES A COWARD; AND SO DO SOME DEMOCRATS, OF WHOM JUDGE CROWELL SEEMS TO BE ONE."

It is refreshing to have an electric lighting proposition voluntarily come to the council which is satisfactory and can be accepted without five minutes discussion. That is business.

Hon. Frank Davey is booked for some Republican campaign speeches in Washington county, and he will do some effective work in that neck of the woods for Mr. Hermann.

Reames says he could get on the rivers and harbor committee because of his relationship to the late Thos. H. Tongue. Suppose he did get there, what could he do?

* * *

Young Reames is in poor position to ask Democrats to vote for him, when he says he is neither running as a Republican nor as a Democrat. He is probably not sure that he is a Native Son, but is willing to take his mother's word for it.

AUSTRALIA AGAINST STRIKES

Parliament to Pass a Law That Will Prohibit Them

Says the Country and the World is up Against the Union Propositions and Must Fight

A drastic bill to suppress the existing strike against the government was introduced in the assembly in Australia last Wednesday by Premier Deakin, when parliament to consider the situation. The premier moved the second reading of the bill. It is not retrospective and will not remain in force after the termination of the strike.

It provides that an employe leaving his work without giving four weeks notice is to be assumed to have joined the strike and will incur the penalty of $400 fine or a year's imprisonment, with loss of pension, and will be ineligible in the future for government employ.

The bill also forbids interference with employes, the collection of strike funds, or encouraging the strike in any manner, and empowers the police to destroy documents encouraging the strike. Printer of such documents are declared offenders against the law and all meetings are unlawful at which four strikers are present. All persons refusing to disperse are liable to arrest without warrants, and the police are empowered to forcibly enter meetings.

Compromise Plan Rejected.

An amendment expressing regret at the strike and promising that parliament would consider the grievances of the railroad men if their return to work was delayed by 14 to 21 votes.

Premier Deakin made a speech on the subject of the strike. He said the country faced a long continued revolt against established authority. The mania connected every country. The strike had thrown the state into confusion and it would be a fight to a finish.

Yesterday afternoon an alarm was turned in to the fire department, calling the engine and hose wagon to the home of C. W. Parmenter, on North Commercial street. It was learned that only a lace curtain had burned, as the result of the wind blowing it over the flames of a lighted lamp. No serious damage was done, and the department had their run for nothing.
