

Greatest Gathering In History

Was Held in London, England This Afternoon

700,000 MEN IN LINE ALL DRESSED IN BLACK

Twelve Platforms Erected From Which the Crowd is Addressed by Fifty Speakers

London, May 22.—One of the biggest demonstrations in the history of London occurred this afternoon at Hyde Park, as a protest against the educational bill. Seven hundred thousand persons formed in procession on Victoria embankment and marched to the park through the leading thoroughfares of the city. Most all were attired in plain black suits, presenting an extraordinary spectacle as they marched in close order, the files extending from curb to curb.

sent immense delegations, headed by their pastors, and every trades union was represented, and all liberal clubs. There were 12 platforms in the park, from which 50 speakers addressed them. When the speeches are concluded a platoon of buglers will signal the crowd's attention, for the passage of resolutions condemning the government for introducing the bill. Three thousand police are on duty in the park to observe order. The sun is beating down with great heat from a cloudless sky, and it is 85 in the shade.

Scant Clothing Caught in Driftwood and One Dead Hand Waved Above the Water

Gullford, Ind., May 22.—The body of Rosa Kiser, the 17-year-old girl, for whom search was made all day yesterday, was discovered this morning in Tanshish creek by a section hand. The scant clothing that remained on the body had caught on some drift wood, and nothing but her hand, waving above the water's edge, attracted his attention. A small boy last night told his companions that he saw the hand, but no attention was paid to him. The section men brought the body here on a handcar, and carried it to the

Employer's Association Determined to Destroy the Local Labor Unions Utterly

Chicago, May 22.—The prospects for peace, which yesterday looked so bright in Chicago's great labor crisis vanished this morning at the conference that ended in the employers and labor leaders hurling defiance at each other.

President Schradt, of the Federation of Labor, and the employers' association committee met a committee of laundry workers, to settle the strike of the 7000 laundry employes. The unions waived everything but the right to strike and demand increased wages, which the laundry owners were willing to accept. The employers' association, to which the laundry employes belong, flatly refused to permit a settlement on this basis. The association then offered to substitute an agreement, which the unions declare an undisguised plot to gradually weed out unionists. The employers' association threatened to keep the strikers out of employment forever. Schradt retaliated that not an engineer, fireman or any other employe would ever be permitted to return to work until a different spirit was shown. Immediately after he advised the men to start to seek other employment as a means of remaining out indefinitely. The attitude of the railways also underwent a change, for the freight handlers.

Granting the demands of the stock yards men, waiters, bartenders and embracing 30,000 workers, which yesterday seemed imminent, today seems farther away than ever. The unions regard the sudden and unexpected change in the attitude of the employers as evidence that it was agreed last night at a secret meeting of the employers' association to make the fight against local labor a death struggle. They predict that, unless concessions are made before June 1st, Chicago will be paralyzed with strikes of more than 50,000 men. The employers' association now threatens to lock-out 8000 barbers, 9000 freight handlers, 12,000 restaurant employes and 20,000 stock yard men.

The Reliance Outsails Her

Glen Cove, May 22.—A good northeast wind this morning presaged a fine contest between the Reliance, Columbia and Constitution today. The latter boat lay at anchor this morning alongside the Columbia, and is in fine trim. At 9 o'clock the Columbia and Constitution were ready to move to the starting point. Over in Echo Bay the Reliance's huge sails were seen slowly running up. The wind indicated an 11-mile to windward thrash, three-mile broad reach, and 11-mile run with wind abaft the beam for the course today. This gives an excellent chance to try the defender out in good shape. The slight bubble to the sea made the Columbia admirers hazard the prediction that the Reliance would not have a runaway race, such as marked the trial two days ago. Even more steam yachts and pleasure-craft are off Glen Cove today than on Thursday. The half holiday in New York seemed to have caused all who were able to attend the trial. The steam yacht Privateer, the regatta committee boat, came up early this morning, while the New York Yacht Club steamer, Sirakas, had her deck jammed and crowded with yachting enthusiasts.

In the start of the yacht race, by unofficial time, the Reliance and Constitution crossed the line together, at 1:50, the Columbia 2 minutes and 20 seconds later.

The yachts came out for a start at 11 o'clock, but the wind had died down, so the committee signalled the race postponed until later in the day. When the start was made the wind was coming in streaks. Almost as soon as the gun was fired Barr poked the Reliance's nose across the line just ahead of the Constitution, the Reliance in the weather of both. Barr maneuvered, and for a moment had the Constitution's wind, then he began to pull away, and at Peacock Point, a mile and a quarter from the start, under a three-knot breeze, the Reliance had opened a big gap on the Constitution.

At 3:40, the Reliance was two miles ahead; the Columbia caught a puff of wind and sailed across the Constitution's bows.

The yacht Constitution's balloon became entangled in setting. The Columbia picked up rapidly, and was soon up to the Constitution's beam, when the sail straightened out. The Reliance was leading by half a mile. By 2:20 the wind fell flat, and it is practically a drifting match. At 2:45 the Reliance was steadily drawing away from her opponents, who are now having a lively tilt for second place.
