THE SALEM CARNIVAL.

There's pleasure in the summer woods, and by the rippling stream,
There's pleasure in a ribbonless night, when stars are all a-gleam,
There's pleasure on the ocean beach when billows thunder loud,
But the pleasure of all pleasures is the pleasure of a crowd,
And this is why, beginning on the 29th of June,
We're going to have a high old time, including the balloon,
And Salem in her gala dress invites you one and all
To share the pleasure of the crowd at her big carnival.

There's going to be some mammoth feats, a fairy dream in lights,
And girls that do the giant swing, in mid-air and—in tights,
Some little Jap contortionists who twist themselves about
And do among them every thing except, turn inside out,
A camel that will gladly kneel to let the brave ones ride
And a wedding done in public with a Marion county bride,
And fellows who will do a stunt upon the triple bar,
And a hundred other things, to make you wonder where you are.

A merry-go-around where you by steam may get a whirl,
A tea-garden where you can talk sweet nothings to your girl,
Original plantation songs that in the south were made,
And the aggregation gathered every day for a parade,
They are coming down the byways and striding through the lanes,
In buggy and on bicycle, on steamboats and on trains,
And Salem gives you welcome old and young, and great and small,
And hopes you'll have a royal time at her big carnival.
