

You Can't Do it!

It is bound to be seen. You have been holding on to that old threadbare suit all winter, because you could cover it with an overcoat. But you can't do it any longer. A few warm days like this will send that overcoat to the wardrobe, and, my dear fellow, that shiny, thread-bare, buttonless, & shabby suit will be exposed. But never mind, we can help you out in fine shape for $10.00, $12.50 or $15.00. A top-notch for $20. If your Spring Suit comes from here it will be right.

STATE GAME POLICY.

Governor Chamberlain's game warden, John W. Baker, of Cottage Grove, takes office July 1st, and there is some speculation as to the state game policy under the present administration.

It is a well known fact that the state game laws are continuously violated in the most shameless manner, and the law is very hard to enforce.

In Southern Oregon there are shipments of venison made to large cities both north and south, in season and out of season, the slaughter being wholesale at times.

Linn and Yamhill counties are the scene of much illegal and undiscriminate shooting of birds out of season. Portland sports go up at night, get off at small towns, and shoot all day, returning by night.

Marion county is reasonably free from poaching on the game laws, and there is less shooting out of season than in any county in the state.

To make the enforcement of the game laws more effective in Oregon it would be a good plan to not publicly announce the appointment of deputy game wardens.

Where they are well known and too widely advertised their work is not effective, and they are hampered in the discharge of their duties. Better men and better service can be secured on the other plan.

The Journal cannot answer why some get permits for corrugated iron buildings in the fire limits and others do not. Who can?

Lost Hair "My hair came out badly, and was fast turning gray. I tried Ayer's Hair Vigor. It stopped the hair from coming out and restored the color."

THE POPULAR LOAN.

Allderman Catlin was elected as a Republican but his report in favor of a popular loan at four per cent to carry the $30,000 of city bonds that come due soon was good policy or at least good business sense for any party.

The argument that the bonds should lapse and not be provided for on the popular loan plan, because it would entail the cost of a special election, is not sound.

It is in line with the specific duty of the city to take up these bonds on the popular loan plan. It is the approved policy of this administration to employ the popular loan funding plan.

Upon that issue they were elected to hold office in the first place and the city council which has a majority of Citizens councilmen and a Citizen's mayor should not depart from their custom in this instance.

The only safe course to pursue is to proceed according to the city charter, the resolution and report of Alderman Catlin, and order the popular loan.

There are some who believe the money can be secured on the popular loan plan at a rate less than four per cent. It might be taken by the people at even three per cent, but that is hardly to be expected.

But even at four per cent the city would save $300 a year, and for the small expense of holding a special election, the sound financial policy of the city is to be departed from.

There are also $15,000 of bridge bonds that ought to be floated on the popular loan plan.

Let the people of Salem not be tricked or fooled in these matters. Sound financing underlies municipal reform and good government.

THE MARICOPA INDIANS.

The decision recently handed down by Judge Kent gives the Maricopa Indians practically the same amount of water they had before the Meridian canal was constructed, which precipitated the lawsuit.

The government survey gave the Indians about 1100 acres of land in cultivation; they have 1000 acres of this in wheat this year; the wheat is now ripe, and will give the Indians the best crop they ever raised—at least 1,000,000 pounds. As soon as the wheat is harvested the Indians will plant their summer crop of corn, beans, pumpkins and melons.

The Maricopa are fairly industrious. Some of them were recently given an opportunity to work several days at a dollar a day; many of them worked all day, went home and irrigated all night and were back on time to work next day, being without sleep thirty-six hours.

One man was sick, so his father, nearly seventy years old, asked to be allowed to work in his son's place. Permission was given; the old man walked four miles to work and four miles back, besides doing a full day's work in the interim.

The Maricopa are very backward in their home life, having very little furniture of any kind. Under their improved condition they will be expected to buy furniture and otherwise improve their homes.

BALLOONING ACROSS.

Louis Godard, the French aeronaut, is preparing to cross the Atlantic ocean in a balloon which he is constructing.

It is 94 feet in diameter, with a capacity for 13,000 square metres, and will support a weight of 28,000 pounds.

He is to start from New York at a time of year when the Atlantic is swept by west, northwest, and southwest winds, and expects to move at a velocity of thirty miles an hour.

Provisions will be taken for forty days for fear of adverse winds.

An aluminum boat with kerosene motor will be carried.

CUTTING OUT OBJECTIONABLE ADVERTISING.

The question of indecencies, if not downright indecencies, in the matter of medical advertisements in newspapers is a subject that is almost constantly coming up in all sections of the country. There is ample cause for these protests.

Medical advertisements of a proper sort are no doubt as interesting to the adult readers of a newspaper as those of any other line of manufactured preparations, but it must be remembered that the school boy and school girl are also newspaper readers, and if for no other reason the blue pencil should be freely used for their protection.

Parents are beginning to scrutinize the advertising columns for the purpose of detecting the medical eyesores and the newspaper that persists in printing them is altogether likely to be blocked from reaching the family bedside.

This is but a natural result, and the only wonder is the crusade has been so long deferred.

If advertisements of an objectionable character are to be carried, the very least a self-respecting newspaper can do is to cut out the staring indecencies.

The newspaper that does this receives the thanks not only of the general reading public, but of the large majority of advertisers as well.

A NEW CANAL QUESTION.

The report that if the Colombian congress fails to ratify the canal treaty the states of Panama and Cauca of the republic will secede raises a question of great interest to Colombia and the United States.

Under the Colombian constitution of 1886 there are no sovereign states in the republic. All are departments, with governors appointed by the president of the republic. The people of Panama and Cauca never voted on this new constitution, and it has been contended that its adoption by a convention of delegates, only twenty-seven in number, was not binding on the people of the states whose sovereignty was abolished.

Since 1886 Panama has been at variance with the federal government, and several times has threatened secession. The state of Panama includes all the isthmus of Panama from Costa Rica to Cauca. The latter is the largest state, or department, in Colombia, equalling in area all the other states, or departments, combined. It includes all the territory on the Pacific coast of Colombia, and extends south from the Gulf of Darien on the Caribbean coast to the northern boundary of Ecuador.

If Panama and Cauca seceded from Colombia and set up an independent government, the new republic would have an area of 289,000 square miles and a population of 906,000. Within the territory would be all the isthmian canal routes except the Nicaragua route, all the Pacific harbors of Colombia, and several of the best on the Caribbean sea.

By the secession, Colombia would lose the money to be paid by the United States, as well as all interest in the canal. The points of greatest strategic value to the present republic would go into the possession of a new republic friendly to the United States.

Facing such a possibility, it may be taken for granted that the government of Colombia will strain every nerve to secure the ratification of the canal treaty. But, whether the treaty is ratified this year or not, the situation on the isthmus warrants the conclusion that the canal will be built.

SUMMER GIRLS, SUNSET AND SEA SERPENTS.

People who are collecting beautiful summer resort pamphlets should not miss getting one of the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Company's seaside publications.

The regular old-fashioned sea serpent is sporting in the waves, and a pretty Astoria girl, in bathing costume, is riding the scaly monster bareback, and pulling his whiskers.

Since Charley Fulton has been elected United States senator a great many of the best people in Oregon will want to take a summer visit to Astoria for their health.

This folder has reproductions from photographs of the beaches and hotels and famous summer resorts that are found in all directions from Astoria, but near enough to make that a center for summer resorting, equaled by no other in the Northwest.

The annual regatta is the summer aquatic event of greatest interest, and persons wishing information about rates and dates should write to J. C. Mayo, general passenger agent, Astoria, or call at his office in Portland, 248 Alder street, or at Union depot.

EUGENE VERSUS SALEM.

There is generous rivalry between the capital of the state and the University city.

Eugene is setting a warm pace for the rest of the towns of Western Oregon, and, while not up to the Capital City, is doing first rate.—Salem Journal.

Everybody but Col. Hofer knows that we are ahead of Salem—Eugene Guard.

Yes, we are ahead of Salem in getting big appropriations for the state university, while Salem people maintain just as good institutions of higher education without state aid.

Salem can grow better strawberries than you can, although in roses you may be ahead on early varieties, but who can live on roses.

In cabbage and cauliflower and lettuce and onions, if not in brains, culture and Republican majorities, Salem is so far ahead that Eugene will never come within hailing distance.

Salem has beaten any town in the state of its size for prompt and generous response to the needs of the Heppner flood sufferers.

Still we are very proud that so fine a city as Eugene should boast of being ahead of Salem. It is only a boast and reflects a great compliment on the Capital City.

MARION DID WELL.

The Republicans of Washington county are very proud of the fine majority they gave Binger Hermann for congress, but they are inclined to rub it in on Marion county, as follows:

"The Journal believes that Salem and Marion county will do the square thing in this election, as they have nothing to lose, and a great deal to gain by the election of Hermann." Was this thing done? The Republican plurality in 1902 was 1392; last Monday Hermann, Republican, received 150 votes more than Reames, Democrat.—Hillsboro Independent.

In the first place, give the devil his due. Our plurality was 167, and was obtained under adverse circumstances that need not be recited.

Marion county gives all the way from 700 to 1200 plurality for the Republican ticket at ordinary elections, but in 1902 gave Chamberlain, Democrat, for governor, 322 plurality.

There was a tremendous disaffection against Hermann in Marion county, which, if properly taken advantage of by the Democratic party, might have resulted in even a larger plurality for Reames.

The congressional and county committees were very slow in getting into action, and the wonder is that Marion county did as well as it did. Marion county Republicans did very well under all the circumstances, but not as well, perhaps, as they should have done.

ARE MEN SLAVES OF FASHION.

A number of Salem men who were engaged in growing beards, of which they were becoming more or less proud, have been obliged to sacrifice them, and again present the shaven cheek and moustaches to the world.

It is a boast of the male sex that they are not such prostrate slaves of fashion as the women. But examination of this proposition will not bear out the claim of superiority.

If left to themselves probably most men would go unshaven. The male being naturally inclined to the dignity and pompousness of a beard. A mere moustache does not look warlike enough to please their savage instincts.

Of course some men are specially favored, and can grow a very fierce looking moustache, that answers all the purposes of frightening people that a big, bristling beard accomplishes.

But, ordinarily, a long beard, that can be stroked with deliberation with the left hand, while the other hand is in your trouser's pocket, and chewing a mouthful, as an ox would a whisp of hay is more impressive.

The female mind does not take kindly to beards. The average woman insists that her husband shall wear a moustache. She may not say so, but she will sigh for the smooth or even stubbly cheek of a shaven lord and master.

And her word goeth forth at this season of the year that especially that the beard shall go, and lo and behold the head of the house hith himself down town and hath the appendage of prophets removed.

Such men are not slaves to fashion. Their innate desire is to please others who are its devotees. A man would never admit that he did anything to be in style.

It is always a good thing to please your wife in so small a matter as having your beard taken off. Some men will go and let themselves be scalped if they thought it would please their wives.

Oregon's heartless corn-husking attorney general decides that members of the World's Fair board cannot employ themselves out of that $500,000 appropriation. But they can employ their wives and children and relatives to the seventeenth degree of consanguinity, and the attorney general's cold-blooded ruling will drive some of them to do it.
