Rollman Cherry Seeder

THIS perfect Cherry Seeder does not crush the cherry or cause any loss of juice, a practical machine for large, small or California cherries. The seed extracting knife drives the seed into one dish and actually throws the cherry into another. The marks of the knife can scarcely be seen on the seeded fruit. It seeds from

STATE STREET, SALEM, OREGON.

Like a Fairy Birthday

Helen May Wielar of 164 West One Hundred and Thirty-second street, received nearly $30,000 in presents for her ninth birthday last week. She is the only daughter of Joseph Wielar, who is connected with the Cooke's auction rooms in East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street.

She celebrated her birthday by inviting 110 of her little boy and girl friends. The house was decorated from top to bottom with flowers. At 3 o'clock the little guests sat down to a luncheon served by Sherry, during which a detachment of Panefull's Seventy-first regiment band played. After the banquet they were entertained by a vaudeville performance, there being a Punch and Judy show by Prof. Hendrow, solos by Henri Bahr and a congratulatory address by Lester Clark, superintendent of Cooke's auction room.

Mrs. Jacob Wielar, her grandmother on her father's side, gave her a $1000 United States gold bond; her parents placed $1000 in gold to her credit in the Manhattan Savings Bank, and her grandmother on her mother's side, Mrs. Adolph Ketchan, gave her a deed for a house in West One Hundred and Twenty-third street, which is worth $20,000.

Some of the other presents were a go-cart and pony by Henry Freeman, her father's partner, two pearl necklaces, value $1500; six diamond rings, value $500; a baby grand piano from the employees of the auction rooms, value $700; a solid silver service for a child, given to her by her aunt in California, value $1000; a hand painted fan set in jewels and made by Tiffany, from her uncle, Abraham Wielar, value $200; a gold leaf piano chair, given by the employees of the Freeman Van company, value $100; a big floral piece in the shape of a boat seven feet long and six feet high.—New York World.

Rogue River's Golden Ray

"Golden Ray" is the name of the picturesque spot on the Rogue river, near Tolo, the site of the big power dam being built by the Condon Water & Power Company, of which Dr. C. R. Ray is general manager. It is directly on the line of the Southern Pacific, and in time a station and depot will be placed there by the road. At the present time Golden Ray is a busy place. Nearly 100 men are at work, and more than that number will be employed during the summer in completing the big work the Condon Company has before it. A mammoth ditch is being cut on the opposite side of the river from the railroad, into which the water will be diverted by the dam, and which will carry the life-giving moisture to the vast arid region of that section, and which will make productive thousands of acres that are at present useless. Aside from irrigating, 6000 horsepower will be generated by the dam, and distributed to the surrounding towns and mines.—Roseburg Plaindealer.

Rough on Lakeview.

The Examiner says: Filibert Roth, government inspector of forest reserves, who for the past month has been inspecting the timber land recently withdrawn in Modoc county, arrived here last week, and will look over the 43 townships withdrawn in Lake county. Mr. Roth will probably find that the best timber land has already been taken, and what is left will be of little use to the government.

The reserve, as it now stands, completely bottles up Lakeview, and, if made permanent, will eventually drive every sheep man out of business; will kill Lakeview, and cause the farmers of Goose Lake Valley to starve for want of a market. This is no idle dream, but is the candid opinion of every business man of Lakeview.

They Killed a Big Cat

What is undoubtedly the largest panther ever killed in the wilds of Oregon was recently slain by the two boys of John Froppm, a rancher of the Lower Rogue River country, Curry county. The animal measured 9 feet, 4 inches from the tip of its nose to the tip of its tail. It was a monster beast, and possessed paws of unusual size and strength.

The two boys were out hunting, and came suddenly upon the great panther. Luckily they were both good shots, and succeeded in dispatching the cat before it could reach them. Old hunters declare they have never seen a panther of such enormous size as this one. Had it been slain a few miles farther south and across the state line, it would have been called a "California lion."—Roseburg Plaindealer.

The Bell Told.

One of the strangest and weird happenings at Heppner during the terrible disaster of last week was the tolling of a church bell as the building was swept along on the crest of the flood, as if the evil spirit of the storm was tolling the death knell of the hundreds who were swept into eternity by the mad rush of the mighty torrent.
