THE CITY LIGHTING CONTRACT.

Since the Salem city council has turned down the new city lighting contract, it will be interesting to note just what the terms of that contract are, and ascertain, if possible, why so apparently good a contract should not be acceptable to the city. When the present contract was made by the Citizens' Administration about four years ago, it was conceded by all to be a first-class business proposition. It gave Salem the lowest rate of any city on the coast, and was considered one of the bravest and most sensible achievements of the Citizens' Administration. In fact, it is generally conceded that this one business-like act of the administration has done more to perpetuate it than anything else, unless it was the popular loan introduced by it. Why this same contract, or what is, in fact, a better one, should now be turned down by the same administration is indeed a mystery.

Under this renewal contract the rate remains the same, and the city is given the option of having as many more lights as it wants at the same rate. The additional lamps are also to be put in at the expense of the company, instead of the city, which will be no small saving. Furthermore, labor and all kinds of material are much higher now than they were at the time the present contract were made, and it would naturally follow that if it was a good contract at that time, it must be a better one now, and yet it is turned down without giving any reason.

There are some new conditions existing at present which would make it seem still more to the interest of the city to continue this favorable contract if possible, and not least among these is the fact that the present company has secured the state lighting contracts for a series of years thus making it practically impossible for competition to enter the field by the time the city's present contract expires, when, if the company sees fit, it can compel the city to pay whatever price it demands, and this company will be different from most "souless corporations" if it doesn't see fit to make liberal demands. While Mr. Henry has been fit to deal with apparent fairness with the city thus far it is not to be supposed that his company will be inclined to throw away its opportunity when the city has no further resource.

It does seem that the city will make a mistake if it fails to close this contract. It is a better one than it has at present, and the present one is conceded to be the best on the coast, and by accepting it the city apparently has everything to gain and nothing to lose.

Modern Editorials.

In no place is the change in modern newspapers more noticeable than in the editorial section, where special articles on "How to Cure Hair," "Rain Rain Rain," "President Roosevelt is an Acrobat," or "Don't Let Your Mother Drink." Is it an improvement? What is the cause? Is it possible that in this day and age there are no longer men who are able to think so clearly and write so well that readers are interested and influenced by their editorials?

But a few brief years ago "We" was used by editorial writers. But a few years ago even that was avoided, and the paper was named where it became necessary to use something as expressing a thought. Now a day it gives way to the signed article permitting the writer to advance his egotism by the use of the personal pronoun. What is the result? The answer comes readily with loss of dignity the newspapers of America are losing power. The article written by a man who signs his name at the bottom is not as forceful as those old-time editorials for then the paper was bigger than any individual. Today the man who reads one of the signed or personally expressed editorials says: "That fellow doesn't agree with me. It seems." Thus the matter is passed, paucity to all that is morbid, grossly curious or immoral, driving with inane rot on Sundays and filled with "hoax" on week days, no wonder that such a percentage of American newspapers have dragged the title of journalism to that of yellow journalism.

Range wars between the cattle and sheep men on the lands of Eastern Oregon will never cease until all these cattle monopolists are driven off the public lands.

My Hair Ayer's Hair Vigor makes the hair grow because it is a hair-food. It feeds the hair and the hair grows, that's all there is to it. It stops falling of the hair, too, and restores color to gray hair.

JOURNAL X-RAYS.

When the new bicycle ordinance goes into effect the cry of the police will be "Let no guilty man escape, even if he is innocent."

Having taken a step backward, from McLaughlin to Hunt, the mayor of Portland might take a step forward by going back to Minto.

Salem will yet have a chance to play ball before taking the pennant, and it may not be the walk-away that was apparently in sight before Eugene loomed up.

A valued subscriber, who has never read any other paper but this, writes a hearty endorsement of one of our leading and most non-committal editorials on a subject which no one has any differences of opinion. The concurrence of his opinion is very flattering.

The Journal has been offered three biographies of Pope Leo, all gotten out since his death, and before his burial. Of course they are "authentic," and from "original sources," but in all probability they are not worth the paper they are printed on. A reliable work of this kind will, of course, come out in due time, but people should not be gulled into buying these premature grafting publications.

The unscrupulous Portland politicians who put the demand for flat salaries in their state platform, and then did all in their power to defeat the bill in the legislature, and finally succeeded, should not be permitted to run the next Republican state convention. They can hound the people once too often, and there will be no Republican party left in Oregon to juggle with. The people showed what they could do when they turned down Furnish, and will turn down the whole gang if they get a chance. The gang imagine because next year is a presidential year, and because Oregon will be the first state to vote, the people will, out of loyalty, swallow anything that is put up, in order to get Roosevelt elected in November. But Roosevelt can be elected in the fall, and the Portland gang looked after in June, if it is not done at the Republican state convention. There will be a hot time in Oregon next spring, and the rank and file of the Republican party will be heard from in one way or the other, at the convention or in the election.

Petition to the Czar

Governor Chamberlain yesterday received a copy of the petition now being circulated through the United States, to be signed and presented to the Czar, for the amelioration of the Jews in Russia. The petition was sent to the governor for his signature by Mr. Sig. Scheel, of Portland, and others of the state officers were requested to affix their signatures. The petition was last evening returned to Mr. Scheel, and it bears the best names obtainable in the state, some of them having been affixed before the document was received in this city. Following is a list of the gentlemen who signed it:

Blahod B. Wistar Morris, Senator John H. Mitchell, Senator C. W. Fulton, Congressman J. N. Williamson, Archbishop A. Christie, Mayor George H. Williams, of Portland; Gov. Geo. E. Chamberlain, Secretary of State F. I. Dunbar, State Treasurer Chas. S. Moore, Attorney-General A. M. Crawford, Associate Justice C. E. Wolverton, Chief Justice F. A. Moore, Associate Justice R. S. Bean, Clerk of the Supreme Court J. J. Murphy, State Librarian J. B. Putnam, Chief Clerk G. Q. Brown of the state land office, State Supt. J. H. Ackerman and W. N. Gaten.

Rode for Her Life.

Havre, Mont.,—Chased for more than a mile by a pack of wild dogs, apparently a cross between the common dog and the wolf, Miss Gertrude Sullivan, daughter of a sheepman living on Birch creek, 19 miles from here, escaped only by spending the night in an old corral and picking off the animals now and then with rifle bullets.

Miss Sullivan was riding her pony across the prairie when she saw, some distance away, perhaps 20 animals, which at first glance she took to be coyotes.

As they came nearer, evidently in pursuit of her, the girl saw they were not coyotes, but wild dogs, of which there are several small packs in northern Montana and just over the Canadian line.

With the brutes hot on her trail, it became a ride for life with Miss Sullivan. She had with her a small rifle, but the animals seemed so savage she dared not stop and give battle.

As she began to despair of saving her life she sighted the old sheep corral, and toward this she ran her horse, reaching it only when the pack was but a short distance away, snapping and yelling with rage.

To enter with the pony and quickly close the gate behind her was but the work of a moment. As the rate swung into place the leaders of the pack threw themselves against it.

Snapping and snarling with anger, the dogs tore at the poles forming the stockade, but were unable to gain an entrance into the place of refuge. After recovering her composure and finding that she was safe, the girl began shooting at the animals, which retreated when she fired and returned to the attack when the rifle was silent.

Miss Sullivan was found this morning by her father and her brother, who had been seeking her. The dog pack disappeared when the men approached. The girl had killed several of the animals.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

EVER SINCE 1853

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been continuously before the public. It has therefore enjoyed the confidence of the public for half a century, a record unequalled by any other stomach remedy. Then surely it is worthy of a fair trial by everyone suffering from Loss of Appetite, Nausea, Heartburn, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation or Liver and Kidney troubles. It positively cures. One bottle will convince you of its merit.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

More Money Than Time.

The Eugene Register of Thursday says: Geo. Graves, the drummer from Salem, who rides in an automobile, and who was arrested Tuesday evening for riding within the city limits at a faster rate than the law allows, appeared before Recorder Dorris yesterday at 2 p. m. and pled guilty, and was fined $10.

He denies breaking the law, but stated that he had not time to bother about the case.

A Fall and a Fracture.

Mary Loftis, a 14-year-old girl, had a severe fall from her bicycle last night, while out for a ride, resulting in the fracture of the right limb just above the ankle. She was at once placed under the care of physicians, and will be given every attention. She is the daughter of Gilbert Loftis, residing at 15th and Lee streets.

WOMEN'S SYMPATHY.

Is Proverbial. Salem Women No Exception.

How much we owe to the sympathetic side of womanhood. When others suffer they cheerfully lend a helping hand. They tell you the means which brought relief to them that you may profit by their experience. Read the testimony given here by a Salem woman:

Mrs. Needham, wife of W. S. Needham, painter, residing at the corner of Fourth street and Jefferson avenue North Salem, says: "Like almost all painters my husband has been troubled with his kidneys for years. The exposure, the reaching, the stooping, combined with the turpentine and materials in the paint, all tending to put the kidneys out of order. His back often ached badly at night when he came home from work and when he caught cold it always aggravated the trouble. He read an advertisement about Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at Dr. Stone's Drug Store and used them. They did good work by helping him at once and he continued their use until relief was obtained."

Young Corbett vs. Maynard.

Philadelphia, July 24.—The 6-round bout between "Young Corbett" and Billy Maynard, which comes off in industrial hall tonight, will afford an opportunity for the critics to judge as to whether the excellent showing Maynard made in his previous bout with the champion was the result of accidental circumstances or real pugilistic ability on the part of the comparatively unknown. The contest is attracting more attention than any fight pulled off in Philadelphia in a long time.

A Visit by Night.

Rome, July 24.—Interesting personal stories about Leo XIII. continue to fill the press and form a staple of conversation among all classes. Here is one that, whether or not it be true, is none the less interesting. As has been frequently stated, he is supposed never to have left the Vatican since the conclave made him pope; but from very good authority there emanates a story to the effect that once by night, in the disguise of an ordinary priest, he drove in a common cab through the capital of "the usurper" to a palace where a brother of his, who was a cardinal lay dying. A woman who noticed the priest got out of the cab swore that it was the pope she saw. Next day the cardinal, his brother, lay dead.

Utah's Natal Day.

Salt Lake City, July 24.—This is a day that aways fills the minds of the people of Utah with interesting reveries as it marks the anniversary of the day when in 1847, the pioneers, after a march of great privation across the desert, reached the land that was destined to be their home. The day was observed in Salt Lake as a general holiday, stores and offices being closed and many of the places decorated with flag and bunting. In the Mormon meeting-house, as has been the custom for years, special exercises in commemoration of the arrival of the pioneers were held and addresses delivered by speakers of prominence.

For Gordon Bennett Trophy.

Newport, R. I., July 24.—The race for the Gordon Bennett international trophy for steam yachts, which takes place off Newport this afternoon, is attracting no end of attention among the sporting enthusiasts. This is due partly to the novelty of the contest and also to the large number and prominence of the entries. While the entries number several score the boats that are supposed to stand the best chance of carrying off the honors are George J. Gould's new turbine yacht Emerald, J. Pierpont Morgan's Corvair, H. H. Rogers' Kanawha, W. K. Vanderbilt's Valiant, Clarence H. Mackay's Colonia and W. B. Leeds' Noma.

The trophy, which is valued at $2,500 is called the Lystrata Cup, and is named after Mr. Bennett's steam yacht, probably the fastest ocean-going pleasure craft in the world. The winner of today's race will receive $2500 in cash in addition to the cup.

SCIENCE PREVENTS BALDNESS.

The Fatal Germ and Its Remedy Now Facts of Science.

It is the rarest thing in the world for a man to be necessarily bald. No man whose hair is not dead at the roots, need be bald if he will use Newbro's Herpicide, the new scalp antiseptic. Herpicide destroys the germ that cuts the hair off at the root; and cleans the scalp of dandruff and leaves it in a perfectly healthy condition. Mr. Mannett, in the Maryland block, Butte, Mont., was entirely bald. In less than a month Herpicide had removed the enemies of hair growth, and nature did its work by covering his head with thick hair an inch long, and in six weeks he had a normal suit of hair. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for samples to The Herpicide Co., Detroit Mich., Daniel J. Fry, Special Agent, Salem.

The King's Command.

Dublin, July 24.—The festivities in connection with the visit of the king and queen in Dublin culminated tonight with a gala performance at the Theatre Royal. For the performance of the play Mr. Tree and his entire company, together with scenery and all accessories, have been brought from London by special train and steamer.

A Great Agency

We Have Secured Control for This City of the Fulton Compounds, the Only Things Known to Medicine That Cure Kidney Diseases in Both the Primary and Secondary Stages.

The kidneys are not sensitive and the disease is sometimes fastened and already chronic with the very first symptoms. If it has hung on eight to ten months it is surely chronic. In either case why tamachance? Why not take at first the only thing known that cures kidney disease in the chronic as well as the primary stages. The Fulton case cited below, by permission, is especially valuable, for its incurability was doubly confirmed by consulting physicians, and after recovery under the Fulton Compound the recovery was also doubly attested.

On May 1st, 1902, the son of R. C. Fell, the manager of the Pacific Coast Bleach Company of Second and Folson streets San Francisco, was declared by the family physician to have chronic kidney disease and incurable. Another physician was called in and confirmed the diagnosis. The whole body was swollen with dropsy, and a fatal termination looked for. The Fulton Compound was then turned to as the only hope. On September 12 the dropsy had disappeared and the boy was well, and after double examinations the physician declared the recovery complete and gave Mr. Fell a written report which he now has.
