BAKER COUNTY MINES

Cable Cove Makes Some Pretty Good Showings.

One of Sumpter's Rich Outlying Districts Full of Sulphide Ores.

Tom J. Costello, president of the Advance and Forest Mining Companies, located in the Cable Cove district, 12 miles beyond Sumpter, drove down from that place yesterday. The principal object of Mr. Costello's visit was to meet his children, who have been attending school in Portland.

Speaking of mining matters in the section where he is particularly interested, Mr. Costello stated that a force of men have been at work on the Storm King group for the past year. Besides doing considerable development work on the leads, sufficient timber and lagging have been delivered to drift 2000 feet on the vein. Soon work will start on three new tunnels; two of them will be adits, run in on the vein, while the third will be a cross-cut the first 100 feet, after that a drift.

Recently work was commenced on the McKinley and Roosevelt claims of the Advance group. In a 7-foot ledge they have a pay streak of $30 ore, carrying $22 gold, $8 copper and the remainder silver. Sixty per cent of the gold value is free milling.

Extensive development will be prosecuted on these claims during the next winter, and in another season it will be decided the kind of reduction works that will be installed to treat the ores.

Regarding other properties in that vicinity, Mr. Costello states that a hoist will soon be erected in the last Chance. The sawmill machinery is being hauled into the Alpine. After the lumber is cut for the buildings a 10-stamp mill will be built. At the California the concentrator is now completed. Recently Manager Townsend of the California, while exploring some of the old workings, had a shot put in what was supposed to be a wall that had been followed for several hundred feet, this shot broke into a body of high-grade ore, the extent of which is not yet determined.—Baker City Democrat.

The Greenhorn District Lively.
Mayor Robert C. Carter yesterday returned from a visit to the upper camps, where he spent some time in the Greenhorn district. When seen by a Democrat man, Mr. Carter said that everything was very lively in the Greenhorns, and an immense amount of development work was in progress among the various mines. Mr. Carter thinks it one of the most promising camps in the whole of Eastern Oregon. He spoke particularly of the Morning mine, which is making a fine showing, and turning out some splendid ore from a big ledge, which seems to be inexhaustible.

Judge Pascoe's Psyche is looking better this summer than it ever did before, and some high values are being obtained there. The general average of values in the free milling gold ore is good.

The Bonanza mine is today turning out more and higher grade ore than it ever did. The management is still sinking their big shaft, which is now down more than 1200 feet, and there seems to be no limit to the possibilities of the ledge in the lower levels.—Baker City Democrat.

The Police Get Busy

Four men were arrested by the police last night. They were Charles Peterson, R. Roberts and A. Morrison, drunks and Philip McGraw, roaming the streets at unseasonable hours. Peterson was fined $5, and committed to jail; Roberts and McGraw were ordered out of town, and Morrison was held pending an investigation. He has made serious threats in certain quarters, and the officers will hold him until they can look into his case a little farther.

Prune Growers Have a Meeting

The meeting of the Willamette Valley prune growers, at the office of H. B. Gila & Co., last Saturday afternoon, was one of the most important gatherings of fruit growers ever held in Salem. The meeting was attended by delegates from a half dozen counties in this state, and several were present from Clark county, Washington. During the forenoon the directors of the Willamette Valley Prune Association met and discussed the best methods of selling this year's crop.

The afternoon meeting represented over 4000 acres of bearing prune orchards, and the reports of the various growers present showed that the crop conditions are very satisfactory, and that, while the product of the orchards will not be quite as large as in former years, it still promises to be a very profitable crop. It was unanimously decided after the crop reports were heard, that the Oregon crop this year should be sold at not less than 24¢ basis, in sacks, f. o. b., at nearest shipping points. This would make the price of 40s to 50s 1/4 cents a pound.

The meeting was attended by about 50 members of the Willamette Valley Prune Association, and by the following gentlemen, representing the associations of the different sections of the state and Washington: Augustus High, J. C. Fletcher and Mr. Hoover, from Vancouver, Wash., representing the Clark County Prune Association, with over 100 carloads of prunes; W. K. Newell, of Dilley; H. F. Allen, of Portland; Mr. Butts, of Dallas; J. C. Long, of Silverton; E. H. Rhodes, of Albany; Ray C. Brown and Maurice Weber, of Roseburg, the former secretary of the Umpqua Valley Prune Association, the largest, except the one at Salem, in the Northwest; G. J. H. Freyer and S. Amenson, of Shaw, representing the Waldo Hills Fruit Association; J. R. Shepard and W. J. Crawford, of Zena; John Carter, of Aumsville.

Dislocated His Ankle

Hon. A. Bush, Salem's pioneer banker, met with a serious accident on Saturday evening. He was walking about his lawn, when, stepping on some hard object, his right ankle was dislocated. He was at once assisted into the house, and Dr. A. B. Gillis summoned, who attended the aged sufferer, and set the dislocated joint. The injury is a serious one, and the age of the sufferer makes his recovery naturally a slow one. The ankle is now badly swollen and discolored, but Dr. Gillis fears no serious consequences for his patient, beyond an enforced retirement of the latter from his work. Mr. Bush had planned to go East in a short time, and it is feared that this accident will seriously interfere with his plans.

Had one also in Pennsylvania

A dispatch to the Portland Journal, under date of July 25th, says:

It is not often that people lead double lives for 25 years, and go undiscovered, but such the late Judge David Brower of Grants Pass did. Not until after he was dead did it come to light that his real name was not Brower, but "Brewer," that the woman with whom he lived, and who died several years ago, was not his real wife, but a married woman, with a daughter, who was supposed here to be the daughter of the two.

In 1878 Charles D. Brewer, of Williamsport, Pa., a young attorney of that place, deserted his wife and children, and departed. He left with Mrs. Jane Hunt and her daughter, Lou. They later came to Grants Pass, where Judge David Brower established a good business, and prospered. His real wife and children in Pennsylvania did not know where he was until after his death. Miss Lou Hunt, known here as Miss Lou Brower, settled on the estate, which was very valuable, and left.

Shield's Park Good

Shields' Park last night attracted a large audience, and the repeated and hearty applause showed that the acts were thoroughly appreciated. The program is entirely new, and is certainly one that every one will appreciate.

The juggling work was exceptionally fine, none better, indeed none anywhere near approaching it, has ever been seen in Salem. The acting of the "little leading lady" was simply immense, and Miss Thatcher's Irish songs, were, as usual, excellent.

The polycscope did not work perfectly, but will do so tonight and will show an entirely new lot of films.

They Must Love Salem.

At Eugene Thursday evening the Quaker Doctors were greeted with a volley of eggs while conducting their nightly "stand" (and deliver). Unfortunately the hen fruit missed its intended marks and found landing places among the audience. While this manner of expressing resentment at the presence of undesirable itinerants cannot find favor in a respectable community, nevertheless they are visitors who are not especially welcomed anywhere.—Roseburg Review.

Temperance Lecture.

"A Modern Trumvirate" is the subject of the last lecture of the series by Volney B. Cushing of Maine. Tonight at the First M. E. church. The increasing audiences show the appreciation of the rare abilities of the speaker.

The Season is Now Open.

Word has just been received here of the accidental shooting of Dr. Cooper, while hunting near Chetco river. The fatal shot was fired by a companion. The doctor was shot through the breast and died in a few hours.—Port Oxford Tribune.

Notice to Dog Owners.

The collection of the annual license on dogs in the city of Salem, from July 1, 1903, to July 1, 1904, will begin tomorrow, and the ordinance authorizing same will be promptly enforced. Call at city hall, and pay up.

D. W. GIBSON,
City Marshal.

In Seattle last week a school election was held, involving the issue of $400,000 in school bonds, for the improvement of school facilities. Out of 17,000 taxpayers having a vote on the subject 476 men and 55 women cast their ballots. This is an evidence of the interest taken in such matters in the "fastest city on the coast." If the vote had been for the closing of the Bremerton dives, probably 17,000 taxpayers would have protested.—E. O.

SALEM WINS BOTH

Sunday's Game With Eugene a Good One.

Roseburg Now the Only Team That Has a Chance With Salem for the Pennant

Standing of Clubs.
	Won	Lost	Perc.
Salem	15	8	651
Roseburg	13	9	590
Eugene	11	11	500
Albany	6	17	261

The ball game yesterday drew the largest and most enthusiastic crowd ever gathered in the new grounds. The standing of the clubs indicated that good ball would be put up, and that is just what was done. It was good, clean ball from start to finish, and neither club had a cinch on the game. It stood one for Eugene, with Salem having a nest of goose eggs up to the fifth, when an error by the Eugene left fielder gave the Raglans a chance, and they piled up three tallies.

Concerning this same error, it might be said it was not the fault of the Eugene fielder. The ball struck some distance ahead of him, and struck in a depression in the ground, by which it was thrown out to one side and beyond the fielder's reach. He also played in bad luck in having two fouls, both of which he could have caught, land just within the line of buggles.

The game showed but few errors, and was thoroughly enjoyed by all, unless it was a few in the grandstand, where a wordy war between a couple of men caused an uproar, and a lady landed on a gentleman with fist and parol. There was no damage done, and the incident but served to increase the interest in the game. "Babe" Haynes made the star play, putting a high one over the right fence, and trotted around to the home plate, where a shower of big iron dollars greeted him.

As the games now stand Salem has one to play having won 15 and lost 8, while Roseburg has two to play, with 13 won and 9 lost. One of these is to be played with Salem, and should Roseburg win both it would make a tie, each standing 15 won and 9 lost, the chances are that Salem will bring the pennant home.

It might be a good scheme to extend the series, the winning team suggesting it, and playing either 12 or 24 more games. The clubs are now in good shape, and the games from this on would surely be first-class ball.

The score is as follows:

On Tuesday Evening

The officers and members of the Greater Salem Commercial Club will meet at the police court at 8 o'clock p. m. on Tuesday next. There will be lots of business of conspicuous moment to all citizens, notably: Reports in relation to the gravel bar encroachment on the river front; the history of the late carnival; and the revival of several other popular matters that have remained in the background during the summer season. Come out everybody. By direction of President H. B. Thielson, N. J. Judah, secretary.

Editors Return

State Printer and Mrs. J. R. Whitney have returned from Omaha, where they attend the meeting of the National Press Association, and enjoyed the side trips incident to that gathering. Mr. Whitney expresses himself as highly pleased with his trip, having enjoyed the visit with the leading newspaper men from all over the United States to the full, and especially did he enjoy the trip to the Yellowstone Park and the visit to Salt Lake.

The party with which Mr. and Mrs. Whitney went through the Park included about 130 newspaper people, and they went to see and learn, and in this were not disappointed. The national government is now spending $250,000 a year for the building of roads there, and they are excellent.

From Mammoth Hot Springs to Norris, a distance of 20 miles, the road is regularly sprinkled, and travel on it is consequently very pleasant and free from dust. On all the other roads in the Park water tanks are being erected at regular intervals, and as soon as these are completed, all the roads will be sprinkled.

At Salt Lake City the Oregon party enjoyed a pleasant visit, and went down to the great bathing pavilion at Saltair, near the city, to enjoy a bath in salt water. The lake is receding rapidly, the water going down on the shore line about six feet a year. The great pavilion was built over the water, near the shore line, but is now far removed from deep water, and a system of rafts has been constructed to move people from the pavilion to the deeper water, where bathers can enjoy the pleasures of the salt bath. All the Oregon editors took a plunge in the lake, and enjoyed it very much. Ira Campbell, of the Eugene Guard, was with the party, and when he threw his bulk into the waves, it is reported the "waves of Jordan rolled," the lake rose to something like its former height, and remained stationary until Mr. Campbell came out.

The visitors also stopped at Manitou, Colorado, and ascended Pike's Peak, enjoying the view from the sentinel of the Rocky Mountain range to the fall. Mr. Whitney says that the heat in Omaha made the stay there somewhat uncomfortable, but on the side trips the party enjoyed the weather and everything else.

Pardon Granted.

Governor Chamberlain today granted a full pardon to Carl Newhall, who is serving a year from Coos county for larceny. Newhall was received at the penitentiary in May. His eyesight gave way, and the prison physician, after making a close examination and consulting with Dr. A. B. Gillis, recommended that the man be liberated, and allowed to go to some eye specialist, so that an effort could be made to save his eyesight. Upon this recommendation Governor Chamberlain at once granted the pardon to the afflicted man.

Yacht Race Very Close

Newport, July 27.—The announcement is made this morning that the three contestants to defend the cup will be asked to sail only three races, instead of six, as at first proposed. The first race comes off today.

The race is over a 30-mile course and in a 12-knot breeze they started: The Reliance at 11:30:10; Constitution at 11:30:31; Columbia at 11:32.

The fight to the outer mark was close between the Reliance and Constitution, the latter being in the lead a portion of the time, until blanketed by the Reliance. They rounded the outer mark, the Reliance at 10:12 and Constitution only 18 seconds behind.
