

Glasses That Play One False

Are you the unhappy owner of a pair of glasses that often play you false... that much of the time obscure rather than aid your eyesight? If this is your case, why do you put up with so sorry a makeshift? Our optical department can furnish you with a pair of glasses that will be exactly adapted to the precise form of eye weakness you suffer from... that will do all that glasses can do to aid and strengthen your vision... that will be a comfort to you instead of a discomfort. This may seem much to claim, but there are hundreds of people in Salem who from personal experience can confirm these statements.

Will Force Payment.

Mandamus proceedings to compel Oregon's secretary of state to draw a warrant in compensation for services in fighting Indians during the hostilities of nearly 50 years ago were brought in the circuit court, at Portland, yesterday by J. R. Boyd, a grizzled veteran. Judge Cleland issued a writ against Dunbar, citing him to either issue the warrant or appear in court next Wednesday morning and show cause. The writ was promptly mailed to Salem for service.

The compensation which Boyd seeks was provided for by the last legislature, allowing $2 per day for the time of actual service of privates in the Indian wars of 1856 and 1856. In his complaint Mr. Boyd sets out that he has previously accepted an allowance of $96.50 for his services, but that he is entitled to a balance of $129.50, as he was in the service for a period of 113 days. He avers that he has presented his claim at the office of the secretary of state, but that Secretary Dunbar has declined to audit or examine his claim, or draw a warrant for the amount due him.

DOES YOUR SCALP ITCH?

Are Your Hairs Dropping One by One?
If your scalp itches, you are doubtless suffering from dandruff. The dandruff germ is digging up your scalp in little flakes, called dandruff, and sapping the life of the hair bulb. No hair preparation that is a mere hair stimulant and tonic will cure dandruff, because it won't kill the germ that causes the trouble. Newbro's Herpicide is the latest scientific discovery, and it will kill the dandruff germ. Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect; kill the germ, and you will have no more dandruff, falling hair or baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Daniel J. Fry, special agent, Salem.

SENATE ETIQUETTE.

It Came Near Making Roosevelt Miss McKinley's Inauguration.

A vice president seated in solitary grandeur in the senate chamber, while the ceremony of a presidential inauguration to which he has been invited as an honored guest is going on outside, surely presents a spectacle with an element of humor in it. Few persons know how near Theodore Roosevelt came to playing such a part on the 4th of March, 1901. The senate stickles so for minor details of etiquette that the most strenuous reformer would hardly venture to transgress its rules, and they require that a formal motion to adjourn shall be put before a day's session can come to an end. After his inauguration as vice president in the senate chamber Mr. Roosevelt took the gavel and, when the routine business was finished, directed the sergeant at arms, as usual, to proceed with the ceremony of inaugurating Mr. McKinley as president.

It was then in order for some senator to move an adjournment, but in the confusion nobody seemed to have his wits about him, and the whole assemblage, including the senators, quitted the chamber for the east portico, where the oath was to be administered and the address delivered. In a few minutes the vice president found himself alone, with a fair prospect of remaining so until the day's performances were over, but it chanced that Senator Heitfeld missed his hat while passing through the corridor and came back to look for it. Face to face with the vice president, it occurred to the senator that something must be wrong, so with the utmost gravity he moved "that the senate do now adjourn." Mr. Roosevelt, with equal solemnity, put the motion, declared it carried and proceeded in Mr. Heitfeld's company to the place on the presidential stand which had been reserved for him.—Francis E. Leupp in Century.

ILL NATURED BRUTES.

Endurance and Carrying Power the Only Good Traits in Camels.

As we have racers and cart horses, so the Arabs and the natives of north-eastern Africa have breeds of camels severely adapted for riding and for carrying burdens. It is to the fast riding and racing camels that the name dromedary alone applies, so that this term—the Greek equivalent of "racer"—indicates merely a breed and not a particular species.

All the camels of Arabia and Africa, as well as those employed in India, belong to the single humped species, which is a lightly built and long limbed animal in comparison with its double humped relative, the Bactrian camel of central Asia. Not improbably some of the herds of the latter species which are found in the neighborhood of the Gobi desert are the descendants of aboriginally wild animals, but the Arabian camel is quite unknown in a wild state, and we are even ignorant of its birthplace, although it is quite likely that this may have been north Africa or the neighborhood of the Arabian desert. For traversing desert tracts camels are absolutely indispensable. Their broad cushionlike hoofs proclaim them essentially animals of the desert, and a camel is absolutely helpless on a wet and slippery inclined road.

As if conscious that man cannot do without them, camels are some of the worst tempered and ill natured brutes in creation, and, save for their endurance and the heavy loads they can carry, no one has a good word to say in their favor. If a camel can bite a mounted traveler whom he may be passing in a narrow road, he will never fail to avail himself of the opportunity, and the bubbling noise made by a "mast" camel at night will destroy the rest of an entire camp.—London Illustrated News.

Plymouth Binding Twine

More satisfied users of Plymouth twine each year we sell it. This year some of our best trade come from men who used a ball or two last season to finish cutting. It was so much evener than the other sorts, even the high-priced kinds, that it proved itself. All you have to do is to buy one ball of it, and you'll know. You're not fair to yourself till you do.

Plymouth twine is in a class by itself, and is different from others.

Studebaker Wagons

The farmer who wants a trustworthy wagon—and who doesn't—can't afford to pass the Studebaker. He may imagine sometimes that he can save a dollar or two on the purchase price but, as one of our customers remarked yesterday, after he had looked at all the other wagons, "The imaginary saving of a dollar or two on the first cost doesn't compensate for a lot of worry and uncertainty. Give me that 34-inch Studebaker, and I'll go home." He knew what he was getting. On the others it was a big question mark. Another new car of Studebakers just in.

Birdsell Clover Hullers

Another car of hullers arrived Wednesday, and will be unloaded Friday. If you have any clover to hull, I insist that it must be done with a Birdsell, then you'll get all the seed.

Why does it succeed, while others fail? It's because the hulling cylinders and concaves have a rasp surface, which rubs the clover balls instead of simply striking them, thus getting the seed from the clover, which may be in most any condition. Other hullers leave from one-fourth to one-third the clover seed by actual test.

Gasoline Engines

The Fairbanks-Morse Engines are now so well known that they are a standard for comparison with other makes. Reason enough. They run and stay running. If any one thing in the line of machinery that will drive a man to the asylum it's a gasoline engine that won't go. It isn't every Tom, Dick or Harry who can make a gasoline engine. Do you want to pay for their experiment? If you do just order any old thing that's cheap, and claims the earth. If not, buy a reliable make, handled at home, that's tried and tested.

Ohio Ensilage Cutters

Our third successful season on the well-known Ohio. A thoroughly tested cutter and blower that gets away with the quantity of ensilage at the knives and blows it all into the silo. It's no toy. It does the work, or our customers would not be so well pleased. Send for our latest catalogue, which includes a lot of opinions of the users in Oregon, Washington and the East. It's something that will pay the man who will mount it and cut around the neighborhood.
