

CIRCUS IS IN TOWN

So is Everybody Else Within a Radius of Twenty Miles

Undoubtedly the Greatest Show Ever Presented, and Only Noah Assembled more Animals

The circus is in town, and everybody seems happy. Salem takes kindly to the circus, and so does the entire surrounding country, for our city has been packed with people since early this morning. The local train from the south this morning brought all the passengers that it could carry, from Albany, Jefferson, Marion and Turner. Many drove in from all the inland towns, and the train from the north was more than loaded from as far as Aurora, Hubbard, Woodburn, Gervais and all the surrounding towns.

By daylight the territory about the depot was alive with the work crews, and people from the town anxious to see the mammoth concern in every detail. Long before the parade the principal streets of the city were packed with pedestrians, and when the immense procession came along the town was positively impassable.

Ringling Brothers are exceptionally well liked in Salem and the first announcement of the coming of their mammoth tented amusement enterprise was hailed with delight by old and young alike. And now that the circus is here in all its glory, everybody is happy. The Ringlings have the largest menagerie and circus in all the world and it is all here today. It was hauled into Salem on 85 double-length cars, after a very successful two days' engagement at Portland. The papers in the latter city have been lavish in their praise of the show and the thousands who crowded into the big tent this afternoon are with the Portland papers. The show was even more than the Ringlings had advertised, and was exceptionally good from start to finish. The big feature was the beautiful spectacular production of Jerusalem and the Crusades. Then came the circus acts, over a hundred of them, including the Potters and the Fishers, aerialists, the Nelson family and the Dollard troupe, acrobats a host of bareback riders, two troupes of trained seals and sea lions, three herds of performing elephants, forty funny clowns and Royal's big 61-horse act. It was by far the best show ever seen in either Salem or in the state and was warmly applauded. Tonight the doors will be opened at 7 o'clock for the menagerie inspection. The performance will commence at 8. The tents will be brilliantly illuminated by electricity.

During the morning the glittering parade—the best ever given by any show—was seen by thousands. It was replete with novel processional wonders and was a revelation to the crowds. There were bands galore, a steam calliope, horsemen and horsewomen of all nations, magnificent floats, representatives of every country on the globe, monster heads of elephants and camels, a children's section in which was shown a team of 24 ponies, driven by one man, a larger number of open cages of wild animals than most circuses have in their entire menageries and beautiful tableaux vans. The handsome horses, sleek and fat, were one of the big features of the pageant.

Impaired Digestion

May not be all that is meant by dyspepsia now, but it will be if neglected. The uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, sourness of the stomach, and disagreeable belching may not be very bad now, but they will be if the stomach is suffered to grow weaker. Dyspepsia is such a miserable disease that the tendency to it should be given early attention. This is completely overcome by Hood's Sarsaparilla which strengthens the whole digestive system.

Wants to See the Circus

John Symons, a trusty at the Oregon penitentiary, escaped from the prison this morning as soon as he was let out of his cell, and the officers are searching for him. Seymour was formerly an employe of a circus, and for the past few days he has talked considerable about the coming of Ringling Brothers' show. Nothing was thought of this, however, until the fellow disappeared this morning, when search was immediately instituted for him. Superintendent James and three of his best men going down to the circus tents, where a close search was made in the belief that Seymour would appear there, make an effort to join the outfit and leave with the circus trains tonight. A printed description of the man was issued and copies placed in the hands of the detectives in the employ of the Ringlings, and it is hoped the runaway will be found before the show leaves the city. The superintendent offers a reward of $50 for the arrest of the man who, when last seen this morning, was dressed in prison garb. His description is as follows:

MRS. MARY GRENOVICH

Of Phillipsburg, Montana, Tells How She Was Cured of Dandruff. Mrs. Mary Grenovich, of Phillipsburg, Montana, under date of Nov. 26, 1899, writes: "I had typhoid fever this summer, consequently was losing my hair terribly, and my head in places was perfectly bald. Novebro's Herpicide had just come into use in Phillipsburg, and the doctor strongly recommended it to me. After 3 or 4 applications my hair stopped falling out, and is coming in again quite thick. I used to be troubled greatly with dandruff, of which I am now quite cured." Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Good Looking as Ever. Amos Voss, of South Salem, who has been confined to his home with an attack of malarial fever for the past few weeks, was down on the streets this morning, looking very little the worse for his ailment. The only difference in his appearance seemed to be a generous growth of beard, and he laughingly remarked that a barber shop would have to supply him a remedy to bring back his usual good looks.

WHAT IT COST HIM TO LOSE

Attempt to Lift the Cup Costs a Pretty Sum

Sir Thomas Lipton will Pay Out at Least $700,000 on the Shamrocks Race

(New York Sun.) The new Shamrock probably cost to build about $200,000. She has five suits of sails, and these cost $20,000 each, so that with her sails her cost is $300,000. Extra spars have been needed, more rigging has been used than was first put on the yacht and many other minor expenses have probably brought the cost of the boat up to $450,000. Shamrock I, had new sails and she used some that were made for Shamrock II, two years ago. These had to be recut to fit the older boat. With new rigging and cleaning and painting it is probable that the trial boat has cost $50,000. There are 45 men on each of these racing boats. The captain's salaries are $4500 each, the officers $3000, and 40 men on each boat draw $30 a month apiece. They have been engaged for six months, so their total wages will amount to $14,400. In addition to their wages, Sir Thomas pays each man a bonus of $75 for giving up the yachting season on the other side and coming across the ocean. This is in lieu of prize money. If the Shamrock wins, it will be much more. This bonus will amount to $600. On the Erin the crew costs about $17,500, and on the Cruiser and the smaller boat about $5000. This makes the total cost of men for the six months $50,000. It costs quite a nice sum to feed 205 men each day. It is fair to estimate this item at 50 cents a day for each man, so that the total food bill will be about $18,000. The yacht will occupy the dry dock altogether 22 days. This costs $300 a day, making the total $6600. There are many other charges in connection with the race. Men have been hired to paint the yachts, others have been employed to make changes and repairs. Sails and spars have been stored and lighters and derricks have been used to step and unstep the masts. It is said that $15,000 will about cover the expenses at the dry dock.

When it was decided to bring the Shamrock I across it was found necessary to have an extra convoy. The Erin could not do the work of the two racers. Sir Thomas bought the tug Cruiser for about $75,000. Here he has chartered a barge and a houseboat, and engaged an excursion steamer to take his guests down to see the races. All this will add $20,000 to his expenses.

This makes the total cost of trying to lift the cup $438,000, and not a cent has been charged up to entertainment. During the races the Erin will be crowded every day. Ever since the yachts arrived here there have been parties of friends aboard and many guests have been brought from the other side to live on the Erin. It is fair to say that Sir Thomas' bills will total $700,000.

Some amusing actions were noted. Several of the councilmen were heard to explain that they had not understood the terms of the ordinance, or they would have opposed its passage. One member of the council stated that he did not understand the bill to provide for half the fine to go to the arresting officer, or he would have fought the measure to the last ditch, and he declared that he was ready to help repeal the act at once. Another expressed the belief that the ordinance was too sweeping, and took in too much territory, while a third bewailed his lack of foresight in neglecting to have the sidewalks in front of his house included in the prohibited district. City Recorder Judah was one of the first violators of the new law. He leaned his wheel against the front of a building, but instantly realizing his mistake, hastened to take the wheel out of the prohibited zone. Several wheelmen were warned by the officers when found offending, but up to this morning no arrests had been made, riders being careful to remain off the prohibited walks.

The prohibited districts are as follows:

Condition of the Injured

Mrs. Dr. Brown, injured in the wreck of the Elks' special on the Northern Pacific Saturday is considered to be barely likely to recover. So far as could be learned today the others wounded are doing well.

Mrs. Dr. Brown, whose arm was torn off in the wreck, is at St. Vincent's hospital in a very weak condition and all that can be done for her is to keep the wound dressed and try to build up her strength. The shock to her nervous system and loss of blood are two very serious obstacles to her recovery, but her friends are still hoping for the best. There are some fears of blood poisoning.

J. P. Shea, who was badly bruised about the head and chest, suffered serious internal injuries as well, but he is resting as easy as could be expected. No bones were broken and his speedy recovery is hoped for.

Charles Frank, whose skull was fractured and a compound fracture of the jaw was added to his injuries. His condition is serious, but the physicians hope he will recover. He is at the Good Samaritan.

Mrs. Maud Comstock and Mrs. Tillie Corneliuss occupy cots in one ward at the Good Samaritan. Mrs. Comstock suffers internally and Mrs. Corneliuss' jaw is fractured. They will recover.

George J. Blodgett is at the Good Samaritan. His injuries were a compound fracture of the leg and the breaking of several ribs. He is improving.

Fred Fletcher, who yesterday thought his injuries too light to occasion serious consequence, was obliged to take to his bed today owing to severe pain in the left side where he struck on the corner of the car seat. His side is severely bruised. His friends fear the injury may yet cause him considerable trouble.

Dr. Littlefield is at Good Samaritan. His right collar bone was broken and two ribs fractured. He is doing well.

Dr. Corneliuss congratulates himself that he is "just able to navigate." His right arm is useless for the time being and he feels as though the whole train had passed over him, he says. He is, however, attending to his business.

Elmer Quimby is at the Good Samaritan also. His injuries are a compound fracture of the right arm and his face and hands were bruised. There are fully 30 in all who are getting over their injuries slowly the hospitals or sanitariums or at the homes. The most seriously injured are at the two large hospitals. Committees of Elks have been appointed to wait upon the injured daily and what they could to assist in their recovery.
