

AT THE PARK MONDAY

A Fine Program and an Enthusiastic Crowd

Tug-of-War, all Kinds of Races and a Short Ball Game for the Finish

The program of sports arranged by the committee from the Central Labor Union at the C. A. A. C. park yesterday afternoon was a most interesting and enjoyable one, and, while the crowd of spectators was not as large as had been expected—the falling off in attendance being due to the rain of the forenoon—it was sufficient to encourage the contestants, and to amply satisfy the management. The events were pulled off as scheduled, with a few slight changes in the program. Among the changes was a little girls' race, substituted for a young ladies' race, the little ones securing the prizes put up for their older sisters, who declined to enter for the contests. The hammer-throwing contest was also abandoned, owing to the fact that hammers had not been brought to the grounds, and a men's shoe race was substituted, and this caused more excitement and interest than the hammer-throwing could possibly do. A boys' shoe race was added to the program, and two prizes of $1 and 50 cents, respectively, were donated by the committee for this contest.

The sports were followed by the baby show, and a committee consisting of such well-known experts as S. A. McFadden, Chas. L. Parmenter and S. E. Hughes was appointed to award the prizes. This was done to the general satisfaction of the crowd (excepting always to the mamma of the defeated babies), and the committee received the thanks of the crowd for the arduous work performed.

Following the baby show a game of baseball was started between two nines, selected by A. Hucksenstein and C. C. Garfield, respectively, and one inning was played, resulting in a score of 5 to 2 in favor of the Garfield nine.

This wound up the sports of the afternoon, and the crowd left the baseball park at 5 p. m., greatly pleased with the excellent program of sports provided for the amusement of all present.

The result of the sports of the afternoon are given below:

The tug-of-war was the first number on the afternoon program, and nine carpenters went up against "all comers," nine other gentlemen contesting with the carpenters, but to no purpose, for the carpenters, after a short, but hard, struggle, won the contest, to the great delight of the crowd. The contests in their order were:

More Lights at the Court House.

Workmen are today engaged in installing four new lights at the court house, in order to better light up the surroundings of the court house and jail, and making the efforts at escape of prisoners confined in the jail more difficult of accomplishment. One light will be placed over each of the main entrances of the court house proper, over the east and west doors, while the other two will be suspended on the north and south sides, respectively, of the building, so as to light up the jail windows. This arrangement will make the building and surroundings as light as day at night, and give little opportunities for jail deliveries at night without attracting attention from the outside. Sheriff Colbath is well pleased with this improvement, and considers that the jail, as a result of the new arrangement, is much more secure than it has been in the past. The county has heretofore paid for the lights on the corner of the block on which the court house stands, but the lights were too far away to be of the required service, and it is believed that the new arrangement of the lights will answer the purpose much better.

To Entertain Strangers.

Mr. I. O. Thompson, manager of the Salem Employment Bureau, will attend to the listing of rooms for rent during the state fair. This is a big undertaking, and it has been impossible to make the same arrangements that were in vogue last year, as it is a job that requires the entire time and attention of some one person. All the rooms will be listed for those who make application free of charge. A small commission will be charged when a roomer is sent to occupy the bed. A more uniform price will thus be obtained. Mr. Thompson is anxious to have the rooms listed early, that all applicants may be accommodated. He will maintain an office at the fair grounds during fair week. Telephone him at Main 2911, or call at 130 State street, and list your rooms.

Hop Kilns Burned.

Sunday afternoon three hop drying kilns, together with about 500 boxes of hops, burned to the ground on the A. W. Giesy place, three miles west of Aurora. The hop yard is leased by Look Hop, of Portland. Look Hop and his two sons are running the farm. They started a fire in the driers, and while this was burning its heat there was an explosion, caused, it is believed, by either salt-peter or sulphur exploding, and in a few minutes everything was aflame. The three kilns were built closely together, and on this account neither could be saved. One of the Chinamen, "Charley," was badly hurt by timbers falling on him.

She Found Her People.

To Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Starr, of this city, belongs the credit of discovering the whereabouts of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hartford, parents of the little girl, Lucy, who arrived here from Portland a few days ago, to join her parents in the hop yards, but was unable to find them. The parents were at work in the yard of George Harris, in Polk county, known as the Spaulding yard, and the Starrs, after locating them, took the little girl out on Sunday, and she was indeed happy to find her mother.

WORK BEGUN TODAY

Upon the Walls of a Commodious Addition

For the Enlarged and Re- modeled Plant of the Salem Brewing Association

The first of 150,000 brick to be put into the walls of an addition to the plant of the Salem Brewing Association were laid today, and a large force of the most experienced men, under Martin Viesco, are rushing the work. The structure is added to the rear of the present building on Commercial street, and will be two stories, and used for raking off the beer, one part for tarring the casks. Oscar Taylor, Geo. Johnson, Martin Viesco and Martin Viesco, Jr., are on the brick work.

Under Mr. Viesco, as foreman, the solid foundations have been put in, as well as three cement work cellars, one above the other. He will also have charge of the plastering and finishing. The cement work is being done by Julius Viesco and son, Henry Viesco, and August Kellenberger, very competent workmen. The cement work and the interior walls are all being finished in the most expensive white enamel paint, Supt. Zynda sparing no expense to make the plant permanent and a credit to the proprietors.

Chris Paulus is foreman of the carpenter work on the new building, and the work is done in the most lasting manner, all the joist and stringers being coated with creosote to destroy all possibility of germs and fungus in the foundation. He has O. C. Robinson and H. H. Watson as carpenters, and a force of laborers to handle the material. On the inside work a number of plumbers are at work under Foreman Carrohyee. Inside carpenters under F. Aldrich, foreman, are L. D. Smith, E. Briggs, Wm. Lansing, Miles Carter and L. K. Carpenter.

GOOD TEMPLARS MEETING

Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Royal Were Hon- ored

They Were Eulogized and Presented With Beauti- ful Gold Badges

The regular 4 o'clock meeting at the W. C. T. U. hall yesterday afternoon was of unusual interest. The scripture lesson was read from the 35th chapter of Jeremiah, an account of the Rechabites, a tribe who drank no wine, neither they nor their wives, nor their sons, nor their daughters, forever, and the blessing of God was promised them.

Prayer by Rev. T. F. Royal, who was the first speaker. He has been an active temperance worker all his life. He is a man of great faith and courage. His work as a minister called him to the mines in Southern Oregon in an early day. His activity in the temperance work, especially in closing the saloons on Sunday, according to law, so enraged those interested that they raised a mob of 1000 men to kill him, but the Lord was with him, and not only kept him, but enabled him to preach the gospel to the same people with great power and effectiveness. He has been prominent in the temperance work in Oregon since its first settlement, belonging to the Good Templars in many different towns, where he was called to preach. He is a friend and worker for the Oregon Searchlight, the only temperance paper in Oregon.

The next speaker called was Mrs. Royal. She was a temperance worker when a girl, and joined the Waughabians, then the Sons and Daughters of Temperance, and as early as 1868 she and her husband joined the Good Templars, and have continued to work in the order ever since. She said lodge had been a benefit to them. Their children were raised in it, and much of her temperance education had been gained through it. The next speaker was Mrs. Brooks, who, in very neat and appropriate speech eulogized Mr. and Mrs. Royal, and presented them, on behalf of Union Lodge, No. 561, each a beautiful Good Templar badge. Mrs. Scriber and Mrs. Spray each made a nice telling of the benefits of the order. There were many present who had been Good Templars more than a quarter of a century. The music was conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Lehman, members of the order, who have done faithful and heroic work for cause.

The two most important lessons gathered from the meeting was importance of belonging to a temperance society and reliance on God. The work was always by his protection and his blessing. Verily God is with us.

Mrs. Webber also made a few remarks on "History Repeating Itself" as an introduction for her lecture on Sunday.
