

THREE ROUND BATTLE

Marion County Puts up First Class Prize Fight

Women and Babies are Permitted to Enjoy to the Full the Delightful Social Function

At the Krebs Bros' hop yard, last night, a large crowd was gathered, including many sports from Salem and Portland, to witness a prize fight between Kenny, of Albina, and an unknown from Grants Pass. Before the main event of the evening several preliminary bouts were pulled off, local lights figuring in the battles. But the interest centered in the fight to a finish between the Albina and Grants Pass bruisers, and the crowd was delighted with a three-round battle, in which the man from Grants Pass got the worst of it. In the second round he was knocked down with a terrific swing on the jaw, but he recovered his feet in time to save himself from being counted out. In the third another vicious punch on the jaw sent him to the sawdust, but he gamely rose to his feet, and, although he seemed dazed, continued the fight. Another punch on the jaw, however, was too much for him, and he went down, and was counted out. The fight was for $100 a side. It is reported that among the spectators were a number of women, some of them with babies in their arms. Another bout, it is said, will be pulled off at the same place next Monday evening, and an excursion is expected to come up from Portland to witness the event.

There was no attempt on the part of any magistrate or peace officer to interfere with the proceedings.

War in a Hop Yard

With a number of furious and dangerous Japs after them, Tom Kennedy, one of the proprietors of the yard; W. C. Miller, the measurer; Joe Johnson and another, flew, as they never flew before, yesterday morning, from the Case hop yard recently purchased by Tom Kennedy. The Japs got enraged because Kennedy would not pay for dirty hops, and, with knives, pistols and clubs, drove the four whites out of the yard. It was a narrow escape for the pursued, who might have met with serious, if not fatal injury, if they had not spurred for a mile or two. They came to Woodburn, where Kennedy swore out a warrant for the Japs' arrest. Armed with this, Deputy Constable Jack Carroll and Walter L. Toose, Jr., started for the scene of hostilities. They brought back 14 Japs, who entered a plea of not guilty in Justice Overton's court last night. The charge against them was assault. The trial was set for Saturday. In default of $200 bail, they were about to be taken to the county jail at Salem on the night overland by Constables John Carroll and George Beach, when they listened to reason, and proposed to pay Justice Overton $5 fine and $2 costs each. The justice was called into the railroad station at 10 o'clock, and accepted the proposition, whereupon the Jap leader turned over $40 in cash and $48 worth of hop tickets to Walter L. Toose, who paid the justice $98, when the case was dismissed and the prisoners discharged.—Woodburn Independent.

Buried at Sea Tonight's Play

"Buried at Sea," which comes to the Grand opera house tonight will be without doubt the greatest dramatic novelty that will appear in this city during the season.

The play is from the pen of Theodore Kremer, the author of the "Fatal Wedding" which made such a pronounced success last season.

It is founded upon an actual burial at sea, while the author was in mid-ocean, on his way to England, and the scene, together with the attendant ceremony so impressed itself upon his mind, that upon his return to New York, he immediately set to work, and wrote a most interesting story upon the event.

It is full of heart interest, and the ceremony is produced in the same impressive manner that it is on board ship, and as it is the first time that a burial at sea has even been attempted on any stage, and in such a dramatic manner, it is worth while going to see.

One critic from Sacramento says: "The Clunie theater held a very enthusiastic audience last night, that applauded the new comedy-drama, by Theodore Kremer, 'Buried at Sea' to the echo, and ordered the curtain up several times at the close of every act. The company was an excellent one, and the scenic effects were very lavish; in fact no finer production has ever been seen in this city."

Salem's Samuel

The San Francisco Call, of recent date, has the following concerning Salem's favorite ball tosser.

The big Indian chief, Sam Morris, who made his getaway from the wigwams of the far Northwest several days ago, and landed in the midst of metropolitan civilization, learned what it was to get his bumps at the Eighth-street lot before a holiday crowd yesterday. He saw the beating coming, and took it gamely, and with a good deal of grace, and was in the game all the time.

Perhaps not since that memorable day nearly two years ago, when the mighty Rube Weddell awed a howling multitude has so much attention been bestowed upon any one balltossing as was accorded the red man yesterday. As soon as he made his appearance the warwhoops and cheers filled the air, and never ceased until all was over.

And though the native American slasher was given the wallop time and time again, it must be said that he has the goods, and when he learns a little more about fooling the opposition batsmen he will land oftener. He used a swift ball yesterday, with just a trifle of an outcurve attached to it.

Morris showed that he is a natural ballplayer by the way he fielded his position. Eight chances came his way, and he ate up every one. He is cool, calm and collected, and never gets rattled. He will let the crowd kid him until it gets tired, and then he will glance up and give it the merry warwhoop.

Motion for a New Trial.

The case of the State vs. Wm. Brannin, the young Indian found guilty of stealing a bicycle from Otto Zwicker, comes up this afternoon in Justice Horgan's court, on a motion of the defense for a new trial. Various reasons are advanced why a new trial should be granted, among them being misconduct of the prosecuting attorney, the jury, etc., and absence of criminal intent on the part of the defendant. It is also urged that the defendant, being a ward of the federal government, is not subject to the jurisdiction of the state courts. The motion will be argued this afternoon, and it is safe to say that, owing to the importance of some of the questions raised, the matter will be taken under advisement.

Police Court Gets Busy

The city recorder's office was a busy scene for a short time this morning, when six evildoers, secured in the drag-net of the police last night, came up for sentence and received their sentences. Four of the men were registered as plain drunks, and they were disposed of as follows: Joe Brown, fined $5; paid, J. Fuller, $10 or five days; Thos. Jackson, $5 or 2 1/2 days; Peter Egan, $10 or five days; the last three will serve their sentences. Chas. Heaney and Henry Krebscham, vagrants, were given 20 minutes to leave town, and they stood not on the order of going, but went.

The Bold Sojer Boys.

Camp Summers, at Gearhart Park, where the national guardsmen were encamped, was broken this morning, and the Salem company is expected to return home on this evening's Albany local. The members of the command have enjoyed a profitable ten days in camp, and the company will show better soldierly qualities as a result of the thorough drill had for the past ten days.

Have you seen our new arrivals? A superb lot of furs, cloaks, corsets, coats, suits, jackets and millinery. All this season's goods. Store greatly enlarged. Give us a call, and remember our fall opening tomorrow—Saturday, 2 p. m. M. E. FRASIER, 271 Commercial street.

PETTY LARCENY MACHEN

His Crime Was Wholesale but Plunder Small

Did not Hesitate to Commit Any Kind of Fraud or Bribery to Win

Washington, Sept. 11.—The names of the persons indicted Tuesday by the grand jury were given out this afternoon by District Attorney Beach. One is against Beavers, Machen and James W. Erwin, for conspiracy to defraud. Two against Isaac McGiehan, George Huntington, of New York, and Machen, for conspiracy to commit bribery. Two against Eugene Shobie and Machen for conspiracy to defraud, and conspiracy to commit bribery; also an indictment against Machen for accepting bribes. The indictment against Machen, Beavers and Erwin alleges in substance that the Postal Device Improvement Co., formerly the Montague Indicator and Letter Box Co., by resolution, set aside 1999 shares of the stock to forward the interests of the company; that Daniel Richardson, accompanied by Erwin, came to Washington, and that Erwin was then postoffice inspector, and the company was composed entirely of postal employes in the far West.

Erwin introduced Richardson to all the prominent postoffice officials. Heath, Beavers and Machen examined the device, and an order was issued equipping over 2000 boxes. Beavers and Machen then suggested to change the name of the company. They became owners of blocks of stock, and the names of all postal officials disappeared from the management. The company then systematically relieved itself of obligations, in the way of paying freight, crating, printing cards, and painting for the device furnished. Thousands of shares of the stock went into the hands of different postal officials. The president of the company then secured increased pay for the boxes. Dividends were afterwards paid on all the stock. In all the indictments against Machen, the amounts and time they were paid him are specified. The indictments, all together, show where Machen received the various sums, and aggregating $10,000, from the various schemes of graft in which he was interested. Some schemes were even bolder than the Montague plan. In one case he authorized the payment of $1.25 for the device to raise the boxes, when it was really worth only 75 cents.
