Irrigation Congress Meet in Ogden This Morning

The Motto Adopted by the Congress is Save the Forests and Store the Floods

Ogden, Sept. 15.—The eleventh annual session of the National Irrigation Congress began here today. Delegates are present from nearly every western state, and the Mississippi valley has a substantial representation. The roll call by Secretary Maxson showed unusually large delegations from Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Oregon, Washington, California, Idaho and Nebraska. The morning session today was devoted to addresses of welcome and the work of organization.

This session of the congress, which will continue three days, promises to be very important. The program has been carefully arranged with the view of achieving practical benefits and progress. It includes lessons in practical irrigation and forestry, reports of experts, application of provisions of the reclamation act, report of state progress under the national act, views on the settlement of legal complications and a consideration of the all-important theme of colonization.

"Save the forests and store the floods" is the motto of the congress, and the main work of the convention will be to enlist the support of everyone for the policy which was outlined by President Roosevelt in speeches during his recent Western tour—that national aid in the reclamation of arid lands is of supreme importance. It is expected that this policy of national control will be fought by the private companies, which have in many places obtained possession of the water supply, and who are building up fortunes by selling irrigation water to the small ranchers. When the irrigation congresses were inaugurated eleven years this method was considered the proper one. A gradual change of sentiment took place, however, and the new idea gained favor that the whole policy of irrigation should be a national one, and that it was the duty of the government to see that the arid tracts were reclaimed. A vigorous propaganda was waged in support of this idea, and the passage of a national irrigation act was finally secured.

In addition to discussing ways and means for spreading the idea of national control and extending the works already begun, the congress will listen to a number of experts in the science of irrigation. The Department of Agriculture at Washington has sent to the congress several of its most prominent workers in forestry and irrigation and the program provides for interesting practical demonstrations. In this connection, also, there is an elaborate exhibit of irrigation work and of specimens of fruits and cereals from Oregon and elsewhere grown under irrigation.

The officers of the congress, nearly all of whom were present at the initial session today, are President W. A. Clark, of Butte, Mont.; first vice president, L. Bradford Prince of Santa Fe, N. M.; second vice president, Addison McCune of Colorado; third vice president, E. H. Libbey of Clarkson, Washington; secretary, H. B. Maxson, of Reno, Nev.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clear out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and circulatory action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. You can get this reliable remedy at Dr. Saxe's drug stores. Price 25c and 75c.

Summer months are ideal for the treatment of chronic cases. Patients have more leisure than as a rule, and are less likely to contract colds, besides getting better air and exercise. Drs. Schottle, Barr & Barr, Osteopaths, Grand Opera House, Salem, Or.
