"Utah," a Splendid Play.
"A Homespun Heart" was the attraction at the opera house last evening, and it was greeted by a well-filled house. The play is one well suited to the company, giving play to Miss Fischer's talent, and furnishing something for all the characters to do. The support was excellent indeed, it may be said, and without any disparagement to Miss Fischer, that the life of the play is largely due to Mr. Montrose, who, in the character of "Andy Markoe," the half-witted brother of the heroine is the center-piece around which the play gathers. His work between acts was splendid, and for full 20 minutes he kept the audience shaking with laughter.
The work was all good, and the company is winning its way into Salem's good graces.
The play tonight is "Utah," the scene, as the title implies, being laid in that state. It is full of action and go, and deals with one of the most interesting of subjects, Mormonism. Journal readers who appreciate a good play, well played, will not fail to attend the production of "Utah" tonight.

Labor to Petition President.

Washington, Sept. 18.—The case of W. A. Miller, assistant foreman in the bindery of the government printing office, has been taken up by the Central Labor Union of this city. That body has adopted a resolution and sent a copy to each of the Central Labor Unions in the United States calling attention to the Miller case, declaring the order of the President cannot be regarded in any but an unfriendly light, and urging organized labor to petition the President to modify his order of no discrimination, "and to order W. A. Miller's dismissal from the government service, to promote the efficiency of that service."

A preamble to the resolution declares that the President has seen fit to reinstate Miller, who is an expelled member of a trade's organization, notwithstanding the overwhelming evidence of his moral turpitude.

Mississippi Again Rising.

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 18.—The Mississippi is seven inches above the danger line at noon and rising an inch an hour. Railways are submerged, and the wholesale houses on the river front are being inundated. All available men are moving the contents of the stores to places of safety. A greater portion of the city streets are flooded, and the farming country for miles around is under water. Communication north and west is cut off. The river may go possibly two feet higher, and the damage will be enormous. Hundreds of families in the district are fleeing with what valuables they can carry to the hills. On advice from the weather bureau, the entire police force has been detailed to notify the people of the surrounding country of the floods, and, as yet, no loss of life is reported.

A Writ of Review.

Judge Boise yesterday ordered a writ of review in the matter of the action of the county court, in opening a new county road south of Salem. L. L. Cochran and George Palmer are the plaintiffs and petitioners for the writ of review, and Marlon county is the defendant. When the petition for the new road was before the county court, a remonstrance was also filed, but the road was ordered established, and the remonstrators are now seeking a remedy in the higher court.
