APPLE BUTTER FEAST

Schwenkfelders Keep Gedächtnisz Tag, So to Speak

A Rich German Colony Settled Near Hosinask and Porkiomen in Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—Apple butter day was celebrated today by the Schwenkfelders of Pennsylvania in their meeting house at Hosinask and elsewhere. Among the devout members of the sect the occasion is known as "Gedächtnisz tag," or memorial day. Its popular name refers to the most conspicuous feature of the noonday repast that is a regular part of the services. The Pennsylvania Schwenkfelders are known far and wide as the makers of the best apple butter in the world, and this year by reason of the large crop of apples in Southeastern Pennsylvania, the memorial celebration was a conspicuous success.

Because of the prominence the Schwenkfelders have attained through their thrift and industry, their quaint yearly festival arouses the interest of thousands of persons outside their fold. In many of the rural communities the occasion is a holiday, and from the larger towns and cities come relatives and friends to spend the autumn day among the picturesque hills and valleys in the vicinity of the Porkiomen.

Although primarily a religious festival, the Gedächtnisz tag celebration also partakes largely of the nature of a great family reunion, for, as a result of the church's rigid watch over the matrimonial affairs of its adherents, the membership today is restricted almost entirely to the descendants of the Schwenkfelder families that crossed the Atlantic and settled in Pennsylvania early in the 18th century. While they number fewer than 1500 persons in all, they include the most prosperous families to be found in the rich agricultural section in which they reside.

Their farms, the largest and best in this section of the state, have been bequeathed from generation to generation, and each succeeding owner has sought to enhance his heritage by keeping in touch with the most modern methods of farming. While sedulously guarding against changing the ancient customs of their faith, the Schwenkfelders never oppose real progress, as some of the other Pennsylvania German sects. One of the most successful co-operative agricultural organizations in the United States is the Worcester farmers' union in Montgomery county, which was organized and is largely controlled by Schwenkfelders. The union has nearly a thousand members within a distance of 20 miles of Worcester.

All farm supplies are purchased at wholesale rates by the union and then distributed among the members. Weekly meetings are held in the union's own building and there is an interchange among members of opinions concerning agricultural topics, while at frequent intervals lectures on scientific farming are delivered by men who are authorities in their lines.

Although the smallest of the many sects that fled to America to escape persecution in Europe, the Schwenkfelder organization is the only one that sets apart annually a day on

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. Mrs. J. W. COOLBAUGH, Milo Center, N. Y.

which the members meet to give thanks for their release from the religious thralldom of the old world. This is the purpose of their Gedächtnisz tag, for on September 24, 1734, the first Schwenkfelders, who had landed at Philadelphia two days before, held a thanksgiving service in recognition of their safe arrival.

Ever since their founder, Casper Schwenkfelder Von Ossig, a Silesian nobleman of the 16th century, had disagreed with Luther over the nature of the sacraments and therefore decided to discontinue both baptism and communion until their purpose should be better understood, his followers have been subject to ridicule, imprisonment and death under Catholic and Protestant rulers. Finally they emigrated in a body to America in 1734.

After their thanksgiving service on September 24, 1734, a meal consisting of bread, butter, apple butter and cider were served. Annually since that time the Schwenkfelders meet on September 24 to celebrate their Gedächtnisz tag, and between the morning and afternoon services a repast is served similar to that of 1734, except that the apple butter is more plentiful and water is substituted for cider.

Jury Inflicts Death Penalty

Cynthia, Ky., Sept. 23.—After a trial lasting eight days, the jury in the case of Curtis Jett, charged with the murder of Town Marshal Cockerill at Jackson, Ky., July 21, 1092, last evening rendered a verdict of guilty, and fixed the punishment at death. The jury retired at 2:44 p. m. When the jury entered the court room at 5:10 p. m., after agreeing on a verdict, quiet reigned for a few moments. Jett's mother had gone away earlier, under the impression that no verdict would be reached, and the verdict of death coming two hours after the jury was out was a surprise to every one in the court room. The reading of the verdict did not affect Jett, but his brother was very much distressed.

Elijah McKinney served as foreman of the jury, and after the delivering of the verdict to the court, the jury was polled. The death sentence was then read to Jett by Clerk T. J. obinson, after which he was given over to the custody of the deputy sheriffs. Colonel Blanton, Jett's lawyer, will file a motion for a new trial tomorrow.

This has been the second trial of Jett on the charge of murder. In his first trial for the murder of J. B. Marcum, at Jackson, Ky., Jett and Thomas White were sentenced to life imprisonment.

The jurors agreed among themselves not to divulge the proceedings in the jury room. One juror, however, stated that for four ballots 11 jurors voted for the death penalty, and one for a life sentence. All agreed on the fifth ballot.

the Cascade Locks. He was captured two days ago by Sheriff Totten, of Skamania county, Washington, but got away, and was arrested next day by a deputy sheriff. He went along peacefully, but was merely biding his chance. When the officer and captive had walked some distance, and had gotten on fairly friendly terms, Burke suddenly seized the deputy, and a terrible struggle ensued.

Both men fought for every inch there was in them, but Burke's strength was supplemented by desperation, and he fought like a demon until he had the deputy overpowered. He then helped himself to the minion's rifle, revolvers and ammunition, bade him a sarcastic adieu and disappeared in the brush down the river.

This episode, as soon as it became known, convinced the officers that they have a desperate man to deal with. Sheriff Totten promptly organized and equipped a posse and went on the trail, determined to take the man, dead or alive. They will scour the country along the river to Vancouver. A reward of $150 is offered by the Washington county sheriff for Burke's capture.

Burke is the man who swindled a Jackson county bank out of about $250, and tried the same swindle at Forest Grove, where he was arrested as he entered the bank to pass a forged check. The officers of the bank had been forewarned, and thrust their guns in the man's face when he entered the bank. When arrested he was taken to the Hillsboro jail, where he located a weak spot in the walls and dug his way out, in company with a young fellow named McNamara, who has since been recaptured.

Big Parade of Odd Fellows

Baltimore, Sept. 23.—Routine business which has occupied the last three days of the meeting of the Sovereign Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. today gave way to the spectacular features of the program. This was the day of the big parade and it was by all odds one of the most imposing as well as the largest pageants of the kind ever seen in Baltimore. A conservative estimate places the number of men in line at 10,000, the Patriarchs Militant, the military branch of the order making a particularly gorgeous showing. The parade was headed by General M. A. Raney, commanding general of the Patriarchs Militant, with his staff. In line were the Patriarchs Militant, grand encampments, grand lodge representatives and subordinate lodge members from every state and territory in the Union, and from several of the Canadian provinces. The parade was reviewed by Grand Sire John B. Goodwin and other sovereign grand lodge members from a stand erected in front of the Odd Fellows' temple. The route of the procession, which was several miles long, was gorgeously decorated with the national colors intertwined about the emblems of the order.
