The Weather.

Tonight and Tuesday, occasional rain.

OCTOBER'S BRIGHT BLUE WEATHER.

O, sun and skies and clouds of June,
And flowers of June together,
Ye cannot rival for one hour
October's bright blue weather.

When gentians roll their fringes tight,
To save them for the morning,
And chestnuts fall from satin burs
Without a word of warning;

When on the ground red apples lie
In piles like jewels shining,
And redder still on old stone walls
Are leaves of woodbine twining.

When all the lovely wayside things
Their white-winged seeds are sowing,
And in the fields, still green and fair,
Late aftermaths are growing.

THE BETTER STREET CRUSADE.

Persons interested in better and cleaner streets for Salem would do well to make a study of State street.

By the enterprise of Wm. Brown that street was sprinkled as far east as the southern Pacific railroad and half a block beyond.

From that point east to the prison the street was finely graveled and was a fine roadway all spring and summer, but not sprinkled.

Dry weather and heavy traffic are grinding it to powder, and fast driving is becoming impossible, while the street is an extended cloud of dust.

If that street had been sprinkled east of the railroad as it was west of the railroad it would be a fine thoroughfare its entire length.

Sprinkling a street preserves the surface of it, and it wears twice as well, is smooth for driving, and clean, except some loose rock and horse manure and rubbish.

But even those evils are reduced to a minimum by sprinkling. A gravel road is a poor investment if not sprinkled in summer.

The janitors at the new postoffice deserve credit for removing the loose rock from the driveway on the west side of the building.

The asylum authorities have promised to remove the loose rock and rubbish from Asylum avenue. That street leads to the hospital and for the sake of the ambulance should be made as easy to pass over as possible.

STAND BY THE DELEGATION.

When Oregon is expecting so much from our delegation in congress, the effort of Oregon newspapers to weaken the delegation and make it inefficient and inharmonious seems untimely and uncalled for.

At best a far western state can accomplish little enough in the great national congress.

When our senators and congressmen can work in harmony it is always best that they should do so.

No delegation will ever be able to satisfy all the claimants in the republican party, nor suit all factions. But it will be a long time before Oregon has a more efficient delegation, and it is a longer time since we have had one so harmonious.

Let us stand by their work as far as possible for the welfare and development of the state and not seek to weaken their influence.

Why constantly represent that there is friction; that one or the other of them is "at outs" with the President; that they cannot agree on selecting a man for some petty land office?

We could reasonably expect such a course from a partisan democratic newspaper—and that would be poor politics for a Democrat—but Republican papers should be in better business.

THE ROOSEVELT OUTLOOK IN OREGON.

The past month there has been a decided change in the political atmosphere of Oregon, affecting in marked degree the attitude of Oregon politicians in the next presidential campaign.

It is well known that Senator Simon and his followers grew lukewarm towards the President on account of his refusal to appoint George Steel to the Oregon City land office.

The published letters in that case were of such a character that they left the impression that the Simon faction would not be enthusiastic for Roosevelt's nomination for President.

In the past month the entire delegation has been turned down by the President in the matter of the La Grande land office, Secretary Hitchcock's man, Davis, being appointed over Knowles.

The increasing difficulties over Secretary Hitchcock and the public land administration, especially turning down the Warner Lake settlers, will emphasize the situation still more.

Unless there is some change in the relations between the administration and the prominent politicians of Oregon, it is difficult to see how a delegation can be secured for Roosevelt from Oregon.

The Portland Oregonian editor has been at Oyster Bay, and has probably poured oil on the troubled waters, as his paper has only kind words for Roosevelt, and lots of them.

On his merits as a man, Roosevelt would carry Oregon by a large majority, if he were nominated. But the way things are going it is a question whether there can be a delegation of prominent men made up for him who would not have at least a little difference, if not coolness, towards his success.

JOURNAL X-RAYS.

The smell of the hop is in the land.

The maple trees are fine for shade and fire protection, but oh! how they do litter the streets.

Well, drat that Journal editor, he has howled about the dusty streets until now they will all be sprinkled by dame nature.

Three local events this week—public school opens, Willamette university opens, and the Methodist conference is held here.

The Attorney-General of Oregon would like to know how many times a man has got to be tried and acquitted for the same offense?

The American Economist says "Hearst publishes the worst papers on earth." The extent of the Economist's self-forgetfulness is almost criminal.

That poem on the bright blue skies of October was no more than put in type when it began to cloud up and rain like blazes. Poets always were an unfortunate class of mortals.

Clean streets will improve the value of all property, will promote the construction of better houses and business places, and everybody will have better health and more public spirit.

Mr. Bryan in the Commons; attacks the emergency currency plan advocated by Secretary Shaw, and asks him some pretty hard and searching questions. It is always easier for the fellow who is out to ask the fellow who is in hard questions.

The Journal will wager a bundle of old exchanges against a bushel of spuds that Carter Harrison, of Chicago, is the next Democratic candidate for President. And that is about as much as The Journal cares about it, and our opinion is no better than anyone else's.

Ex-Governor Geer is unfortunate. He let his farm for a term of years when a receding tide let him out of a job in politics. But a man at his time of life and with his abilities does not easily stay out of business very long.

The forest reserve policy, as it is being promoted in Oregon, to form bases for lieu land frauds, will come as near putting the Republican party out of business as anything ever. The President and all interested better drop Eastern college theories long enough to realize that the reserve system and the frauds connected therewith are a long way from the Abe Lincoln homestead policy, on which the Republican party got its first great start in business. It might be a sane policy to restrict grants of public lands to men with families who are bona fide home-makers, or persons declaring their intention to make a home for a family, and not give them the deed for the 160 acres until they have a family of at least two children to show as evidence of good faith. This would be more in accord with President Roosevelt's anti-racism talk, than allowing great corporations to gobble up the public lands by means of the scrip frauds.

Taxes Are Rolling In.

The last half of the unpaid taxes for 1903 will have to be paid in the sheriff's office by Monday, October 5th, and as there is a considerable sum due, there are many taxpayers crowding the sheriff's office, paying up. J. L. Skipton is again at work in the office, and the collection of the taxes and the work incident to the session of the criminal department of the circuit court, which opens next Monday, keeps Sheriff Colbath and three deputies busy from morning till night.

There will be paid in taxes this week no less than $15,000, and the sheriff thinks there will be very little left on the delinquent roll. The minute the time limit is up, the delinquent roll will be prepared and gotten out of the way, so as to make room for the new roll, which will come into the sheriff's hands 30 days earlier than last year.

MUST CONVINC.

Salem People Must Believe the Testimony of Her Best Citizens.

Testimony like that below cannot fail to convince Salem people, because a Salem man is the speaker and he is a man of reputation in the community. Jacob E. McCoy, bridge builder and contractor, residing on Capital street, second house beyond Mill creek says: "I have always enjoyed good health up to five or six years ago. Along about that time my kidneys commenced to bother me. There was not so much backache, but the principal symptoms were in connection with the kidney secretions. A strain or over-exertion very often caused hemorrhages of the kidneys. I cannot say that it was so painful but it was very annoying. I used various remedies and while some gave relief others were worthless. In some way Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my notice and when up town I dropped into Dr. Stone's drug store and procured a box, taking them as directed. A few doses gave me very convincing proof that they were going to the right spot, and though I can't say they have cured me, as I may never be cured, I can state that they gave me wonderful relief. I have a high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills and cheerfully recommend them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan and take no substitute.

DISTRESS AFTER EATING CURED.
Judge W. T. Holland, of Greensburg, La., who is well and favorably known, says: "Two years ago I suffered greatly from indigestion. After eating, great distress would invariably result, lasting for an hour or so, and my nights were restless. I continued to try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and it cured me entirely. Now my sleep is refreshing and digestion perfect." Sold by F. G. Hass, 96 State street.

The Schloss Memorial

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28.—The Hannah E. Schloss memorial building was formally dedicated today. The building was erected by the United Jewish charities of Detroit, and is to be used by them as a "neighborhood house," or social settlement, modeled after the famous Hull House, of Chicago. There will be sewing classes for poor girls, a school for immigrants, a memorial library, kindergarten, physical culture classes and other features.

Vulcan is Done in Iron

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 28.—A colossal statue of Vulcan, made entirely of Alabama iron, will be the central figure of the mineral exhibit to be made by the Birmingham district at the St. Louis world's fair. It is planned to have the statue designed by one of the best sculptors in the country, and to have it in every sense a work of art. The statue will be 60 feet in height, and it is proposed to set it up in one of the St. Louis parks as a permanent memorial after the exposition.

Boy Raised as a Girl Until Eight Years of Age

Loved His Sister's Lover and Tried to Kill Him on His Wedding Day

Mark Twain has written some remarkable stories of the errors of birth and the consequences that follow, but in all of them there is no more remarkable story than that told by Mrs. Earl Marshall, who is about to attain his majority.

Three weeks ago last night Earl Marshall suddenly gained notoriety by shooting at his sister, Nellie, and her husband, J. W. Roberts. The ceremony had scarcely been concluded when young Marshall dashed into the room and began shooting. Before he could be stopped he fired two shots, but they went wide of the mark and no one was injured.

The strange revelation made by the mother of the boy today shows that the shots were fired on account of jealousy, and furthermore, the denouncement of the strange story shows that Marshall had a peculiar double career.

Reared as a Girl.

For eight years Marshall lived and was reared as a girl, and the strangest part of the whole affair is found in the assertion that even his mother was not aware he was a boy.

Marshall was born in 1882 and for 20 years his mother had outdoubtedly guarded from the public the history of his early life.

At the time of his birth it was announced that a female child had been born, and for the first eight years of his life Marshall lived as a girl. His mother never discovered the error of the doctor until the boy was sent to a hospital for treatment for a nervous disease. The doctors, on examining the child, found that he was a male and notified the parents of their discovery.

From childhood Marshall had borne the name of Eva Marshall, and at the time of the discovery that he was a boy he declined to accept the decision of the doctors, and for the next seven years he continued masquerading as a girl.

Dons Male Attire.

When the family removed to Kenosha Marshall was forced to lay aside his petticoats and he donned man's attire.

Among his few men friends was J. W. Roberts, who was recently married to his sister, Nellie Marshall. Marshall was heart-broken when the approaching marriage of his sister to Roberts was announced.

Since the time of the shooting Marshall has been making an effort to clear himself of the guilt, and in order to do this he wrote to the papers in his former home town in Iowa and declared that the shots had been fired by Miss Eva Roberts, and asked that the papers there make an effort to locate Miss Eva Marshall and notify her parents. Through the investigation started by this letter the strange history of his birth and the error of his parents was made public.

Preparing for Court.

District Attorney Hart will be in Salem the last of this week to prepare the cases for trial that will come up in the circuit court next week. Next Saturday and Monday he will examine witnesses in cases of persons bound over to the circuit court, preparatory to filing informations when court opens Monday.
