

DRAW FINE LINES

The Two Lady Convicts Refuse to Recognize Each Other

Mrs. Crockett, Doing Life For Murder, Is Above Mrs. Carlisle With Only Ten Years.

Mrs. Minnie Crockett and Mrs. Rose Carlisle are the only two women serving in the penitentiary. Mrs. Crockett is serving a life sentence, from Baker county, for the murder of her husband, and the Carlisle woman is doing a 10-year term for arson, from Jackson county. Recently there was a clash between the two women, owing to the claims of Mrs. Crockett as to her superior social position, and so closely did she draw the social line that she even refused to hold converse with Mrs. Carlisle, claiming that her greater crime, murder, and heavier sentence, made her socially the superior of the woman who was only serving a comparatively short sentence for arson. For some little time this state of affairs continued. Mrs. Carlisle, according to the strict social laws adopted and enforced by the other woman, being a sort of social pariah, because of the fact that her degree of crime did not come up to the requirements for her recognition, socially. Now, it seems, this matter has been adjusted, for the authorities took a hand, and the two women are kept in the same room, and the society queen of the prison has decided to temporarily do away with the lines of social difference, or at least to relax them, and the two female prisoners are again fraternizing, apparently on a social level, and the society heaven in the prison is again serene and cloudless.

The President's Birthday.

Washington, Oct. 27.—For the third time President Roosevelt has passed a birthday anniversary in the White House. He was 45 years old today, and the occasion was remembered by every member of the family and many outside. Express wagons made frequent stops at the White House, and the doormen were kept busy taking in gifts. Congratulations came by mail, by wire, and some from across the sea, among the latter being a felicitous message from Secretary Root. There were numerous official callers, among the first to arrive being the members of the cabinet now in Washington. All took care to preface their business errands with fitting words of compliment to the President.

Daughters of the Confederacy.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 27.—The state convention of the Daughters of the Confederacy, which began in Atlanta today, has attracted a host of fair delegates from every section of Georgia. Savannah, Athens, Rome, Gainesville, West Point, Marietta, Griffin and Augusta are among the cities that have sent large delegations. The business sessions will continue three days and will be liberally interspersed with features of entertainment provided by the local members of the society and by the women of Atlanta generally. Today's proceedings consisted chiefly in the reception of the visitors, committee meetings and the routine business incident to the opening of the gathering.

Meeting of Mothers.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 27.—The New York State Assembly of Mothers began its seventh annual meeting here today with a good attendance of delegates. Addresses of welcome by Mayor Kline and others, followed by the annual address of the president, Mrs. David O. Meers, of Albany, occupied the forenoon. After luncheon the delegates reassembled and listened to addresses by Mrs. Linda Hull Larned, president of the National Household Economic association, and others. The sessions will continue through Thursday and will be devoted to papers and addresses dealing with educational, domestic science, juvenile courts and other matters in which the assembly is interested.

MAN WHO SWORE OFF SMOKING.

Extract From the Diary of George Washington Throggins.

(Chicago Tribune.)

August 21.—Have become convinced that I am smoking too much, and have decided to quit at once and for good. As a sort of object lesson, to keep before my mind the extravagance by which I have been guilty in the indulgence of the foolish habit, I have adopted this rule:

Whenever I have an inclination to smoke a cigar I shall drop into a small pasteboard box the sum of money it would take to buy the cigar. I shall deposit this money in bank from time to time and watch it grow.

August 2.—Pretty tough, but I'm sticking to it. Wanted a 10-cent cigar the first thing this morning. Put a dime in the paste-board box. Felt the same inclination twice during the forenoon. Two more dimes. Wanted to smoke three times in the afternoon. Sixty cents in the box.

August 3.—Decided it would be a good thing to taper off on my inclinations a little. Wanted to smoke three times this morning. Dropped a quarter in the box. Same thing in the afternoon. Another quarter. Got $1.10 saved now.

August 4.—Thought I might as well come down to nickle cigars. Getting rich too fast. All my hankerings today were resolutely scaled down to five-centers. Saved 40 cents. Got $1.50 now. When it gets to be $10 I shall deposit it in bank.

August 5.—Smoked a still cheaper grade today—in my mind. Eight for a quarter. Put 25 cents in the box.

August 6.—Had a strong inclination this morning for a 25-cent cigar. Decided to humor it to the extent of adding 25 cents to the collection. Cheap smokes are demoralizing. Humored it some more. Added $1.50 to the sum on hand, making $3.25 in all. This is too reckless. Must economize.

August 7.—Smoked, constructively, nothing but stogies today. Three for a nickle. Too cheap. Left a bad taste in my mind. All I put away today was 10 cents.

August 8.—Went back to the three for a quarter kind. Added half a dollar to the treasury.

August 9.—Had a strong desire for a 50-center today. Gratified it—in the same way. Felt that I could have smoked a coffin nail. Punished myself by going out and contributing a quarter to the fresh air fund.

August 10.—Got reckless again today and indulged in wild imaginings of unlimited stogies. Dropped 65 cents in the box. Have $5 now.

August 11.—Took the $5 and went out and bought a box of perfectos.
