NEWSY NEW YORK LETTER

What Is Doing In the World's Business Center

Tide of Immigration Has Ceased and Now Thousands are Crowding the Ships to Europe

New York, Nov. 21.—The next magnificent public building to be erected in New York City will be a court house costing $25,000,000. The site will probably be on Mulberry Bend park, a site convenient to the city hall and midway between the Brooklyn and Williamsburg bridges. The building will be an enormous affair, planned and built with an idea of furnishing sufficient court space for a city three times the size of the present one.

At the present rate it will not be long before New York will have a population as large as that of London, for this city seems to be growing much faster than its English rival. The population is gradually approaching the 4,000,000 mark and of the 3,723,503 people recorded in the health department estimates, 1,291,597 live in Brooklyn. The others are scattered in New York City and other boroughs.

Despite the fact that Tammany will be in control for the next two years, there is a growing hope that New York will have a fairly respectable city government. Even at its worst, an improvement over the Van Wyck administration is assured. Tammany paid dear for the flagrant crimes of that regime and men close to leader Murphy assert that the latter will not risk another popular uprising against the organization by a repetition of the baleful excesses of the Van Wyck rule. Another deterrent to license and open corruption is Murphy's ambition to attain a commanding position in national politics.

An important event in art circles will be the opening of the fourteenth annual exhibition of the New York Water Color club at the galleries of the American Fine Art society this afternoon. The exhibition will continue until December 13, and many handsome original water colors and pastels never before publicly exhibited in New York have been received to form the largest and best display that has been known in the history of the society.

The primaries for the election of a city committee of the Citizen's Union will be held Monday night next and political gossips have it that R. Fulton Cutting, whose work among the fusionists has been so conspicuous in this city, will retire from the presidency of the union. There is no doubt that the members of the organization would be glad to re-elect Mr. Cutting, but he is said to prefer to be chosen chairman of an organization committee, which he hopes will greatly extend the organization throughout the city. The present suggestions for the head of the union to succeed Mr. Cutting are Dr. Elgin R. L. Gould, the present city chamberlain; Francis G. Huntington or Calvin Tompkins, all of whom are independent Democrats. The present hope of this movement is that in time the Republican party will be entirely superseded as a municipal quantity, and that the union will be left alone as the antagonist of Tammany Hall.

A proposition that has been agitated for a long time by the entire southern section of New York state is the enlargement and deepening of the Fire Island Inlet, with a stone breakwater guard. It is now very probable that congress will be asked to make an appropriation for a survey of the inlet to be followed by an allowance for the construction of the work. It is stated that the inlet would make an ideal anchorage and harbor for ocean going vessels. It would also offer a strategic haven for war vessels in times of need and in many other ways prove advantageous.

New York probably makes the greatest preparation for Thanksgiving of any city in the country. Almost without exception elaborate services are prepared for the various churches throughout the city and apart from these services the committees for the relief of the poor make great provisions for these unfortunates who have no means of getting a good Thanksgiving dinner. Besides the churches there are the feasts given the poor by the Salvation Army, the Charity Organization society and other philanthropic institutions, and then private wealthy individuals supply a large number of poor families with Thanksgiving baskets. This year on account of the scarcity and increased price of turkeys a great many chickens and ducks will be used instead. Cranberries are on a sympathetic strike with the turkeys and it will take fifteen cents to buy a quart of them here. The price is 4 or 5 cents higher than last year at this time.

Saloonmen are much excited over the report that licenses in Brooklyn and Manhattan will be increased when the legislature meets. According to the rumor the increase in Manhattan and Brooklyn will be to $3000. Now the Brooklyn license is $975, while that of Manhattan is $1200. The reason for the expected increase is the heavy vote polled in favor of improving the canals. All up-state people voted "no" on the canal proposition, not caring to bear any of the expense entailed. As soon as they learned that the proposition had been endorsed, they demanded that they be exempt from taxation. The only way by which this can be done is to make the saloon keepers pay a higher fee for his license.

The churches are not behind the times in erecting magnificent new edifices in New York and, comparatively speaking, keep good pace with the commercial buildings. Only last Sunday the handsome three-quarter million Christian Scientist church at Central Park West and Ninety-sixth street was dedicated with elaborate ceremonies. On November 29 the new white marble building of St. Francis de Sale's Roman Catholic church, which is also on Ninety-sixth street, will be dedicated. The new church has one of the most beautiful exteriors of any church building lately erected in New York.

Much is heard about the swarms of aliens that pour into this port, but when the tide turns the other way, as it occasionally does, it is hardly noticed. Just now thousands of foreign-born persons are, for various reasons, returning to their native land. Football rushes and old-time cavalry charges are nothing to compare with the crowds that swarm around the piers of outgoing steamers. A decrease in the demand for labor is said to be one of the causes of the present rush for Europe.

It is very probable that Republican politics will make another attempt to pass a state constabulary act, placing the control of the police forces of the larger cities of the state in the hands of a state superintendent, to be appointed by the governor. This is a favorite scheme of Senator T. C. Platt, and he will control the next state senate by one vote over and above the Democratic vote, strengthened by the three Republican rebels, Senators Elsberg, Bracket and Brown.

Football enthusiasts are busying their brains over the outcome of the contest between Yale and Harvard at their usual Thanksgiving game next Thursday. A large number of lovers of the gridiron will go from here to witness the game, besides the members of the Yale and Harvard clubs established in the city.

R. R. Ryan & Co.

Some Oregon Timber.
T. J. Perkins, manager of the Parkburg Lumber Company, has written Jefferson Myers that he is sending to the Lewis and Clark commission a stick of timber five feet long and six inches square which was cut from a log of black myrtle, which has been on the ground and exposed to the elements for 100 years, says an exchange. The specimen will be forwarded to St. Louis and placed among the Oregon exhibits. Such timber is quoted at $500 per 1000 feet.

The Dean Lumber Company, of Marshfield, has also written that it will send a board of white cedar, cut at its mill, which is 12 feet long and eight feet wide. Also two black myrtle logs which have been sawed so the wood can be used for panels. A board eight feet wide, without a blemish, is considered by Mr. Myers as one of the greatest advertisements the state of Oregon can receive at St. Louis when people look into the resources of this section of the Union.—Eugene Register.

About Car Shortage.
The committee appointed by the Greater Salem Commercial Club to draft resolutions on the reported shortage of cars on the Southern Pacific, will meet tonight at the office of John Bayne, in the Bayne building, State street, to do the work assigned them. All the shippers of carload lots are urged to be present and to report to the committee their experiences and views. By order of J. M. Kyle, chairman.

Will Not Amend It.
Washington, Nov. 21.—The senate committee on foreign relations this morning agreed to report the Cuban bill without amendment, probably Monday.
