WHERE WE MISSED THE WAY.

Ah, love, if we could live again the happy olden years,
We would not walk the bitter way that led to only tears;
And we'd recall the words we said—the words we did not mean,
Down by the mill where the road divides and the river runs between.
One path led on to the busy town and one to a quiet lane;
One led to Love and Happiness—we chose the road to Pain.
The waters tried to tell us, dear, out there in the twilight gray;
We would not hear or understand—that's where we missed the way.

I longed for one forgiving word you would not utter, dear;
The falling waters drowned a sigh and the shadows hid a tear.
In the glare and noise of the busy town I dream of a quiet lane;
The shadows fall, again I hear the water's low refrain.
The mill stream sings in the after-glow as the golden dyes to red,
And bubbles the music of happy hearts and dreams that are long, long dead.
I feel your sweet, forgiving kiss; hear all you would not say—
And then I wake, and waking, see that we have missed the way.
—Maurice Smiley.

DIRECT PRIMARY SYSTEM.

Next Wednesday, at the Republican primaries, there will be placed in operation for the first time in Salem the direct nominating system. The fact that it is a new thing in Oregon makes many interested to know just how it works. The simplest way to state it is that the direct nomination ticket will be practically the same as the Australian ballot. Under the rule adopted by the Republican city committee any man can be a candidate and have his name on the ticket who has been properly petitioned for. A candidate for councilman must have five signers, and a candidate for mayor must have twenty signers to his petition. Upon receipt of these petitions the city chairman will place all the names of candidates in each ward in alphabetical order. In order to make the matter more clear a supposed ticket will be given below:

DIRECT PRIMARY SYSTEM.

FOR MAYOR.

- Dr. R. Cartwright.
- Thos. B. Kay.
- T. T. Geer.
- Thos. Sims.
- J. H. McNary.
- Gideon Stoliz.
- J. B. T. Tutbill.
- J. A. Baker.

SECOND WARD.

- For Councilman, Hermann Pohl.
- Frank Power.
- Max Buren.
- H. C. Eppley.
- T. B. Kay.
- C. H. Robertson.
- C. O. Constable.

Thus a ballot will be prepared for each ward, and the voter will make a cross before the name he wishes to vote for. There will be a mayor to vote for in every ward. In each of the four old wards there will be one councilman to nominate, and in each of the three new wards there will be two councilmen to nominate.

After the nominations are thus determined the Republican committee will make up a ticket for each ward, containing the names of the legal nominees, which will be voted on in the ordinary way, as no provision has been made for an Australian ballot on election day.

THE NEEDS OF ALASKA.

Senator Dillingham, of Vermont, recently gave the President a report on conditions in Alaska. The senator is chairman of the sub-committee that visited Alaska last summer. The visit was made by authority of the senate, and its purpose was to obtain information. There is imperative need of legislation to perfect the organization of the territory, and to protect citizens in their property rights. At the last session of congress a bill was pending directed to that end. The dead-lock over the statehood bill, that held up many important measures, prevented consideration of the Alaska bill. Senator Dillingham said:

"Alaska contains almost as much territory as is included in that part of the United States east of the Mississippi river and the most important problem is that of transportation. The towns in Alaska are small and maintain some roads and streets, but outside the towns and villages there are no highways. Trails are found here and there, and dogs are the most generally used means of transportation. Roads will do more to bring about the development of Alaska than any other thing in the world. The people particularly favor the construction of wagon roads. One high way especially, from Valdez to Eagle City, a distance of about 500 miles, would open up a rich country, and its construction would develop the section in a remarkable way. The people think that immense copper deposits north of Valdez would be developed should a road be opened. There is now a military trail between these places. With the opening of roads capital would undoubtedly follow, and in time there would be a railroad."

It is probable the sub-committee will recommend that the revenues derived from Alaska be set apart for making such public improvements as will promote the common interests and assist in the development of the territory.

Crater Lake.

McDonald Perdue, of Prospect, is authority for the following: Mr. Perdue lives within a few miles of Crater Lake, is perfectly familiar with that section of the country, and speaks from personal experience. He is not given to imaginative stories, and we would like to see his suggestion followed by a scientific analysis of the waters of the lake, so that its medicinal properties would be accurately ascertained. In his letter Mr. Perdue says:

"There has been a great deal written about Crater Lake. Its beauties and wonders have been pretty well described, but there is one thing about this wonderful place that is not generally known. That is the medicinal properties of its waters. I have never seen an account of where any of the water has ever been analyzed, to ascertain what kind of minerals it contains, but I know it is heavily charged with several kinds of minerals; and I further know that a person can wade, swim and plunge in the waters every day without the least danger of taking cold, and if a person has any cuts or bruises on their body, or any skin disease it will cure them quicker and cleaner than all the lotions and salves that have ever been discovered.

The old story about the Indian, that belonged to the tribe that discovered the lake, slipping away from his comrades at night and secretly bathe in the lake, thus becoming a Sampson of his tribe, is more than a mere superstition. If there is any such place as the fountain of youth or the pool of Salome, Crater Lake must be the place, and some day it will be a favorite training ground for athletes."—Medford Mail.

Horse Boxing the Latest Fad.

Horse boxing has become the latest fad of London. It has taken the place at once of the cakewalk and the circus. Every night thousands of persons go to Covent garden, where two splendid Arab horses put up as spirited and interesting a fight—or rather pedal-bout, as it is to be seen in any roped arena in England.

The equine boxers are led into a large square inclosure, where their feet are wrapped with heavy bags which, when adjusted, look very much like boxing gloves. Then at a word from their seconds, they leave their corners and walk to the center of the ring. There they rise to their hind legs and with their gloved forelegs held out as arms, begin the fray.

Like two scientific "knights of the padded mitt," they spar for openings, and then full swings, jolts, jabs and upper cuts follow in lightning succession. The horses seem to enter thoroughly into the thing, and the spectator goes away convinced that the equine bout was much more in earnest than many of those seen in the prize ring.

In sparring, the horse has not only to think about the effect of his pedal blows on his opponent; he must also consider their effect on himself, lest he lose his balance and topple over backward. A wild swing sends him on all fours, while a well-planted blow upon his opponent will send him rolling on his side.

No Knockouts Yet Scored.

Thus far no knockouts have been scored in the equine bouts at Covent garden, nor have the police then forced to interfere. But if the shows have had none of these thrilling side-lights, none of them at least has been "fixed," nor have the contestants gone to their dressing rooms with the cry of "fake" ringing in their ears. Whether it is because of the Arab's superior intelligence or because of something else, the equine battle has thus far been quite free from many of the incidents not infrequently connected with mills between two-legged fighters.

"The intelligence exhibited by these Arab horse boxers," say a returned traveler who has seen one of the Covent garden shows, "is really astonishing. I went to the garden expecting to see two trick horses perform somewhat as they do in the circus. I was amazed at what actually took place.

"From the instant the gong changed they were at it hoof and leg. Their hind feet were shod, so as to permit them to get a better purchase, but there are no shoes on their forefeet encased in the boxing bags. They seem to know all the fine points of the game, and watch for openings just like a clever human being.

"And the force they put into the blows shows they mean business. There are no pink-tea trimmings to one of their set-toes. The horses' forelegs fly out viciously, and when a blow lands it is pretty apt to knock the recipient over. If the idea is ever introduced in this country it will surely make a big hit."

JOURNAL X-RAYS

Football need not necessarily be a hoggish game, because it is played with a pig's kin.

F. E. Meyer, president of the "National Association of Agricultural Implement and Vehicle Dealers," (Heaven bless the name), is opposed to the eight-hour law, fearing it will discourage boys on the farm, and make them want to seek factory employment, and employes will have time to stop at questionable resorts on their way to and from work. Myers, it will be seen, is a philanthropist.

According to the Newberg Graphic, Dr. Minthorn says now is the only time in the history of Newberg "when every man could sell out to advantage." Make it a little plainer, doctor, there are lots of Missourians.

Patti's voice is said by some to be well preserved, while others insist it has only been dried.

Since the Panama episode Russia should explain that in the case of Manchuria she is not grabbing territory, but, in the language of one of our great statesmen, is simply "fulfilling manifest destiny."

Dr. Parkhurst, in a recent sermon, said that when Mayor Low's term expires New York "will be hell with the lid off." It will be some satisfaction to us outsiders to know that Dr. Parkhurst will be in the middle of it.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular course of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottle, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. At Dr. Stone's drug stores.
