Basket Ball.

The Y. M. C. A. basket ball team this afternoon started for Dallas, where they will engage in a game with the Dallas college team. Captain Frank Meyers thinks his team will show up well, but hardly expects to win, as the Dallas players last year were an exceptionally strong aggregation. Those composing the team are: Yantis, center; Allen and Rhodes, forwards; and Jones and Meyers, guards.

ROSEBURG REIGN OF TERROR

Hold-up Gang Operating in That City—Two Men Robbed

Roseburg needs two or three night policemen until the reign of terror has passed. Last evening, about 6:30, as John W. Wright, an insurance agent of this city, was on his way home in Kinrossville, in the north part of town, as he was nearing the railroad spur which runs to the prune packing plant, some desperado hit him across the right ear with a sandbag, knocking him senseless. His pockets were searched, netting the robber only 60 cents. His watch and chain were not taken, possibly being overlooked in the robber's hurry to escape, fearing detection. About an hour later a passerby discovered Mr. Wright as he was regaining consciousness, and helped him home. Dr. Du Gas was called in attendance, and today says no serious consequences have resulted.

Mr. Clayton (another case) was on his way to the station to check a small lot of luggage, preparatory to departing on the northbound overland. As he was passing before Hon. Wm. R. Willis' residence, opposite the Presbyterian church, he was met by the robber and ordered to throw up his hands. Mr. Clayton complied, and the highwayman, not losing any time, immediately began searching his pockets, keeping him covered with the revolver. As he reached the pocket containing the money, Clayton showed his courage by telling the robber: "There is $18 in there, and you may as well take it." The robber did so, and then placed the weapon to Mr. Clayton's back and ordered him to move on, accompanied him for a short distance, then disappearing in the dark.

Mr. Clayton described the man as being about 5 feet 10 inches tall, and of slender build, with a prominent nose and light moustache, wearing a light-colored coat and vest and a soft hat, and the robber stooped somewhat. Mr. Clayton said he could easily identify the robber in case of capture, but the authorities are unable to find any clue to the identity of the robber.—Roseburg Plaindealer.

DO NOT WEAR A LONG FACE

It is a Great Handicap in All Business and Social Relations.

The man who looks as if he had lost his last friend is in no danger of being crushed by the jam of new ones unless he "cheers up." People are not going out of their way nowadays to associate with the man of mournful and melancholy appearance. They are afraid he will tell them of his troubles and they steer clear of him as they all have plenty of their own.

The most universal cause of the forlorn and hopeless appearance today is dyspepsia. It unfits a man for every duty of life and causes him to become despondent and gloomy and necessarily his looks do not bode his feelings. He appears cast down and dejected and becomes a burden to himself and humanity in general.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the dyspeptic's certain relief. They do the work that his stomach is unable to do and by relieving that organ of its burdens, permit it to regain its health and strength and again become active and useful in its functions. They contain all the essential ingredients that enter into the digestive fluids of the stomach and they actually take up the work and do it just as a healthy, sound stomach would.

By this means a man can go right ahead with his work and eat enough to keep him in proper working condition. His system is not deprived of its necessary nourishment as it is in the case of the "starvation cure" or the employment of some of the first class chicken foods now on the market. Starvation, even if it were a good thing, could not be continued long enough to effect a cure; for a disordered and worn-out stomach is not going to become strong and healthy in two or three days.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets act naturally because they contain natural digestives. The principal component parts are aseptic pepsin, malt diastase and other ingredients with like properties that do the work regardless of the condition of the stomach. There is no unnatural or violent disturbance of the digestive organs as the result of their action. In fact, the existence of the stomach is entirely forgotten as soon as they have had time to begin their operations. They also possess very curative and healing properties and assist the stomach in getting well, while relieving it of its work. They perform the duties of both nurse and physician.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50c a box and there is very little danger of any druggist trying to sell you something else in its place that is "just as good." They are so well established and have done so much good in the world that their name has become a household word; so the usual warning, "Accept no substitute," is unnecessary in the case of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

HELLO! BILL

What would you do if on the eve of your marriage, just as the culminating point of your life had been reached, and you were to find to the altar the woman on whom all your heart's holiest affections were centered, if a huge sheriff placed his hand on your shoulder, and informed you that sixty days in the county jail awaited you for being an inmate of a gambling house? There is but one answer: you would accompany the sheriff, and lie about your destination to your bride to be. That sounds very easy, but what lie would you tell her? William Fuller, the hero of Willis Maxwell Goodhue's jolly comedy, "Hello Bill," which comes to the Opera House next Saturday, thinks he has a very good fiction to fill the occasion which suddenly arises, but after five or six of his falsehoods have reacted on him, he is almost inclined to change his mind, and agree that the truth is better at all times. If ever a man gets into trouble through provocation, the poor, luckless "Bill" is that fellow. Every fiction he invents to account for his absence during those sixty days gets him into a worse plight until he is about ready to give up the ghost. Husbands who want to think up good excuses for absenting themselves occasionally from the conjugal nest, and wives who have a desire to behold what their erring spouses encounter when away from their watchful eye should all see "Hello Bill," and they will learn a thing or two, besides laughing till their sides ache at the merry quips and screaming situations of what is described as the funniest farcical comedy ever. The splendid company which Messrs. Goodhue & Kellogg have gathered together for this season's presentation includes, besides the favorite comedian Harry Blakemore, who has been especially engaged for the title role, such well-known and sterling artists as Arthur L. Coglier, Frank Mestry Kelly, Edwin P. Gayer, Phillip Sheffeld, Henry Adams, the Misses Irene Hobson, Kathleen Clifford, Kathryn Vincent, Alice Moffatt, and Pauline Hickler. Seats on sale Saturday at 9 a. m. Curtain at 8:15.

"The Minister's Son."

After a surfeit of lurid and over-drawn melodramas, so-called comedies with their light stupidities called wit, and the unfathomable problem plays with their absurdities supposed to be wisdom, it is with genuine pleasure that one can look forward to a visit of the "Minister's Son," the pastoral play that the eminent comedian Mr. W. B. Patton is soon to present here. An evening that can be recalled with the most pleasant memories can but fall to the lot of the auditor who sits through a performance of "The Minister's Son," a play of worth, of naturalness, a play that is uplifting and above all a play that is pure and one which competent critics have fit to say that "one is better for having seen." It is a well known fact that a play without heart interest rarely ever achieves success. From the boy in the gallery to the gray haired man down stairs they all want some love, some devotion, but it must be true to nature, and clear. With a play so purely human and so admirably presented, small wonder that Mr. Patton has achieved a success of the most pronounced kind and reached a prominence that few stars attain without years of waiting. Urged on by the phenomenal success of the last season's production the management has seen fit to surround Mr. Patton with the very best cast attainable and the scenery and accessories will be of the most lavish description. Seats on sale Monday at 9 a. m. Curtain at 8:15.
