

FRED GALE THE CRIPPLE MURDERED

Cottage Grove Man Died Yesterday From His Injuries

Assaulted and Robbed New Year's Day, He Dies From the Effects of the Beating

The Daily Guard Saturday printed a dispatch from Cottage Grove to the effect that Fred Gale, a cripple, was horribly beaten by thugs and robbed of $32 early Friday morning, while he was alone in his cabin at Cottage Grove.

Word was received by Sheriff Fred Fisk this morning that Gale died from his injuries last night. The sheriff left on this afternoon's train for Cottage Grove to investigate the matter. Coroner C. B. King being ill today, he sent word to Justice Vaughn, of Cottage Grove, to conduct an inquest over the man's body. The inquest is being held this afternoon.

Badly Mutilated. When his neighbors found Gale on New Year's morning he was unconscious, his nose was broken, his face and head badly mutilated, and there was a large bruise on his chest. It was thought that the blow on the chest caused his death.

The Murderers. It is not learned here whether or not a clew has been obtained to the murderer or murderers.

Gale had recently sold out his harness shop at Cottage Grove, and was supposed to have quite a sum of money about his cabin, but it seems that he had placed the money in a bank, or had otherwise disposed of it, as the thugs only secured the $32 as reported.

May Be Local Men.

While many people believe the story that the murderous assault was made for the purpose of robbery, it is reported that there is a strong belief in Cottage Grove that the murdered man and others at that place had been drinking, and became engaged in a row with the aforesaid result. In that case the killing may be laid at the doors of a number of Cottage Grove men.

However, this is mere conjecture. The verdict of the coroner's jury may throw some light on the case.—Eugene Guard.

MARIE ANTOINETTE'S HARP.

Favorite Instrument of the French Queen Will Be Sent to New York.

(Washington Times.) Marie Antoinette's harp is to be put up for sale in New York. The unhappy queen of the revolution possessed two harps, both of which were built in the year 1780 by Jean Henri Noderman, the principal fabricant of harps in France at that time. These harps, one of which was the property of King Louis XVI himself, and the other of the queen, were excellent instruments, though unlike in appearance. One had its arms carved in the same piece as the column of the harp and a blooming rose curled round the column, while the other had in quality of arms a little gilt pigeon, fixed with a tape upon the plateau of the column.

After the death of the queen her possessions in the Little Trianon were transferred to Versailles, where everything was sold by auction on June 28, 1794, and the following days. Among them were the two harps. One of them was purchased by a noble lady, the Baroness Dornier, whose descendants afterward made a present of it to the instrumental museum of the Conservatory in Paris.

The other harp, the queen's favorite instrument, was to have been sold on the same occasion, but when the time came for it to be auctioned off no one could find it. Whether the harp disappeared long remained a mystery, but it was granted a Swedish Maecenas, the governor of a province, the Count Frederic Adolphus Eric Cronstedt, from Stockholm, to discover its hiding place.

He found the harp in a garret in one of the little suburbs of Paris—Anieres—while on a journey to the southern countries. He had no occasion to fetch the harp at that time, so he left it there during fourteen and one-half years, after which time it was sent to Sweden in the year 1819. Upon its arrival in Sweden the harp was given by Count Cronstedt to his foster daughter, who became Lady Christina Louis Gedda, in the year 1878, the harp was transferred to her daughter, Mistress Amely Langberg, born Gedda, and after her death, 1893, the instrument passed over to her son, Alvar Langenberg, and to his children.

The harp, as has been said before, was made by Noderman, and stands nearly two meters high. The precious instrument has seven pedals, while all the earlier harps have no more than five. The strings are tuned over again by hooks, the construction for which became characteristic of all the harps of Noderman, while the machinery represented the highest degree of mechanism of the time. The upper part of the column is adorned with beautiful gilt. There are plenty of certificates proving that the harp really is genuine.

The present owner of it is not rich enough to keep the precious historical instrument for himself, so he has at last decided to sell it. The Conservatory at Moscow has offered $75,000 for it, yet Mr. Langenberg has found the sum too small. Now he intends to find a buyer in America. Marie Antoinette's harp will soon be sent from Sweden to New York, where it will be on exhibition.

MAGIC PALMING HYPNOTISM

Professor McEwen the World Renowned Wizard

The Student Who Has Surpassed the Masters, Greatest of Hypnotists, Greatest in Magic

Wednesday night, under the auspices of Salem lodge of Elks, Professor McEwen, begins a four-night engagement. The professor's reputation as a hypnotist is such that it overshadows his reputation as a sleight-of-hand performer, and yet he stands in the front rank as an exploiter of legdemain. While hypnotism attracts many with its inexplicable mystery, perhaps a majority do not care either to investigate or understand focused on the dominions of the shah. Mr. J. D. Rees, who lectured on "Persia" at the London Institution recently, had a good deal to say of the manners and customs of the people with whom he is so familiar. With regard to the veil worn by the ladies, he thinks it is more of a privilege than a punishment. Screened behind it, woman may walk wherever she pleases, and even her husband dare not question her movements. Doubtless many Persian ladies make the most of their opportunities. The Persians, as a rule, do not think it right to take wine, but as nearly all their poetry is in praise of the flowing bowl, it will be inferred that they frequently do violence to their consciences. Occasionally, however, they are seized with remorse; whereupon they destroy the wine of their American neighbors.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous services.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

it; but when it comes to sleight-of-hand, there is not one in a hundred but that enjoys having their senses deceived, and seeing the laws of nature apparently set aside and overcome. To these we say go and see McEwen. The program is a long one, and one that you will enjoy. It will interest, amuse and bewilder you. And you will go home wondering at the marvelous training of the hand that makes it excel in quickness even the eye. That makes it possible to deceive the senses, and compels one almost to believe what reason tells him is deception. This is what McEwen does, and his work is done so easily, so smoothly that it is almost impossible to believe that any deception can exist. Don't forget that you will see not only an exhibition of hypnotism, but one of the very best programs in the way of so-called magic, that was ever presented in Salem—Wednesday night Elks' benefit, and the balance of the week. Curtain at 8:15.

BIDS INVITED

For supplies for the Oregon State Penitentiary, during the period ending June 30, 1904.

Sealed bids for Drugs, Dry Goods, Groceries, Shoes, Leather and Findings, Plumbing Supplies, Hardware, Flour, Fish, Meat, etc., will be received at the office of the Superintendent of the State Penitentiary until Thursday, January 7, 1904, at 3 o'clock p. m., at which time they will be opened.

A deposit of $200 in cash or certified check, payable to the Superintendent, must accompany each bid for meat or flour, and all other bids must be accompanied by an amount equal to 10 per cent of the amount of the bid.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids, and to accept or reject any portion of a bid.

On each envelope should be inscribed the nature of the bid. Goods of Oregon manufacture or production will receive preference, other things being equal.

All goods and supplies must be delivered to the Penitentiary within 20 days after the contract is awarded. Schedules of the various lines of goods will be furnished upon application to the Superintendent.

Vouchers will be issued for payment on the first of the month following the completion of contract, and monthly on continuous contracts.

Bidders are invited to be present.

Thirty Years of Severe Heart Trouble.

Obtained No Relief Until I Tried Dr. Miles' Heart Cure—It Cured Me.

Since the advent of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure the general public has learned to know that heart disease is curable. Fluttering, palpitation, shortness of breath and heart pains rapidly disappear before its magic influence. It is unequalled as a heart and blood tonic. "My case was one of long standing. As early in life as my thirty-sixth year, or more particularly November, 1868, when returning home from a journey, I was taken with a severe congestive chill, which caused my whole frame to shake, and which a noted physician pronounced a case of severe congestion of the heart. From that time on for thirty years I gradually became enfeebled in health, until 1894, my sufferings became intense from shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart. I could obtain no permanent relief, although I spent much money in procuring medical advice, until I took several bottles of Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart. I continued the remedy until my health was restored, and always keep a supply on hand for any emergency. I am now past 70 years of age and weigh 175 pounds. I have also used Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills, Anti-Pain Pills and Nerve Plasters with good results. The Anti-Pain Pills proved most effective in a most painful attack of neuralgia, and also for sciatica. It is my experience that the remedies can be relied upon absolutely every time they are properly used."—W. G. BOWMAN, Beaver City, Utah.
