

$150 TIFFANY DIAMOND RING FREE $150

JOURNAL DIAMOND UNKNOWN NUMBER GUESSING CONTEST

EVERY SUBSCRIBER TO HAVE AN OPPORTUNITY TO GUESS ONCE ON A $150 DIAMOND RING

Beautiful First Water Stone Set in a Tiffany Gold Ring Given Away as An Expression of Good Will Toward Subscribers

Your Choice of 975 Numbers, Any One of Which May Be the Unknown Number That Gets the Glittering Diamond --No Possibility of Any Crooked Work.

The Journal has placed an order through the C. H. Hinges jewelry house for a $150 diamond of the finest water, to be given away to subscribers to Daily or Weekly Journal—for each dollar paid the subscriber is to have one guess at an unknown number of three figures, that will be placed in a sealed envelope. This is not a drawing, lottery, or gift enterprise of any kind—but a mere innocent, harmless guessing contest that will make some one richer by a present of a fine $150 diamond set in a Tiffany gold ring.

How to Participate.
For each receipt of one dollar for the Daily or Weekly Journal, to any address, the person to whom the receipt is issued, will be given an opportunity, absolutely without cost, to have a guess at the unknown number, and the person or persons guessing nearest that number will receive as a present and without any compensation whatever, and merely as an expression of good will on the part of The Journal toward its subscribers, the $150 diamond Tiffany ring advertised in this paper and on exhibition at the jewelry store of C. H. Hinges, 88 State street, Salem, Oregon. The party paying one dollar or more shall receive a receipt for each dollar paid, and have the opportunity to guess a different number for each such receipt held. No commission is allowed to any agent or solicitor for securing subscribers, and the person so subscribing does it with the understanding that the Daily or Weekly Journal be accepted as payment in full for the money paid.

Unknown Number—How Prepared.
The unknown number that is to be guessed will be made up in the following manner. The ten numbers from sought to nine will be put on separate slips of paper and folded so as to be unseen, and a committee of subscribers will be asked to conduct the assembling of the unknown number. This unknown number will be formed at The Journal office on Monday, January 11, 1904, in the following manner: The ten numbers from naught to nine, inclusive, on separate slips of paper, in small sealed envelopes, will be placed in a box, shaken, and a blindfolded person in the presence of the committee will draw out three of those ten numbers, marking the first one, the second two and the third three in figures, and they will then be placed in a large envelope, sealed up and placed with the diamond on exhibition in the jewelry store show window each day during the guessing contest, and will not be opened until the contest is closed, when the diamond will be given to the nearest guesser. The unknown number will be formed by putting together the three numbers in the order as marked, one, two, three, on the envelopes in which they are contained. The unknown number will not be assembled until the guessing contest is completed, and publicly announced to subscribers.

Limited Competition.
The number of receipts issued in this contest will be limited to the number of guesses possible in the range of the numbers between 012 and 987, as the unknown number must be composed of a figure within those limits. The unknown number cannot be less than 012 nor more than 987. To be a perfectly harmless and innocent and amusing guessing contest the number to be guessed at must be and remain absolutely unknown. There must be no chance for any crooked work on the part of The Journal publishers, or the jeweler furnishing the diamond, nor on the part of any subscriber. The receipts for this guessing contest will be numbered in duplicate, but the stub will be only for the purpose of identifying the subscriber who is the successful guesser—each subscriber writing the guess number on the back of his receipt—each one making his or her own guess at the unknown number. As soon as the receipts are all sold the guessing contest will be over and the nearest number awarded the diamond.

How the Guesses Are Made.
On securing a receipt for one dollar or more, the person wishing to guess will write his guess between the above numbers on the back of the receipt in ink or indelible pencil, writing only one guess on each receipt, and depositing the same in the soldered tin box provided at The Journal office for that purpose. Subscribers out of town will be allowed to make their guess in the same manner, and send the same in a sealed envelope plainly marked "Journal Diamond Guessing Contest," and they will be deposited in the box. The soldered tin box will not be cut open until all the receipts in the guessing contest are sold—975 receipts in all.

Receipts Now Ready.
Subscribers can now get their receipts and begin making guesses to secure the $150 diamond, which has been ordered from San Francisco, and will be set and put on exhibition as soon as it arrives. Subscribers by mail and at Journal special delivery stations in the suburbs of Greater Salem will all be given the same opportunity to guess.

PELEE OBELIAK FOUND

(Brooklyn Citizen.)

Professor Angelo Heilprin, the distinguished geographer and explorer, lectured at Association hall last evening under the auspices of the department of geology of the Brooklyn institute, on "The Giant Obelisk of Mont Pelee; New Researches in Martinique." While much that he said has already been made public in magazine and newspaper articles, yet he was heard with the greatest interest by a large audience. It will be remembered that he was the first to make known to the world the wonders of the extraordinary tower that was formed in the crater of Mont Pelee. He gave an account of this, fully illustrated with fine lantern photographs. It was a giant mass of solid lava extended by the volcano which overtopped the actual summit of the mountain by about 1000 feet. This core of rock, "a veritable ascending obelisk," was, at the time of Professor Heilprin's latest visit to Martinique, in June of this year, 840 feet in height, and had a thickness at the base of from 300 to 350 feet. "It stood up," said Professor Heilprin, "a veritable monument—nature's monument to the 30,000 dead lying below—whose rate of ascent has been as much as 21 feet in four days. It was the most remarkable feature known and unique among the world's wonders. One side of it was smooth and polished like rock which had been ground by a glacier, thus showing the force which propelled it and pushed it through rock masses of great solidity.

But in the latter part of October the volcano increased its activity, and gradually the rock cone or stopple was withdrawn, to be succeeded by a dome-like mass which increased in size about as did the cone in height, though one day it broke the record and increased seventy-four feet. This new growth is particularly interesting to scientists, as it confirms what was observed in lesser degree in Vesuvius in the great eruption of 1895. There is no predicting what this volcano will do next. "What its future history will be remains for the future to tell," said the lecturer.

Pictures taken last June were compared with some taken on the occasion of Professor Heilprin's first visit, that the rank growth of tropical vegetation on the ruins of Martinique and the villages about might be appreciated. In some cases it has almost obliterated the marks of desolation. Yet most of what were the beautiful valleys still remain waste and where the Riviere Blanche ran, the covering of ashes is from 100 to 300 feet deep. Other valleys have been filled with huge boulders thrown out by Pelee and washed down in the torrential streams. Pictures showed meadows covered with these, one stone measuring 18x12x8 feet. Several villages which were left untouched by the ashes or the explosion were ruined by this avalanche of stone, evidently just before the June visit. Then, also, was taken a picture of the chapel where the heroic Pere Marie officiated and of troops of refugees who were wandering about in search of new dwelling places, living on government aid, afraid to settle anywhere, because of the volcano, yet wishing to stay in Martinique, which is their home.

As an evidence that people were thinking of possible danger from Pelee at the time of the great eruption, though probably not of possible ruin of the city, Professor Heilprin instanced the finding of manuscript among the ruins telling of volcanic eruptions in other parts of the world, evidently a part of a student's copy book, and also a library volume on volcanic action.

Red Time
I take a pleasant herb drink, the next morning I feel bright and my complexion is better. My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. It is made of herbs, and is prepared as easily as tea. It is called Lane's medicine. All druggists sell it at 25c and 50 cents. Lane's Family Medicines moves the bowels each day. If you cannot get it, send for free samples. Address, Orator Woodward, LeRoy, N. Y.

From the sayings of Philosopher Ed White: "There's a great resemblance between a retired fighter and a boil. You can never tell when either is going to break out."
