This evening a large audience will be present to enjoy the excellent program: Governor Chamberlain, Hon. T. T. Geer, Superintendent J. H. Ackerman and Colonel E. Hofer will be present and entertain the audience with short talks pertaining to educational work.

WILLIAM FABER EXPIRES

Could Not Recover From Shock of Surgical Operation

A Prominent Albany Citizen and Thorough Business Man Held in High Esteem by All

William Faber, for many years a prominent business man of Albany, died in Portland this forenoon, as the result of an operation performed yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Faber, who was the senior member of the firm of Faber & Nies, owners of the Albany brewery, and leading dealers in hops, was for years well and favorably known throughout the state as a good business man, enterprising and thorough. He was very successful in his operations, and accumulated quite a fortune, and, though still in the prime of life, had laid aside a portion of his business cares of recent years, and a few years ago he built a fine residence in Portland, removing to that city last year, to give his children the advantages to be derived from the excellent school facilities to be had there. He still retains his business interests in the valley, at Albany and here, and his influence in his line was felt throughout the state.

Mr. Faber was a man of the highest integrity, of generous impulses, and had many warm friends wherever he was known. In fact, it might be said of him that enemies he had none, for he was not the man to offend any one, while his kindly acts were so numerous as to merit for him the respect of even those who had not an intimate acquaintance with him. Especially popular was he in business circles in this city and Albany, and the latter city will sincerely mourn him as one of its most enterprising business men, who has done more for that place than perhaps any other one man. No funeral arrangements have as yet been made.

SOMETHING IN TRAIN ROBBING

amount the robbers secured, but it is known to be large. Many valuable express packages were in the safe, as well as considerable coin.

The first information of the hold-up was received by Supt. Aglar, of the Southern Pacific, and came in a message sent by Conductor B. H. Meyers from King City. It merely stated that the safe had been thrown off the train by unknown parties. Upon receipt of the message Aglar ordered an engine out of San Luis Obispo, which was boarded by Sheriff Evans of San Luis Obispo county, and a number of deputies and railroad employees, and sent at full speed to the scene of the robbery, and, after a brief search, the safe was found, but no trace of the robbers. That the men who committed the crime were familiar with the custom of the express messenger and his help, in leaving their car and going into the baggage car during the early morning hours there can be no doubt, and suspicion naturally point to frequenters of one of the depots along the line or to some ex-employees as leaders. The mystery surrounding the robbery is made deeper by failure of the bandits to blow the big safe, which is believed to have contained between $20,000 and $30,000. The superintendent of Well-Fargo Express Company declares the safe could not contain a great amount of valuables, and that it was used principally by the messenger as a repository for way papers and small packages. He refuses to estimate the amount of plunder.

The robbers were evidently pressed for time after getting off the train and locating the safe, as they failed to make a complete job of looting. When the blown treasury box was picked up it was found a diamond worth probably $600 was overlooked. Pieces of torn express envelopes were found strewn indiscriminately about the spot, showing further evidence of extreme haste in getting away with the booty. An unofficial estimate places the amount of plunder at $80,000, but express and railway officials unite in asserting the loss is comparatively insignificant. A conservative estimate places the loss at about $10,000, but, as the express officials are the only persons who know the full extent of the robbery, its magnitude may never become public.

SUDDEN DEATH.

It is Usually the Result of Long Neglect to Exercise.

In almost every daily paper are to be seen several announcements that somebody has died suddenly. These sudden deaths are more liable to be men than women. Mr. So-and-so fell dead on the street or in his office while writing letters or preparing a sermon or doing something or other. "Found Dead in His Room" is becoming a very common headline. These deaths are hardly ever accounted for. Generally something is said about the heart—some vague intimation that the heart was not acting in a proper manner—but, as a rule, no explanation which is really rational is furnished.

It is a well known fact that the heart is a muscle. If the muscles of the body are allowed to become flabby, the heart also becomes flabby. A flabby heart may be trusted to pump the blood through the system ordinarily, but a sudden fright or emergency, a sudden expenditure of energy, as in running up steps or any other unusual exercise, is liable to overpower the heart. It suddenly stops, and the man falls dead.

Tobacco tends to produce a flabby heart; whisky tends to produce enlargement of the heart; lazy, indolent habits weaken the heart and thin the ventricles. That man who indites editorials, dictates letters, but takes no muscular exercise, is in danger of falling dead. The life insurance man better steer clear of him. It is of vastly more importance to know what his habits are with reference to physical exercise than to know whether his grandmother died of heart disease or his grandfather had rheumatism. The doctor might a great deal better interview his wife and discover how the man behaves himself than to examine the blood for microbes or the urine for urate crystals.

If a man must be strenuous, let him be strenuous all round. He should take a little strenuous physical exercise every day as well as strenuous mental work. It is even dangerous to neglect to take daily physical exercise. Fatty degeneration is killing more men today than is smallpox.—Medical Talk.

HOPS KEEP FIRM

Prices Are Fluttering but Keep Getting a Little Higher

The hop market in this city and throughout the coast states is strong and the few hops still in the dealers' hands are eagerly sought for by the dealers. In some instances prime hops have been sold at 27 1/2 cents, and choice hops are being held for 30 cents. A deal is on by which a 1000-bale lot in Tacoma may be sold within a day or two to a Salem dealer, the latter having offered 28 @ 29 cents for the crop. All grades of hops are commanding a good price, and the tendency of the hop market is upward.

The Waterville (N. Y.) Times says of market conditions there:

"Although there have been sales reported at 35c nearby, nothing definite is known of such transactions. It is certain, however, that the market remains firm, and the few holders in the vicinity even firmer."

The New York Journal and Bulletin, January 15th, says of the market in that city:

"Business continued quiet. The few orders received from brewers were limited to small quantities. There was a fair amount of competition between dealers for the limited volume of business transacted, and prices for Pacifics were being shaded slightly. A limited export inquiry was reported for States. Offerings were light, due to the small stocks, and prices were firmly maintained. The general tone of the market held firm, most dealers expressing confidence in the situation, and with any kind of a demand prices would quickly harden. Advances received from the coast report unchanged and firm markets. No changes were reported in foreign markets, which were reported as holding firm."
