

Money Saved Right Here

All Eyes This Way

TIMES UP and every article in Men's, Boys' and Children's Clothing, Hats and Hatterdashery must now leave our store P. D. Q.

We're going to shrivel the prices on piles of reasonable merchandise so that every dollar bill will appear to be of twice its ordinary value. The sale opens with a great bargain broadside all along the line. Come and enjoy mixing with the buying throngs and save BIG, HARD, ROUND DOLLARS.

THE REASON

The reason for this sale is that we don't propose to carry over our stock until another season. We can use the money and want it.

FIRST PRISON EXECUTION IN OREGON.

The first legal execution of a prisoner under death sentence took place at the state prison, Friday, January 29th. A full account is given in this paper.

It is the intention of the authorities to limit the extent of the newspaper reports of executions in the future, and this is probably the last detailed story of an execution in Oregon.

The policy of having all executions take place at the state prison is a just and humane one. There will be less bungling of the awful duty that devolves on the officers of the state, when it is done by experts at a state institution, and with the most improved scientific appliances.

There will be better order and more decorum, and less chance for mob interference or improper conduct on the part of prisoners or public. In time executions will attract very little attention.

The merits of the death penalty are not discussed in this instance. States that have repealed the death penalty have re-enacted it, and the question is an open one.

Man singly or collectively has not the right, inherently or from any basis of moral or spiritual law, to take away life. But human law is a temporal compromise in the lame and blind effort of society to administer justice.

Absolute justice and absolute right are founded on principles that can neither be interpreted nor applied by human wisdom or human intelligence. So at best we rest the case in necessity and in the effort of society and law makers to protect human and social interests.

That there underlies all these efforts a principle of progress we must believe. The instances for which the death penalty has been applied as a point of punishment for crimes has in the past two centuries been reduced from hundreds to very few.

On the line of humane progress the death penalty will, in course of time, be entirely abolished, as have been other grave remedies for evil, when the evils themselves have disappeared. For the unfortunate first man to be

If there is one thing that will arouse the ire of the people of this country quicker than another, it is the idea of enslaving children.

God knows we are unjust enough to them in our crowded cities, where factory inspectors do not inspect; in our cotton mills, where mere babies do the work of adults; in our crowded tenement districts, where "little mothers" of 8 or 10 often are compelled, by circumstances, to assume the cares of a family.

We repeat, we are unjust enough, and more than enough, to them, but we haven't reached the point where we will willingly allow one child to become the property of a master or mistress.

If our histories are correct, we built ships, sacrificed many lives and expended millions of money to wipe out the slave trade, and there should be a clean-up right now in Alaska.

There isn't a place on the globe big enough for the perpetuation of the detestable business.

SO DIFFERENT.

Lots of Claims Like This But So Different—Local Proof is What Salem People Want.

There are a great many of them. Every paper has its share. Statements hard to believe, harder to prove.

Statements from far-away places. What people say in Florida. Public expression from California. Ofttimes good endorsement there.

But of little service here at home. Salem people want local proof. The sayings of neighbors, friends and citizens.

Home endorsement counts. It disarms the skeptic beyond dispute.

This is the backing that stands behind every box of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a case of it:

James A. Tanner, farmer, corner Thirtieth and Lewis sts., says: "So many suffer from kidney complaint that for a time I was alarmed about myself for I was troubled with my back aching in the region of my kidneys. I think it was caused first by a strain from heavy lifting I did two years ago. I kept getting worse instead of better and finally consulted a doctor. He told me I had gall stone in the bladder, but trouble with kidney secretions existed their too frequent action disturbed my rest from fifteen to twenty times a night. This was very annoying and I was in a bad way when I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at Dr. Stone's drug store. To say I was surprised at the speedy effect of their use is putting it mildly. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to others and will always have a good word for them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Newton's Blue.

(T. J. J. See, in the Atlantic.) It is well known that under the action of gravity the water composing such a thin shell as a soap bubble tends to run down on all sides, so that the walls of the bubble grow thin at the top and thicken toward the bottom. After a time the bubble becomes so thin at the top that further flow of water from this point can hardly take place, and finally the bubble bursts. But before this last stage is reached a degree of thinness in the walls of the bubble is attained which causes it to glow with brilliant iridescent colors. Newton noticed that on top of the thin bubble illuminated by white sky light a black spot is formed; with increase of thickness downward from this point on all sides, a red band next appears, then a blue one; then again, red and blue; and so on, the colors showing more extremes of red and purple in the higher orders. This band which first expands outward from the black spot at the top and descends slowly with the subsidence of the water, Newton called the "blue of the first order;" and although somewhat dingy, he judged it to be of the same tint as the blue of the sky.

Hill as "Hole-in-the-Ground." (Brooklyn Eagle.)

Names for Indian children are usually suggested by extraordinary circumstances or remarkable phenomena of nature attending their birth.

Thus, for example, an Indian child born under a full moon might be named Round Moon, or something of that sort. Sometimes, when he is older, his name is radically changed, the new cognomen being suggested by something that has given him special prominence. For instance, if David B. Hill were an Indian his people probably would, at the present state of his political career, reverse his name to Hole-in-the-Ground.

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK

Food Eaten is Worthless Unless Digested—Some Stomachs Must Have Help.

Food taken into the stomach which, from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach, is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes and a great many dyspeptics go only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them, they must be given less work; in other words they must be starved. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man to starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help for his stomach and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for sustenance and maintenance of the body.

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means the body and brain gets all the good, nutritious food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a year-old baby. A strong man doing strong work must be properly fed and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enables it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50c a box and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that's "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of every one.

No Cause for Alarm.

(Louisville Times.) "Would you take advantage of your leap-year privilege to propose to a man?" he asked.

"Only on one condition," she answered. "If the man were worth having and I had reason to suppose that his failure to speak was due to the self-deprecation which so many worthy men have, I might—oh, don't be frightened, Mr. Addlepatte; I haven't any particular person in mind at all."

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herptoids to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herptoids Co., Detroit, Mich.

Action for Disbarment.

Robert G. Smith, a prominent attorney of Grants Pass, is the chief figure in an interesting case being tried today in the U. S. land office at Roseburg before Receiver J. H. Booth and Register J. T. Bridges. The case consists of a charge of unprofessional conduct against Attorney Smith while representing A. S. Rosenbaum, S. P. station agent at Meritt, in the latter's application for a mining patent a few months ago. This charge, if sustained, will disbar Mr. Smith from further practice before the U. S. land office. Specifically, it is alleged that Mr. Smith signed J. T. Bridges' name to the notice of publication making known publicly the application for the mining patent. This notice was given to the Oregon Observer at Grants Pass published by F. W. Chausse, who is a witness on behalf of the government. Claude Riddle, who was at that time connected with Mr. Chausse's paper, is also a witness. The charge against Mr. Smith was preferred by Chas. M. Schillerholtz, special agent of the U. S. land office, formerly located at Roseburg. His successor, Geo. F. Wilson, is representing the government in this case. Mr. Smith is represented by attorney A. C. Hough, of Grants Pass.—Roseburg Review.

Envy and Deceit We Do What We Claim

Has prevented many from being cured by me, THAT'S JEALOUSY! Can you Afford to Run the Risk

Read the Testimonial of a Prominent Salem Man: TO THE PUBLIC. In justice to DR. J. F. COOK, and that the world may know what a great work he is doing, I wish to inform them that I have been taking treatment from him for the past 15 months, and that in that time he has removed from my alimentary canal three tumors of cancerous growths as large as a man's hand, all from the large intestine. Also another cancerous growth of lesser size from off my foot, and another from off my thumb. This has all been accomplished through medicines alone, they killing the growth and spider-like roots, and Nature itself casting them off without the aid of knife or surgery. I dare not believe I could have found equal successful treatment anywhere in the world, and cheerfully recommend Dr. J. F. Cook, the Botanical Doctor, to all who read this testimonial.—R. J. SPENCER.

We can do as much for you, or more, if you need it. Consultation free. J. F. COOK Deutscher Botanical Doctor. Liberty Street, Salem, Oregon.
