

SUSAN B. CARRIE C. ANNA H.

And a Galaxy of Ancient Ladies Invade Washington

Our Strenuous President Bravely Consents to Meet the Antique Reminiscences

Washington, Feb. 11.—Battling on the cause which they have made their life work and neither disheartened nor discouraged by opposition or defeat, the members of the National American Woman Suffrage association assembled in Washington today and began their thirty-sixth annual convention. Enthusiastic and aggressive as ever, despite her four score years, Susan B. Anthony leads the host, ably assisted by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, of New York, the Rev. Anna H. Shaw, of Philadelphia, Harriet Taylor Upton, of Ohio, Kate M. Gordon, of Louisiana, and others who have attained national prominence as leaders of the equal rights movement. During the last year woman suffrage amendments were defeated in Kansas, New Hampshire and Wisconsin, and, in fact, the movement cannot be said to have made any material progress anywhere in the country. The fight has been waged steadily, however, and the national association has returned to the charge unshaken by the reverses with which it has met. Year after year the leaders of the movement have appeared before congress and appealed for the enactment of a law which would give women equal suffrage rights with men. There will be a similar hearing by congress next Tuesday, but with no prospects of better results than in the past.

During the present convention, which will be in session a week, an afternoon and evening will be devoted to Colorado speakers. Woman suffrage has been tried for 10 years in Colorado and some of the foremost women of the state have come to the convention to tell how it has worked.

The convention was formally opened today in National Rifles Armory hall, with Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt presiding. Addresses of welcome and responses, reports of officers and appointment of the usual committees occupied the initial session. During the remainder of the sessions there will be general discussions on various features of the suffrage movement and addresses by prominent suffrage leaders, philanthropists, sociologists and others.

Between sessions the many delegates will be treated to an elaborate program of entertainment. Among other features there will be a reception at the White House by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and also a reception at the home of Miss Clara Barton.

An Apple Controversy.

Horticultural circles in Missouri, at present, are much agitated by a wordy war over the merits and demerits of the Ben Davis and Jonathan varieties of apples, and the press teems with the controversy. The Kansas City Star is of the opinion that it must be apparent to every person with sufficient intelligence to distinguish between an apple and a potato that the conspiracy to dethrone the Ben Davis as the king of the orchard is bound to be attended by serious difficulties, though it is to be earnestly desired that the merits of the two leading competitors for horticultural favor—the Ben Davis and the Jonathan—may be settled without plunging the state to the horrors of intestine strife. Dr. John C. Whitten, dean of the State Horticultural college and president of the Missouri Fruit Growers' association, who has been drawn into the controversy, comes out as a flat-footed champion of the Ben Davis, with the invincible argument that of all the products of the orchard it is the best money-maker. Now, while this may fully establish the commercial merits of the Ben Davis, it by no means places its intrinsic qualities beyond the pale of discussion. It does not leave the Jonathan without some hope of vindication and rightful recognition if the time shall ever come again in this country when things can be measured by something other than the standard of the almighty dollar. It is quite probable that the truth about the Ben Davis lies somewhere between the charge of the Jonathanites that it is "a big red fraud" and the claim of its partisans that it is perfection. That the Ben Davis is the best "looker" among all of the apples of the orchard nobody can deny. The Jonathan is far from scrubby, but let any person without any knowledge of apples or the fine distinctions which horticulturists affect be shown a collection of apples, and his eye will be riveted at once with fond admiration on the Ben Davis. This quality in human nature is thoroughly instinctive, and is demonstrated whenever a showy mountebank, with more cheap style than worth makes an appeal to the people.

It may not be known to the public in general that out of weakness the Ben Davis is made strong. That it is its tough skin, of which many housewives complain, make it a splendid "keeper," and fits it admirably for shipment. If it is somewhat coarse in its fibre it takes on a magnificent polish, as all patrons of Italian fruit merchants have observed.

The Ben Davis apple is not perfect. As the preachers are wont to say at funerals, "Who of us are?" But it is not going to be a walk-away for the Jonathan by any means. Color the Jonathan has, it is true, but no such ruddy glow is stamped upon it as flashes from the Ben Davis.

Besides, in the very last analysis, the Ben Davis held its own with all of its competitors. It may not be as good as some other varieties of apples to "eat out of hand," but it makes good dumplings and very decent pie, and this ought to give it a standing even with those jealous, captious and irritating philosophers who are always coming at you with the abominable old saw—Pretty is as pretty does.

X-RADIUMS

An editor who has recently come off the farm talks about lunch and dessert. On the farm he ate just three meals a day. But we soon pick up aristocratic ideas. After awhile he will catch onto the fact that sauerkraut is a fashionable dish.

This office is in receipt of a long list of names, with their choice for President. It was gotten up and circulated by A. D. Wheeler, of the sixth ward, a staunch and true blue Roosevelt man.

Is there anything wrong in asking a man worth millions, and who has collateral against the Gilbert Bros' suspended bank, to pay a lot of poor depositors—widows, and old men and children—to pay them their deposits in full? We admit it is unusual. But there are other circumstances that are unusual in this world, and this is a day of strenuous and unusual proceedings. Those depositors ought to be paid, instead of being put off for years, while the assets are eaten up by expenses. There is nothing unfair about the proposition whatever.

The Journal is getting up a special Campaign Taxpayers' Edition, that will go to every taxpayer in Marion county. It will have lots of good advertising matter, and be a creditable newspaper in every way.

Japanese Minister to Speak.

New York, Feb. 11.—Kogoro Takahira, the Japanese minister to the United States, came to New York from Washington today to attend the thirty-second anniversary banquet of the Silk Association of America to be given tonight at Delmonico's. The Japanese minister will be one of the speakers at the banquet, and others to be heard are Robert W. Taylor, of Youngstown, Ohio, and Robert Armstrong, assistant secretary of the treasury.

Little Mary Knew.

The teacher gave the following problem: "If Mary found a nest with six eggs in it and on the way to the house broke two of them, what part of her eggs would she break?" The owner of a pair of sparkling eyes and a fluttering hand was given permission to speak, and said: "The shells would be broken." The merry ripple that ran around the class showed appreciation of the point.

WILSON AVENUE FOUNTAIN

To Be Erected at a Cost of Over Four Thousand

The Plan Shown in New York Is Said by Experts to Be Very Beautiful

The Breyman fountain, to be erected in the west end of Wilson Avenue, at a cost of nearly $4000, is now in course of construction in New York City, and is rapidly nearing completion. This fountain, a gift to the city by Mr. Werner Breyman and the family of the late Eugene Breyman, promises to be one of the most beautiful and useful attractions in the Capital City, and will be placed in the avenue, opposite the federal building. Wm. Brown and R. F. Prael, sons-in-law of Mr. Breyman, and A. N. Bush, all of whom are now in New York, have recently seen the fountain, and they are enthusiastic over this beautiful piece of statuary, that is to be placed in the avenue in this city. Mr. Brown, in a long and interesting letter, writes Mr. Breyman, dwelling especially on the beauty of the fountain.

In this connection it might be added that Wilson avenue, before being decorated with the beautiful gift made to it by the Breymans, could stand a little improvement, in the way of filling in the low places in the west end. It is planned to build a good sidewalk across the end of the park, running from Court to State, past the proposed fountain site, and, with the park improved, as contemplated by the city authorities, this will be made one of the most beautiful portions of the Capital City.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular course of German Syrup. Free expectation in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottle, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. At Dr. Stone's drug stores.

Atlantis Was Not a Myth.

One of the most fascinating myths of our childhood days was certainly the story of Atlantis—the fabled continent which was said to exist in the Atlantic ocean, between, American and Europe. How the imagination revelled in the wondrous tales of its splendor and its power, its palaces riot in picturing its marvels. But the inconspicuous hand of science is tumbling traditions about our ears. The fairy tales of myth and fable, the dim traditions of an almost forgotten past—the haunting memories of vague and shadowy legends, are, by the aid of modern science and research, shaping themselves into actual facts. Recent paleontological researchers have established the fact of there having really existed an Atlantis—a land connection between Europe and America—in the tertiary period. This continent, says the early Egyptian records, lying over against the Pillars of Hercules, in extent greater than Libya and Asia put together, and was the passage to other islands and to another continent of which the Mediterranean Sea was the only harbor, and that within the pillar of the empire of Atlantis reached to Egypt and Tyrrhenia. A little while later there was an earthquake and the great island of Atlantis with its 64,000,000 inhabitants sank beneath the sea. From this continent branching out from the Mediterranean, Europe and Africa received its first people and its first civilization; a civilization that left its impress on Egyptian history, and which the boasted progress of 2000 years has hardly equalled and seldom surpassed. Atlantis is one of the stern and stubborn facts of history, and cannot be ignored.

Not to Be Mentioned. One day the children were having an object lesson on the guinea pig. The teacher called attention to its short tail, saying, "You see it has no tail to speak of." Shortly afterward she asked the scholars to write a description of the animal, and a little German girl wound up by saying: "The guinea pig has a tail, but it must not be talked about."

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.

Rivalled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.

Seal skin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness; and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's hair oil is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful silky hair to Newbro's Hair Oil. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps to The Hair Oil Co., Detroit, Mich.
