

CHEERFUL WOMEN.

How to Keep Happy.

RESPONDENCY is a thing of evil origin and evil results. Worry produces nothing but wrinkles and wretchedness. Let the reader put up a little note on her bureau, on her desk, and at the head of her bed, just two words, don't worry. Worry is the greatest foe to the happiness of any household. An anxious, despondent face, a fretful, complaining voice, will make every one uncomfortable.

Why Women Have 'Nerves.' "That is the reason why women have 'nerves.' When our thoughts begin to grow cloudy and uncertain, our impulses lag and the warnings of pain and distress are sent like flying messages throughout our limbs and frame, we straightway, nine times in ten, lay the cause of the trouble to some defect in the point where we first feel it. Is it a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically."

Dr. Pierce, during a long period of practice, found that a prescription made up entirely of roots and herbs, without the use of alcohol, cured over ninety per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in a form that would make it easily procurable, and it can be had at any store where medicines are handled.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN WHO CANNOT BE CURED. Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in

"I write these few lines to let you know that I am using your 'Favorite Prescription,' and the good it has done me," says Mrs. Timothy Bourgeois, of Tobique Narrows, New Brunswick. "I was troubled with headache and stomach trouble, also other female weakness. Having read a great deal about your cures I concluded to try the medicine, so my husband purchased a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' I was no time taking it before I felt better. Cannot thank you enough for the good it has done me. I hope others may be benefited by its use as I have been."

TO TEST WAGE QUESTION

Suit Brought to Determine Whether the Wages of a State Employee Can Be Attached

Suit to test the question, whether the secretary of state can be garnished. The supreme court has set March the 10th, to hear the case of R. G. Keene appellant vs. Z. T. Smith defendant and F. I. Dunbar as secretary of state, garnishee. Z. T. Smith the defendant in this case is an employee of the state as guard at the state penitentiary, and the appellant attached his wages upon a judgment in the justice court by garnishing his wages in the hands of the secretary of state. The secretary believing that he was not liable under the law to garnishee, appealed the case to the circuit court, where Judge Burnett held that the secretary was not amenable to garnishment, and Keene appeals to the supreme court.

At the legislative session of 1903 the law exempting state officers from garnishment was repealed.

This case is of considerable interest to a great number of Salem merchants who have contributed to the expense of appeal in order that the matter might be passed on by the supreme court and are anxiously awaiting the outcome of the case. The merchants think that there is no reason why a person working for the state or to whom the state owes money should not pay their debts the same as other citizens. If the secretary of state, who is the public auditor of the state and who draws all the money out of the state treasury that goes to pay all claims against the state cannot be garnished, it seems that there is no way whereby the pay of an employee of the state or other person who the state owes can be attached or reached by process of law to compel such person to pay his honest debts.

Mr. Dunbar claims in his brief that is against public policy to garnish him as a public officer, and his defense is founded on these lines.

Keene claims that since the repeal of the law that exempted public officers from garnishment that there is no other impediment in his way to reach the pay of the defendant whatever legal question there may be the supreme court in its decision will effectually settle. But there is no reason why the employees of the state should not be compelled to pay their debts, and especially should the state of Oregon not stand at their back and encourage them in dishonesty, merchants have been trying for some time to get the matter in shape so that they could collect their bills from state employees and secure the repeal of the law which expressly exempt public officers from garnishment, but when the matter came before Judge Burnett in the circuit court he held that the simple repeal of the law exempting public officers was not sufficient to make them so liable. If the decision of the supreme court is adverse to their claims, an effort will be made at the next legislature to draft a bill that will suit the technicalities of the law.

Courts of other states have held on similar statutes that public officers are liable to garnishment and that they cannot be relieved from liability on account of public policy, unless their liability would interfere with public service. A Montana case holds that garnishment only renders the public officer a stake holder, that it is no more inconvenient to pay it to one person than to another, and that it is not against public policy. The appellant sets up in his brief that if a public officer cannot be garnished under the present law that it would give a judgment debtor to whom the state owes money a privilege from his creditors enjoyed by no other class of persons. Frank Holmes is attorney for the appellant, and the secretary of state is represented by A. M. Crawford the Attorney General.

Cod Fish Scarce.

Gloucester, Mass., March 5.—Cured codfish, familiarly known to the palates of thousands of Americans as an appetizing breakfast relish, has now risen to the level of a luxury. Supplies at primary points are such that dealers are unable to secure enough stock for the most pressing wants, and prices have advanced by leaps and bounds. Never before in the history of Gloucester has it been recorded that the fish dealers withdrew their salesmen from the road in the height of the Lenten season. But this is what has happened now.

The market is so bare of supplies that some of the largest houses here and in Boston have closed their curing and cutting-up plants, and the prices have advanced to the highest point reached since the civil war. It is not a question of price, however, but of supply. The landings of salt cod for last year were 28,370,000 pounds. The annual consumption is in excess of 30,000,000 pounds, and the consequence is that the supply is far below the normal demand. The greatest efforts are being made by vessel owners and curers to fit out vessels for cod fishing but as the bait is short and the weather conditions generally unfavorable it will probably be two months before any stock to speak of is available for the market and an even longer time before there is any reduction in the prices.

BIBLE SOCIETY CENTENARY

London, March 5.—In these stirring times, when war and preparations for war are engrossing the public mind, it is pleasing to note the extraordinary plans that have been made for the observance tomorrow of what has been designated "Universal Bible Sunday." The day has been set aside for celebration of the centennial of the British and Foreign Bible society, which was founded March 7, 1804.

Considering the controversial trend of the times, it would have been sufficiently noteworthy to arouse comment had the united demonstration been limited to the various Christian communions of Great Britain. But this unique feature is in the drawing together of the churches of other lands in one great celebration, all minor differences of race, language and sect being merged in the great bond of common heritage—the charter of salvation as contained in the Word of God.

Among the earliest to indorse the suggestion that March 6 should be observed as Bible Sunday were the Archbishops of Canterbury and York. The idea was also taken up with enthusiasm by the Nonconformists, including the Baptists, the Congregationalists, the Society of Friends, all denominations of Methodists, the Moravians and the Presbyterians.

The chief celebration is to be held tomorrow morning in St. Paul's Cathedral, and will be attended by the King and Queen and other members of the royal family. The sermon will be preached by the Archbishop of Canterbury. The American Bible Society, which is an off-shoot of the British society, will be represented at the celebration by its secretary, the Rev. Dr. Edward Payson Ingersoll, of New York.

Advices received at the headquarters of the society show that the day will be observed in almost every part of the civilized world. In the British colonies the idea has been greeted with universal approval. The Metropolitan of Rupert's Land and Primate of all Canada, the Archbishop of Sydney, the Archbishop of the West Indies, and the Archbishop of Cape Town have written, cordially indorsing the observance of the day. The chief representatives of non-Episcopal churches in the colonies have responded with equal readiness, and the proposal has received the hearty sanction of the Dutch Reformed Church in South Africa.

But the most significant item in the huge program is the bringing into line of the Protestant church on the continent of Europe, and establishing a link between those that are most widely sundered on minor points. The Archbishop of Upsala, in the name of the bishop of Sweden, has promised the co-operation of all their clergy. The Danish bishops have unanimously resolved to observe the day, and similar resolutions have been passed by the consistory of the Protestant state church of Saxony, and by the Lutherans and Calvinists of Hungary.

It is obvious that such a festival as this could only be organized by an institution absolutely Catholic in its aims, world-wide in its work, and unrestricted by any merely national interest. The object of the society, briefly stated, is to translate the Holy Scriptures into various languages of the world, and circulate them without note or comment, free of charge in cases of necessity, but otherwise at prices irrespective of the original cost, which brings them within easy reach of the poor. During the hundred years of its existence the British Society has distributed more than 180,000,000 volumes in about 370 languages, and at a total expenditure of $70,000,000.

Women's Headaches 542 1-2 Congress Street, PORTLAND, MAINE, Oct. 17, 1902. I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation which completely prostrated me. Pain would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities. Mrs. Mithelmina Snow Treasurer, Portland Economic League. Headaches are the danger signals of coming disease. Both men and women suffer headaches, but protracted headache falls only to the lot of women and is the warning sign of irregular menstruation and bearing down pains. Completely prostrated by nine months of suppressed menses, blinded by headaches and racked with pain Mrs. Snow was made a strong and healthy woman again. Remember with Wine of Cardui no case is hopeless because this great remedy cures permanently nineteen out of every twenty cases and never fails to benefit a case of irregular menses, bearing down pains or any female weakness. If you are discouraged and doctors have failed, try Wine of Cardui, and try it now. Remember that headaches mean female weakness. Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui today. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.
