

NO LONGER WINKS AT POLYGAMY

Sultan of Sulu and His Dattos up Against the Law

Uncle Samuel Has Concluded That One Is Plenty Either in Utah or Philippines

Washington, March 14.—The treaty between the United States and the Sultan of Sulu, whereby that officer and the Dattos under him have enjoyed certain annuities from the United States government, and were allowed to continue the practice of polygamy has been abrogated, according to a cablegram to Governor Wright, of the Philippines, sent by Taft today. The failure of the Sultan and Dattos to discharge the duties and fulfill the conditions imposed are the reasons. The Philippine commission is directed to pass suitable legislation. Disturbances on Jolo island made the action speedier than contemplated. Congressional initiative in a special bill is thus forestalled.

WARDEN WILL PROTECT BIRDS. Will Take Position That Game Law Passed the Legislature.

Eugene, Or., March 14.—State Game Warden Baker is looking for some interesting times about next fall on account of differences in the interpretation of the law in regard to the protection of upland birds, and it is probable the courts may be called upon to decide whether the last special session did or did not pass an act amending the state game law.

Mr. Baker takes the ground that the bill that was acted upon by the legislature became law, and says that next October, if the killing of pheasants is engaged in, it is his intention to make arrests in every case that comes under his observation. He holds that the bill passed both houses, and received the signature of the governor, making it a law, and that it is his business now to see that the law is enforced.

On the other hand, the general belief is that the bill did not pass, although it was so reported at first. It was found after the close of the session, when everything went with such hurry and confusion that a mistake had been made by a clerk in counting the vote, and that, as a matter of fact, the bill received one less vote than enough to pass. This error was found after the bill had been reported passed and had been signed by the officers of both houses and sent to the governor, who likewise attached his signature.

The general opinion prevails that the discovery of the error in the count and the fact that it had not sufficient votes in its favor invalidates the act, but Mr. Baker takes the ground that the law did pass, and is in effect, and that he will attempt to prevent any killing of upland birds next fall, as has been allowed by the old law.

Lebanon Protests on Rates.

Lebanon, Or., March 14.—As a result of the visit of Surveyor J. C. Stone, of the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific, to this city, the insurance rates have been lowered in certain portions of the business sections 8 to 7 per cent.

When the rates were first raised from 4½ per cent to 8 per cent, the citizens here had the general impression that some misunderstanding or mistake on the part of the surveyors was the cause. Many citizens are indignant at this outcome, and as a result many of our heaviest insurers have expressed their intention of cancelling their insurance, and there is talk of a local combine being formed wherein the people of this place will carry their own insurance.

promise to give a part of the reward to my old mother.

"Standing in the shadow of death I have come to see the awfulness of the crimes I have committed, and I have repented from the bottom of my heart," declared Vandine. Though after my arrest I boasted I did not believe in God, I lied. I have always believed in him. I believe in a merciful God and a hereafter. As I have repented with sincerity, so I believe God has forgiven my sins, and when I die upon the scaffold I hope to go to heaven."

Vandine Attends Services.

Sunday passed quietly for the bandits, Marx received a call from his sisters and Vandine one from his younger brother, Vandine is the only one to attend the religious services. Niedermeyer seems unconcerned.

From the mind of Marx the verdict apparently has lifted a great load. His stolid, sullen manner has fallen from him, and he laughs and jokes.

"I'm going to heaven in a few weeks," he says jestingly. "Why shouldn't I feel good?"

Do It Today.

The time-worn injunction, "Never put off 'till tomorrow what you can do today," is now generally presented in this form: "Do it today!" That is the terse advice we want to give you about that hacking cough or demoralizing cold with which you have been struggling for several days, perhaps weeks. Take some reliable remedy for it TODAY—and let that remedy be Dr. Boschee's German Syrup, which has been in use for over thirty-five years. A few doses of it will undoubtedly relieve your cough or cold, and its continued use for a few days will cure you completely. No matter how deep-seated your cough, even if dread consumption has attacked your lungs, German Syrup will surely effect a cure—as it has done before in thousands of apparently hopeless cases of lung trouble. New trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. At Dr. Stone's drug stores.

FASHION DECREES THE BEND

The Grecian bend is to be. The dictates have gone forth from the Dressmakers' Protective Association, now hurling its ultimatum at weak woman, and the popular air of 30 years ago is slated to be revived.

Our mothers and fathers well remember the teetering affected walk that took such a violent hold of fashion in the early '70s.

It was introduced at Saratoga in 1874 and flourished there with unchecked sway.

One of the society buds who helped make it popular was the present Mrs. Burke Roche, then the beautiful Fanny Work, daughter of Frank Work, millionaire horseman, and belle of the '70s.

With the Grecian bend at that time went the huge chignon, and the little hat, tilted over the face, immensely high-heeled shoes and the indescribable bustle of huge proportions.

With the introduction of the Grecian bend, which is the kangaroo walk in extreme, it may not be long before the scenes at old Saratoga are duplicated.

"Today's Grecian bend may be cultivated in a couple of hours," says Miss Elizabeth A. C. White, president of the Dressmakers' Protective Association.

Stiff Knee Joints.

"The chief characteristic is the stiff knee. In other words, mildy of the Grecian bend will have to walk with stiff knee joints.

"She must walk on the ball of the foot, and this, with the stiff knees, throws the abdomen in, the chest out, and generally distorts the line of center of gravitation."

The kangaroo walk is only a weak imitation. The real article will be seen teetering along Broadway as soon as the graduates of the protective association are turned loose.

New-style corsets, new-style garters and all the harness necessary for bringing about this radical change in woman's figure are on hand, though the most essential feature of the Grecian bend girl is to walk with stiff knee joints.

The Excitement Not Over.

The rush to the drug store still continues and daily scores of people call for a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis and Consumption. Kemp's Balsam, the standard family remedy, is sold on a guarantee and never fails to give entire satisfaction. Price 25c and 50c.

The Power of Psychology

In last night's demonstration, Prof. Jameson demonstrated the power of psychology. He told every one their wants and their thoughts. Those that were skeptics, they were convinced that the professor told the truth about themselves, and that it was the only genuine demonstration ever performed in Salem. The most surprising feature of this psychic power of the professor's was when he diagnosed the cases of those that were sick, and some of them were already healed. One very deaf patient was in his room in his command, brought her hearing to its normal condition. He has done some marvelous cures and wonderful demonstrations in his day. He will continue to show these demonstrations every Tuesday and Thursday night, and will charge the small sum of 25 cents admission. Next Tuesday night he will speak on "Materialization." If you are anxious to see your friends in the life beyond, you can see them face to face and communicate with them. It will be a genuine demonstration. Prof. Jameson can be consulted from 9 a. m. to 7:30 p. m. Office in Eldridge block, rooms E and F, Salem.

HORACE HOLDEN IS DEAD

Aged Pioneer Passed Away at Tillamook, This Morning

Came Here With the Methodist Missionaries in the Early Y of the Country

Horace Holden, one of the last of the early pioneers of Oregon, is dead at Tillamook, news of his death having come by telephone this morning, and the remains will be brought to Salem for interment. Mr. Holden was 94 years old, and the greater portion of his life was spent in Oregon, he having come here with the Methodist missionaries late in the '30s or early in the '40s. He was a native of New England, and when a young man went to sea. His ship was wrecked in the South Seas, and he was the only survivor of the crew, falling into the hands of the cannibals infesting the island on which he took refuge. For three years he was kept in slavery by the cannibals, and a number of times he narrowly escaped becoming food for his captors, and at last he was rescued by the crew of an English warship, and brought to the United States.

He came to Oregon in the earliest days of the settlement of this state, and here he lived for many years. His wife died a number of years ago, and since that time he has lived the greater portion of his time in Tillamook with his son, Judge Holden, but previous to that time he was a resident of Salem, where he was well known by all the old residents. He owned considerable property in this county, but had disposed of the major portion of it in the past few years. He was in Salem recently, for a visit and but a short time ago returned to Tillamook, where he died this morning. The remains will be brought to Salem in a few days, and here the funeral will be held. As the mountains are full of snow, it will be impossible to bring him overland, and the trip will have to be made by steamer up the coast to the mouth of the Columbia river, whence they will be brought here by rail.
