

MARKHAM COMING BACK

Popular Railroad Man Will Be Promoted

Means a Great Deal to the Oregon Shippers and Development of Industries

A telegram in the Sunday papers has the following of general interest to the people of Oregon:

The announcement is made that Julius Kruttschnitt is soon to relinquish the position of general manager of the Southern Pacific, to accept one of higher authority in Chicago. Within the next 10 days a circular will be issued from the office of E. H. Harriman, in New York. It is said, announcing Mr. Kruttschnitt's promotion to take the position of "Director of Transportation of the Harriman Lines," with headquarters in Chicago. The title is to be created for him, giving him rank with Traffic Director J. C. Stubbs in the management of all the lines operated by the Harriman system.

It was stated Saturday by Mr. Kruttschnitt that his successor here will be Charles H. Markham, at present vice-president and general manager of the Galveston, Harrisburg & San Antonio railway and the Houston & Texas Central railroad in Texas. Mr. Kruttschnitt expects that the change will take place within the next four weeks.

Mr. Markham was formerly stationed in Portland. His employers have been quick to recognize his ability, and his rise in the railroad world has been rapid. His many friends will be highly pleased to learn he is to be promoted.

His return to the S. P. Co. will be appreciated by all his old Oregon friends, as he is regarded as one of the best railroad men in the United States. His appointment as traffic manager of the Oregon lines of the S. P. Co. was the first real step in the direction of popularizing the service, and, after being here a few years, the feeling of hostility and unfriendliness toward the company gave way to one of cordial good will and co-operation. This magic result came about through Markham's personal influence and his common everyday way of treating everybody, and his uniform courtesy and efforts to meet the demands of shippers. There is need at San Francisco for just that kind of a man at present, as, owing to mismanagement on the part of some traffic manager, the people of Oregon have come to feel that their industries are not protected as they should be. Markham's coming back will mean less complaints of car shortage and oppressive lumber rates. There may not only be more cars, but more engines and better train service all around.

Mr. Markham is not only a good railroad man, but as thoroughly understands the people as he does the transportation business. He will accomplish a great deal for the shippers, and for the company he serves, if he is given the power to handle the traffic the way it should be handled from the standpoint of intelligent railroading, and along lines of the least resistance. The Markham policies worked wonders in Oregon, and made the lines profitable and popular wherever he has had any connection with railroads. That kind of a management will be worth millions to the Harriman lines, and Mr. Harriman ought to be congratulated, as well as Mr. Markham, because it is through just such men as Markham that these great properties are saved from unfriendly legislation, and general public enmity all along the line. The S. P. Co. lines in Oregon need not only more rolling stock, but more and better engines. The West Side division should be connected with Salem by a direct line across the valley to Dallas and Falls City or Sheridan. All these things are possible under a more progressive management at San Francisco, and that is what the people will get from C. H. Markham, if he has the power.

Cause and Effect.

It is said that Dr. Weir Mitchell, returning late from a party in a neighboring city once, awakened his sister to tell her what he thought was too good to keep until morning. A lady had been introduced to him, and, considering him a scientific man, wished to direct her conversation accordingly. "Doctor," said she, "don't you think the cause of so much sickness is the want of Sosolet in the air?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

REPORT OF BATTLE IS NOT CONFIRMED

Battle of the Torpedo Blats.

Sunday's dispatches describing the last attack on Port Arthur says: Since the arrival of Admiral Makaroff at Port Arthur the defensive tactics of the Russians have been more active, and the destroyer squadron more alert. The report of Captain Tsuchiya, commanding the third division of the Japanese destroyer fleet, which has just been presented to Vice-Admiral Togo, shows that the success attained by the Japanese fleet on the occasion of the last attack on Port Arthur was of even a more sweeping character than the first account indicated.

Captain Tsuchiya's squadron, after a desperate battle with two torpedo boat destroyers of the Russian fleet, which were on a scouting expedition, captured one of them, and badly damaged the other.

The two Russian craft were encountered about 15 miles south of Port Arthur, and, although their commanders crowded on all steam, in an effort to escape, the Japanese flotilla was between them and Port Arthur, and the only thing left for the Russians to do was to give battle.

Effectiveness of Japanese Fire.

The Russians fought with the desperation born of hopelessness and the Japanese with the confidence gained by superior numbers. The first broadside from the leading Japanese destroyer swept the bridge of the nearest Russian destroyer, killing the captain and three men who were there. The lieutenant then assumed command, who was shot in both legs before he could reach the wheel. The sub-lieutenant, who followed him to the bridge, was also picked off by a Japanese marksman with a rifle and shot through the heart.

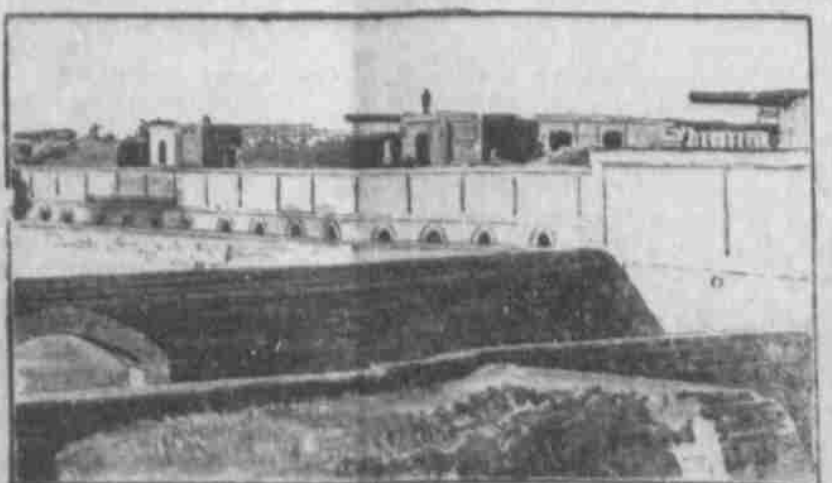

Command of the Russian destroyer was then assumed by a coxswain, who fought bravely for a few moments only, also to fall a victim to the accurate marksmanship of the relentless Japanese sharpshooter. With this last blow the fire of the Russians slackened, and almost immediately two Japanese destroyers ranged on either side and swept her decks, killing nearly half of the crew. Boarders were quickly in action, and the Russian flag was soon drawn down, and in its place was raised the sun-rayed flag of Japan.

Must Not Export Provisions.

Port Arthur, March 21.—In view of the unfavorable harvest in the Shantung province, the Chinese authorities have issued a proclamation prohibiting the sale or export of grain or provisions to the Russians, under threat of severe punishment.

Well Known Merchant.

San Francisco, March 21.—Adam Grant, one of the best known merchants on the Pacific coast, and a member of the wholesale dry goods firm of Murphy, Grant & Co., died this morning of old age.

RATTLED THE DRY BEAN PODS

South Farmingham, Mass., March 21.—A peculiar feature of this morning's earthquake shock was the sickness felt by people for an hour after the tremor.

THE GREENHORN.

Eastern Oregon's Coming Mining Camp is Prosperous.

George A. Carter, assayer at Greenhorn City, and in charge of the cyanide plant at the I. X. L. mine, is in the city. He reports that the city of Greenhorn had perfected plans for a water works system, and in a short time the people of that thriving mining town will be provided with a water system that will furnish plenty of water and fire protection.

The mines of the Greenhorn camp are in a very prosperous condition, and Mr. Carter says that the coming season will see a large amount of development work done on all the different properties. The I. X. L. mill is running, and in the spring it is the plan of the company to increase the capacity of the plant.

The owners of the Worley expect to start up work in the near future, and it is understood that the Tempest will begin active work again before long. The New York is making a good showing, and the Belcher will soon begin installing its new mill, which is already on the ground. The Virginia will start work on the 10th of April.

"I believe that the Greenhorn camp will make one of the greatest mining camps in Oregon or the Northwest, and rapid progress in development will be made during the season of 1904."—Baker City Democrat.

Will Leave the City

Professor Jameson, the famous clairvoyant, phrenologist and palmist, who has been in this city the last two months, will leave on or about March 30th. Those who would like to consult with him about their business, health, etc., should call from 9:30 a. m. until 9 p. m. He has two more lectures to deliver, one Tuesday, March 22d, when his subject will be "Love, Courtship and Marriage," and his last lecture, on Tuesday, March 24th, on "Harmony in Marriage, and Cause of Divorces." The lecture will be at his rooms on Court street, Eldridge block, rooms E and F. Commences at 7:30 sharp. Admission 25c at the door.

Northwest News.

Saturday night's storm did no serious damage over the state. The rough, rainy weather is generally very favorable to the fruit industry. Three hundred Filipinos have landed at Victoria for the St. Louis exposition. Wm. Pangburn, Jr., died at the Good Samaritan hospital, Portland, from the effects of a fight with Lee Rada-baugh, who has been placed under $1000 bonds. The old Gilson hotel, at Westport, near Astoria, was burned. Pendleton will build new school houses, and issue $60,000 bonds. The streets of Weiser, Idaho, were flooded with rains Sunday.

SSS THE BEST TONIC

In S. S. S. Nature has provided a tonic suited to every requirement of the system when in a debilitated, run down condition. It contains no strong minerals or drugs, but is a pleasant vegetable preparation. You can find no better remedy for toning up the nerves and bringing refreshing, restful sleep when in a low state of health, or sick and worn out with work or worry.

S. S. S. improves the appetite, aids the digestion and reinforces the system, and its good effects are seen almost from the first dose. It acts promptly in cases of chronic dyspepsia, indigestion and all stomach troubles, and does away with the uncomfortable fullness, nausea, shortness of breath, drowsiness and dizziness so often come after eating.

S. S. S. is not only the best tonic but possesses alterative or purifying properties, and if there is any latent humor or poison in the blood it searches it out, and removes it. Many times a low state of health is due to a bad condition of the blood and can only be remedied by a blood purifier and tonic combined, or such a remedy as S. S. S.

If you suffer from debility, insomnia, nervousness, loss of appetite, bad digestion, or any of the symptoms of a disordered blood, nothing will so soon put your blood in good condition, invigorate and tone up the system as S. S. S.
