Finder of Hunker Creek in Klondike Pestered by Woman

Berkeley, Cal., April 19.—Andrew Hunker, the man that discovered the Hunker Creek mines in the Klondike and dug three or four millions in gold out of them, is guarding himself against a woman. He is not exactly undergoing a siege, but he expects his castle at 2428 Bancroft was to be stormed any minute and he swears he isn't going to take any chances that may be altogether unnecessary.

The millionaire miner, for he is rated as such, claims Mrs. Christine Carroll for his nemesis. Mrs. Carroll's actions in regard to the aforesaid castle on Bancroft way displeased him awhile ago. She refused and he appealed to the law. It took a writ of restitution, backed by the law, to finally accomplish her ejection.

The whole case was fought out in Judge Melvin's court last Friday. Hunker had no difficulty in proving that the house in question is his own. In her own behalf Mrs. Carroll sought to show that it had been given to her by Hunker as an engagement present. Hunker denied that matrimony had ever figured in the transaction at all. Anyway Judge Melvin said that Mrs. Carroll was wrong and gave Hunker possession of the house.

Hunker was so well satisfied with his victory that he did not go near the house on that day. He let two deputy sheriffs go out to take possession of the house. But when the deputy sheriffs arrived they found that Mrs. Carroll had been there before them. She had taken away most of the furniture and had a lot packed up for future delivery to the expressman. The window curtains were gone, bed covers gone, as was everything that could be moved in a hurry. Some of the things that could not be moved away easily were stored in the house of a neighbor who had received them on the strength of Mrs. Carroll's statement that they were for storage.

Of course when Hunker heard of this sacrilege he hurried to Berkeley post haste. He was angry, clear through and swore vengeance. The next day an expressman showed up to take more things away, but he was scared off when Hunker saw him. Since then Hunker has been expecting a visitation from Mrs. Carroll any time and is constantly on guard. Hunker looks upon Mrs. Carroll as the most ungrateful person he ever knew. He says she came to him a year ago with the claim that she was his cousin. He has assisted her in a material way.

Employee of Chemical National Bank Mystifies Officials By Dishonest Methods

New York, April 19.—Reports of a defalcation by an employe of the Chemical National Bank, one of the largest financial institutions here, have been cleared up by a statement from Cashier Francis Halpin. It is to the effect that a trusted clerk in the check department, whom he names, disappeared 10 days ago, after having faithfully served the bank for 22 years, and that an investigation of his accounts disclosed that they are "out of proof" to the extent of $22,538.97.

The case contains some peculiar features, inasmuch as he did not handle any money or securities, but was employed only in the department mentioned. His duties were, with others, to take the checks brought in from the morning's clearances, etc., verify them, and enter them in the day books, from which the amounts were entered in the ledgers.

Precisely how the abstractions were made is something of a mystery, for the bank officials, while discovering the failure of his books to "prove" by more than $22,000, have been unable to discover that any vouchers are missing. The operations extend over a period of several months, and that he was able to conceal them for so long a period was thought remarkable.

The clerk reported ill, and was told to go home and get well. A day or two later, his wife says, he went out and failed to return.

The loss to the Chemical National is trivial, but the method of the alleged embezzler has caused the officers much trouble, as the checks pass through many hands, and collusion among the clerks would, they say, have been out of the question.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness, Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.
