ILLINOIS REPUBS. CONVENE

And They Intend to Succeed Is Plain to Be Seen

Springfield, Ill., May 11 .- The Illinois Republican convention here tomorrow will be the largest ever held in this state. There are plenty of indications that it will also be one for these who are not as well of the livellest. In addition to choose ing delegates at large and alternates to the national convention the convention this year is called upon to nominate candidates for governor and other state officers to be voted for this fall. These candidates are Attoreny general Hamlin, who has many friends in the Cullom-Hopkins camp: Law politician and former speaker of the Illinois assembly; Col. Vespasian Warner, who has served many years in congress and has the united support of the "old soldler" vote, and Charles S. Deneen, whoh as long been prominent in Cook county politics.

On the eve of the convention the chances appear to the unbiased observer to favor the renomination of Governor Yates. But Illinois politics has furnished many surprises in the past and no one can say with certainty that tomorrow's balloting will not add another to the list.
