

NEWPORT CASES DECIDED

State Land Board Deeds to Tide Land Direct to the City

The state land board held a session today to consider a number of minor matters in the land department. The decision of the board in the Newport tide land cases was against applicants for the purchase, and the board ordered deeds made to the city of Newport direct for all land on the water front that was supposed to have been granted to the city by the charter. The applications of Abbey and Mathews were rejected for the reason that they are holding under title acquired from the city. The land adjoining the Case tract was ordered deeded to the Case estate.

Sullivan, Booth and Williams made application for the purchase of the land as trustees for the city, but their applications were denied, as it was considered more advisable to deed direct to the municipality, as legal complications might ensue if the other course was followed.

Real Estate Transfers.
Real estate transfers today were:
A. G. Porter to R. L. Hornbuckle, 93 acres, section 30, t 9 s, r 3 w, $650.
Ira N. Towne to Louise Lerch, lot 5, block 89, Salem, $800.
W. M. Lovelace to K. H. Ramberg, four acres, t 7 s, r 1 w, $1250.
H. Bock to J. G. Smith, lots in Silverton, $414.
Lucy A. Muir to J. W. Cox, ne 1/4 block 52, North Salem, $500.
S. C. Roby to Winnie A. Lewis, lot 6, block 81, Salem, $552.50.

Board May Prescribe Studies.
Attorney-General Crawford handed down an opinion to Superintendent Ackerman this morning regarding the right of school boards to include manual training in the course of studies. He finds, under the present school law that boards in districts of the first class have the right to outline the course of studies, and this would include manual training. The question was raised from Multnomah county.

People Read Journal Ads.
The Journal fights for good roads and good streets and good schools, and the people who read it believe the advertisements at least. E. L. Lemon, the horny-handed paper-hanger, at 299 Liberty street, says he has had more orders for wall paper on the strength of his little ad in The Journal than all the other advertising he ever did.

Prisoner Died of Consumption.
B. Dominico, a prisoner from Morrow county died at the penitentiary yesterday and was buried in the prison yard, Father Murphy conducting the services. Deceased was sentenced for one year for the crime of robbery and was sick when he was convicted. He was an Italian by birth.

Schedule Rearranged.

The games of baseball that were scheduled to be played in Portland between the state league teams, have been cancelled, and will be played in Albany. This will give that city 13 more games on their home grounds.

Darkness Cost Money.

A. C. Abbey and J. H. Christopher were in a hurry and rode their bicycles last evening without lights. They paid the city $2.50 for their haste.

STATE MILITIA CAMP

Orders Issued for Guard to Assemble at American Lake July 7 to 21

Adjutant-General Finzer has issued general order No. 11 regarding the annual encampment, which will be held at American Lake, near Tagama, Wash., from July 7th to 21st, inclusive. The National Guard of Oregon, except Troop A, and the guards of Idaho and Washington, will camp with the regulars from the Department of the Columbia.

Major Frank S. Baker, of Portland has been named as inspector of small arms practice.

The findings of the court-martial in the Eugene militia trouble have been filed with Governor Chamberlain, but, under the law, cannot be made public until the orders have been issued.

The petition of North Bend citizens for the organization of a militia company at that place was disallowed for the present, owing to a disposition on the part of the military board not to form any new companies, but the application was placed on file, and may be granted at a later date.

The Boss of the House.

(Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.)
The supreme court of Ohio has decided, unanimously, at that, that a man who has become a husband is the sole dictator of his home, even though the title to the realty and to the bricks and mortar thereon may have been placed in the name of his wife. It has gone further and held that under all circumstances and conditions it is for the husband to say who may and who may not spread their legs under his mahogany, and that when he says his mother-in-law is to be taboo, why taboo she is. Whether the judges went directly to their respective homes after handing down the decision or whether they sat up with a sick friend until the blowing over of the domestic storm is not material.

The whole ruction came from the fact that one Oscar Green, of the fighting county of Erie, gave notice to his mother-in-law, Mrs. Martha Hibbiethwalte, that not only was her presence undesirable but would not be tolerated under the Oscar Green vine and fig tree. Nevertheless, and notwithstanding all which Martha presented herself on schedule time, but was gently led away from the portals and her gripsack deposited, like a Populist, in the Middle of the Road. Then Martha had Oscar arrested and fined, and joy was not unconfined in the Oscar Green homestead, for Oscar appealed to the Common Pleas Court, which affirmed the judgment, and then to the Supreme Court, which righted his wrong, laid it down that man was the boss, and asserted the inalienable privilege of the head of the house to be a house head and not a mere figurehead.

Of course, it took courage to do it. To fly direct in the face of the mother-in-law in the abstract and collectively, as Oscar Green did individually and in the concrete, required courage of the highest order, and when the roll is called for distribution of the Carnegie Medals for Heroism let the names of the justices of the supreme court of Ohio, like Abou Ben Adham's lead all the rest. If, in the fullness of time and when circumstances arise to warrant it, the supreme court will but take up and pass upon the privileges of the husband with reference to the night key, anything it may do in trifling matters like the Brannock law or on questions of taxation will be looked upon with indifference.

An Elder Will Talk.

ASKS HEAVY DAMAGES

City of Scio Is Made Defendant in Sidewalk Case

Frank Vavra, of Scio, who has resided in that place for a number of years, yesterday filed suit against that city for damages aggregating $26,447.50. Vavra alleges that on August 15th, last, while on his way home from the business part of Scio, he was compelled to cross Thomas creek; that the creek is bridged in the center of the street, and that sidewalks lead up to the creek, and from the sidewalks to the bridge is a narrow board walk; that the end of the walk extends over the creek, and is not protected with guard-rails, and in the dark he walked off the end of the walk and fell to the bed of the creek a distance of several feet, breaking his leg. As a result of the accident, caused, he says, by reason of the city's neglect, he was compelled to go to Portland, where he was placed in St. Vincent's hospital and the leg was amputated. He now asks for $25,000 damages and $1447.50 specific damages. The man is penniless, and Linn county is now keeping him and his family, consisting of a wife and four children. He is about 32 years old, and a carpenter by trade. The case will come up at the next term of department No. 1 of the circuit court, W. H. Holmes and Webster Holmes, of Salem, and W. R. Bilyeu, of Albany, are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Junior Alerts Won.

The Junior Alerts, of North Salem, are playing ball almost every evening, and are developing into a strong team. They have suffered defeat once or twice, but claim to be the champion school team in the city. Last evening, at Yew Park flat, they played a match game with the South Salem team, and defeated their rivals by a score of 27 to 5 in a seven-inning game. The first inning they made 10 runs, and the next nine more. The features of the game were a home run by "Pogie" Smith and a three-bagger by Blaco.

The line up of the teams was as follows:

South Salem—John and Jones c. Keeton and Daue p. Daue and Keeton ss. Rasmussen 1b; Johns and Helmken 2b, Daniel 3b, Vlesko lf, Helmken rf, Red mf.

Junior Alerts—Graham c, Blaco p, A. Angell ss, Maurer 1b, Smith 2b, Cary 3b, Scott lf, Dingdinger rf, Will mf.

NEW YORK MEDICAL SCAMP

Sold the Widow Mining Stock That Was Strictly Damp

New York, May 24.—Richard C. Flower, mining promoter and alleged swindler of many persons, through the sale of worthless mining stock, failed to appear for trial this morning, and his bond of $23,000, furnished by Mrs. Cornelius Storrs, widow of the former comptroller of New York, was declared forfeited by Recorder Goff. Flower's lawyers confessed ignorance of their client's whereabouts. He understands that Mrs. Storrs lost $300,000 by the Flower mine enterprises, and, hoping to save some of the money, was induced to become surety for the accused physician.

Sprinkling State Street.

Supt. James, of the state penitentiary, has offered to sprinkle East State street from that institution down to 18th street, provided the residents along that territory will pay the water rent and erect a standpipe from which to fill the sprinkling wagon. This is a generous proposition, and a move which will be appreciated by the people along that street. When A. N. Gilbert was superintendent of the pen that gentleman indulged this kind of socialistic notions and for about four years that street was thoroughly sprinkled. It is to be hoped that the matter will be repeated. Arrangements have been made by down-town people and the state officials to have State street sprinkled as far as 13th street. This leaves a gap of only seven blocks, and it would be a fine thing to have this territory covered, thus giving the leading thoroughfare of the city sprinkled from one end to the other, a distance of about two miles.
