THE OREGONIAN AND REV. HILL.

Not a few attribute the success of the local option law to the Oregonian's severe attack on Rev. Hill, of the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Hill went too far in his condemnation of Portland, and especially in setting it morally below Seattle.

But what can the Oregonian or any newspaper expect of a minister in his attitude toward vice and immorality?

It is his place and his duty to denounce gambling and social evils in every form, and nothing else should be expected of him.

It is a serious error for a minister of the gospel to condemn his own community for being much worse than other communities.

It is a serious error to take any church into a political campaign and degrade the pulpit into a political rostrum for any cause.

On the other hand, the Oregonian went too far in its scathing roasts of the reverend gentleman, and it is barely possible that the religious elements retaliated by voting for local option.

A SUCCESSFUL CHAIRMAN.

(From the Daily Oregonian, June 7, 1904.)

One of the most interesting and gratifying features of the campaign just closed has been the admirable work of State Chairman Frank C. Baker. Originally chosen for his business ability, wide acquaintance, tactful address, and his possession of means and leisure, he has developed in action a remarkable amount of energy, ability and skill. He has correctly apprehended the true issues as the indorsement of President Roosevelt and has especially bent his energies to harmonizing the party with excellent effect. Through his personal letters to voters he has induced Republicans otherwise disaffected, to get into line for the Republican ticket, especially legislative nominees. Mr. Baker's original appointment was made without his solicitation, but his signal success abundantly justifies the confidence of those who recommended his selection. Having established close connection with the state organization and county and precinct committees thfoughout the state, possibly 1000 men in all, he is in first-class shape for the fall campaign. Mr. Baker has made one of the best state chairmen the party ever had. It would be hard to find a better one.

A student of human nature was heard to remark the other evening that a young girl always tries to make people believe that she is older than she really is, and an old girl—but then girls never get old.

Gale S. Hill, of Albany, earned a splendid reputation as secretary of the Republican congressional committee, and worked hard throughout the campaign. He is a young man, and will be heard from later in politics.

The little "red headed" Portland Journal received a solar plexus blow on Monday, when the voters of the first district repudiated its foul personal attacks on Congressman Hermann. Dirty politics in Oregon are a thing of the past, it is to be hoped.

Walter L. Toose steps high, and well he may. The unprecedented majority for Congressman Hermann reflects great credit on his leadership. While some of the gallant Hermann leaders went down to defeat, like Marsters in Douglas county, Tooze has scored a long mark as a successful campaigner, and is a man the Republican leaders of this county will do well to not overlook.

The copywriting of a husband's name by a wife is a new idea fresh from Canada. The divorced Canadian wife of a man who married a second wife in South Dakota, went into court with the plea that she was the possessor of a matrimonial copyright on the name, and no other woman can lawfully possess it. She is willing to let the man go, but she values the name, and will not surrender it to another woman. The court issued an injunction in compliance with her plea. Now wouldn't that put our divorce laws all in the shade? If Mrs. Jones No. 2 cannot be Mrs. Jones, wouldn't it be embarrassing, and likely to keep a woman from hitching up to a twice married man? But the question is: Will copyright of names under such circumstances hold good?

Political Rumors.

School Election Campaign.

About 20 citizens met Tuesday evening at the Gray block, and appointed a general campaign committee for the coming school election to consider the question of bringing out a candidate for director, and also the question of sustaining the proposition of having additional grades taught above the ninth grade, which is the present limit. There was general discussion, and a petition was presented containing the names of 308 gentlemen and ladies who are taxpayers and ask for additional grades above the ninth. H. H. Turner was elected secretary, and a general committee appointed, with power to appoint sub-committees, as follows: H. C. Eppley, J. C. Goodale, J. H. McNary, H. A. Johnson, Hal D. Patton, Mrs. T. T. Geer, Mrs. Russell Catlin. The committee was voted power to appoint sub-committees, and will meet with all persons interested at the city hall public library room on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

A publicity committee has been named as follows: R. J. Hendricks, W. A. Prescott, Frank Davy, P. H. D'Arcy, E. Hofer.

Prof. Parvin's Recitals.

Monday and Tuesday, June 13th and 14th, Prof. Parvin will give his annual musical recital at the First Unitarian church. His students and the graduating class of the Northwest Normal College of Music will participate. New music never before heard in Salem will be given, with one full program from Beethoven.

Did Not Transact Business.

The city council met last evening, but, on account of the absence of several members from town, it was adjourned until Monday night.

GREATER SALEM CENSUS

Finds a Substantial Increase of Population

The Newer Wards of the City Contain Larger Number Than Was Expected

The population of Greater Salem is 13,287. The slur that the Capital City of Oregon has only 4000 people is forever removed.

The census board yesterday made their report, giving the population by precincts, which foot up to the amount above. The board has labored under some difficulties, which required time to unravel, and it is thought that even the figures given out do not cover all of the residents of the city, as there are a few families who claim they were not numbered, having evidently been overlooked.

In the report of the committee, attention is called to the matter of naming the streets and numbering the houses, as they claim that the enumerators found only about one-third of the houses of the city numbered, and in many instances the people residing in the property were unable to give the number of the house, and also were unable to tell what street they lived on.

The committee, composed of Mayor Waters, Aldermen Hughes, Gesner and Churchill, working with the committee from the Greater Salem Commercial Club, composed of Messrs. Bredemier, Patton and Graham, which were appointed at a special session of the city council on March 22d, completed their labors yesterday and filed their report with City Recorder N. J. Judah at 2 o'clock p. m. The report is as follows:

"The two committees met at the office of the mayor and organized by electing F. W. Waters chairman and H. D. Patton, secretary of the census board. Several meetings were held and detailed plans adopted to secure a complete enumeration of the population of Salem, taken as it stood on the first day of May, 1904.

"Enumerators were employed in each of the wards, on the recommendation of the aldermen, and the most competent persons were employed The enumeration in each ward was completed in May, during the first week. The census was taken upon the householders blanks, showing the following facts:

"1st, Males over 21.
"2d, Males under 21.
"3d, Females over 18.
"4th, Females under 18.

"In each instance the enumerator returned the name of the householder, together with the street number or location by street, and their occupation. These returns of the enumerators are on a separate blank for each family or individual, and one filed in the office of mayor for reference. The returns show that about two-thirds of the houses of the city have no numbers, and some of the people were unable to give the name of the streets upon which they resided. The confusion in this respect made the work very difficult, and it shows the necessity for adopting some complete system of naming and numbering the streets of Greater Salem.

"To enable the census board to make its work more thorough, complete lists were obtained of the employes in factories, schools and other public institutions, and the names carefully checked in order to give the city credit for all persons, and to be counted as part of the population of Salem. These additional lists of names were also filed with the returns of the enumerators.

"The census board wishes to thank all who thus contributed to make the census more accurate, and wherever the lists of employes have been furnished they have been treated by the board as entirely confidential. But without the statements the census board board would not have been complete.

"The census has been taken practically without expense to the city.

CERTAIN RESULTS.

Many a Salem Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Salem. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

James Tanner, farmer, corner Thirteenth and Lewis streets, says: "So many suffer from kidney complaint that for a time I was alarmed about myself, for I was troubled with my back aching in the region of my kidneys. I think it was caused first by a strain from heavy lifting I did two years ago. I kept getting worse instead of better and finally consulted a doctor. He told me I had gall stone in the bladder, but trouble with kidney secretions existed, their too frequent action disturbing my rest from fifteen to twenty times a night. This was very annoying and I was in a bad way when I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at Dr. Stone's drug store. To say I was surprised at the speedy effect of their use is putting it mildly. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to others and will always have a good word for them."

CURED WHEN OTHERS FAILED

CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 25, 1902.

Wine of Cardui can always be relied upon to cure when everything else fails. It is a certain cure for female diseases in their worst forms. I suffered for years with ulceration. Intense pains in the womb and ovaries and dreadful headaches unfitted me for my work. Finally I grew so ill that I had to keep to my bed. The pains were so intense at times as to cause spasms and a disagreeable discharge drained my life forces. In my extremity after all else had failed, I tried Wine of Cardui. After using it for two weeks I began to improve so rapidly that I felt encouraged to keep up the treatment, which I did for eighteen weeks, but at the end of that time I was entirely cured. What a relief was mine and how new and beautiful life looked to me when my health was restored. Only those who have passed through such a siege of sickness as I have will understand how much I value Wine of Cardui. It is indeed a boon to sick women.
