Prohibitionists Hold National Convention at Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Ind., June 27.—Prohibitionists are beginning to arrive for the national convention to be held Wednesday and Thursday in Tomlinson's hall. The hall is profusely decorated in red, white and blue. It is expected that practically all of the delegates will have arrived by tomorrow noon. Every state of the Union will be represented and the convention promises to be the largest in the history of the party. The largest delegations will be from Indiana, Illinois and Pennsylvania. Oregon, Washington and Ohio will be close seconds in point of numbers and nearly every southern state will be fully represented. Minnesota, Dakota, Montana and Wisconsin will have a special train, reaching here tonight or tomorrow morning. The New England delegation will also come in a special train. The Denison Claypool and English hotels will house most of the delegates.

The convention will be called to order at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning by Oliver W. Stewart, chairman of the national committee. James A. Tate of Tennessee, and Rev. M. E. L. Eaton, of Allegheny, Pa., are strong favorites for the presidential nomination. Besides these two, however, there are nearly a dozen others mentioned for the honor and the contest promises to be a free for all race. Among those in the running are Alfred L. Manierre, New York City; Prof. A. A. Hopkins, Hornellsville, N. Y.; A. G. Wolfenbarger, Lincoln, Neb.; T. R. Caskaden, Keyser, W. Va.; I. H. Amo, Portland, Ore.; H. B. Metcalf, Pawtucket, R. I.

S. C. Swallow, of Pennsylvania, is frequently mentioned and will probably receive some votes although it is understood that Dr. Swallow does not want the nomination and that Pennsylvania will not present his name. In some quarters talk is still heard of Gen. Nelson A. Miles as the presidential nominee, but those best acquainted with the situation declare that there is not even a remote possibility of Gen. Miles receiving the nomination.

The selection of a vice presidential nominee will depend largely upon what section of the country the presidential choice comes from. So far very little attention is being given to the second place ticket.

National Chairman Stewart said today that the platform this year will have little to say on any question other than that of the liquor traffic.

"The matter of our next national platform," said Mr. Stewart, "will not differ from that of the platform of four years ago, but there will be a difference in the manner of statement. There will not be so much stump speech in this year's platform."

Prostrated by the Heat.

New York, June 27.—One hundred and 1 cases of prostration were reported to the hospital with three self-inflicted bullet wounds in her head. The woman said she was crazed by the heat.

Albert Runski, 21 years of age, a sailor on the United States steamship Hancock, was picked up on the street overcome by the heat and taken to the hospital.

The temperature for the last 24 hours averaged 11 degrees higher than the average temperature for the corresponding date the last 25 years. At noon the thermometer registered 90 degrees.

Politicians Have Conference.

Washington, June 27.—Chairman Cortelyou and Secretary Dover had a conference with President Roosevelt this afternoon regarding the convention. Metcalf is expected to arrive the latter part of the week. The President also entertained two German princes, who are traveled incognito.

Fireworks Explode.

Philadelphia, June 27.—Three persons were killed and six injured this afternoon by the exploding of fireworks in the Diamond Light & Supply Company's building. The explosion blew out the front of the building, and 30 panic stricken girls escaped by a rear stairway.

Loomis' Body Ashes.

London, June 27.—The Hamburg correspondent of the Central News wires that a report has just reached there that Loomis' body has washed ashore near Cherbourg.

BANK CLOSED DOORS

Saratoga, June 27.—The First National Bank of this city closed its doors this morning, by order of the comptroller of the currency. The bank officials refuse to issue a statement.

Roosevelt Epigrams.

I would like to be President again; but I would far rather be a whole President for three years, than half a President for seven years. Remember that.

In the long run, the most unpleasant truth is a safer companion than a pleasant falsehood.

It is a good thing to be a good half-back; but it is a mighty bad thing if, at forty, all you can say of a man is that he was a good half-back.

The millennium is a good way off, yet.

When you make it evident that no man shall be excused from violating the law, you make it evident that every man will be protected from violators of the law.

Exactly as you need in war the man behind the gun, you need in peace the man behind the plough, the man at the machine.

It is a good lesson for nations and individuals to learn never to hit if it can be helped, and never to hit soft.

Hardness of heart is not much more destructive in the long run than softness of head.

Any generation fit to do its work must work for the future—for the people of the future, as well as for itself.

The abler, the more powerful any man is; the worse he is, if he has not got the root of righteousness in him.

The fact that a man talks loud does not mean, necessarily, that he fights hard. Sometimes you see a man that talks loud and fights hard, but he does not fight hard because he talks loud, but in spite of it.

I would plead with my countrymen to show not any special brilliancy or special genius, but the ordinary humdrum, commonplace qualities, which, in the aggregate, spell success for the nation and for the individual.

(From the "Strenuous Epigrams of Theodore Roosevelt," a monograph just published by H. M. Caldwell Co., New York and Boston.)

Notice.

Take notice that four young cows and nine heifers of good breed, also one horse, 8 years old, will be sold to the highest bidder, Tuesday, June 28, at 2 p.m., on the T. L. Davidson place, south of town.

KILLED MANY PERSONS

Confessed on Trial to the Murder of Half a Score

New York, June 27.—Frank Burness was put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison early today. The specific crime for which Burness paid the death penalty was the murder of a sea captain in the port of New York last fall. In addition to this murder, Burness confessed at his trial that he had killed more than half a dozen persons during the last 10 years. Burness was a sailor, and his crimes so he declared, were committed in various parts of the world where his ship called. Upon his conviction here he pleaded with the authorities to let him be executed as speedily as possible. He declared that it would be dangerous to the community to allow him at large as he was totally unable to control his passion for murder when his temper was aroused.

Burness was unattended, except by a clergyman and the keeper, and almost ran to the chair, so eager was he to have it over. Sitting in the death chair, he smiled cheerfully at the witnesses, as though merely posing for a photograph. Four shocks were necessary to produce death. The body was buried in quick lime. At the trial Burness confessed the crime, and assisted in expediting the proceedings. Then his lawyer, appointed by the state, appealed the case, which drew from Burness a letter to the governor, in which he asked that the appeal be overruled, as it was the work of a scheming lawyer to get more fees.

NEW YORK NEWS

New York, June 27.—For the first time in its history the W. C. T. U. has undertaken a practical task, in no way connected with the sentimental warfare against the liquor evil, which the organization has been carrying on for a great many years with a persistence more admirable than successful. The organization intends to make an attempt to stop the firing of crackers and explosion of fireworks within hearing distance of hospitals and sanitariums. Why the members do not extend the sphere of their agitation by trying to bring about the entire abolition of that idiotic method of celebrating an important historical anniversary, is not quite clear. Perhaps they agree with the boy who cut off a small piece of his dog's tail every day, believing that it would not hurt the dog so much than if the tail should be amputated in one operation, and believe that it would be easier and less painful to suppress the nuisance by degrees than all at once. It is hoped that the municipal authorities will cooperate with the W. C. T. U. in their efforts to secure peace to the sick and suffering in the hospitals and sanitariums.

The municipal authorities have, at last, made a beginning by appropriating one million dollars for the establishment of free public baths. Considering the fact that the territory of Greater New York includes hundreds of miles of riparian or seacoast lines, the scarcity of public bathing beaches is quite remarkable. Scores of plans for such baths have already been suggested, but it will take some time before the problem will actually be taken up for decision.

An unknown friend of Columbia university has donated $5000 to that institution, for the purpose of enabling the students to visit the St. Louis exposition free of charge. It is expected that fully sixty per cent of the students have already accepted and will enjoy a week at the fair, with all their reasonable expenses paid. The donor has made a rather peculiar condition to his gift. Every student, who accepts the gift, is obliged to send to the representative of Columbia university in St. Louis every evening a detailed account of his experiences during that day. These reports will be sent to the anonymous donor. It would be interesting to know what he expects to do with those reports.

There is a patient at St. Catharine's hospital, whose heart is not in the right place. The space on the left side of the pericardial cavity, which in normal individuals is taken up by the heart, is, in the case of that patient occupied by a tumor or some other growth, the exact nature of which is not yet determined. The heart has been pushed over to the right side of the chest and has nearly reached the ribs. The doctors, who made the interesting discovery when they made an X-Ray examination of the patient, entertain no hope for the recovery of the man.

The rate war between the trans-Atlantic steamship companies which brought the steerage rates from Europe down to and even below $10 a head, caused an enormous influx of a most undesirable class of emigrants. They are coming over by thousands and Ellis Island, the receiving station for emigrants, is terribly overcrowded. If the influx continues much longer, it will be necessary to erect tents on the island for the accommodation of the emigrants, who are detained on the island pending investigation. Fortunately the evil carried its own cure with it. So many of the steerage passengers were refused admission to this country and had to be taken back to Europe at the expense of the steamship companies, that the latter concluded that a rate war does not pay. The differences were quickly settled.

Says Rich and Bad.

Amherst, Mass., June 27.—At commencement exercises at Amherst college yesterday the baccalaureate sermon was delivered by President George Harris, D. D. He said in part: "The fashionable society of our day is the society of the wealthy. The rich view with each other in the pensiveness of food, drinks, clothes and decorations. Their moral standards are low. Divorce does not mean a rich man or woman out of a fashionable society. They are the degenerate of the city."

"But not all the wealthy rush into this silly scramble for vulgarly sensuousness. There are many who use wealth to secure higher ideas. How, otherwise, could there be culture, science, art music, philanthropic colleges, schools and churches?"
