Parker Has Long Lead Over His Opponents at St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., July 5.—In striking contrast to the lack of popular interest and enthusiasm displayed at the Chicago convention is the air of feverish suspense and uncertainty prevailing St. Louis today on the eve of the Democratic national convention. It is true that the managers and partisans of the several candidates for the presidential nomination profess perfect confidence in the result, but away down deep in their hearts these same leaders who declare that it is all over but the shouting undoubtedly share the same feeling of doubt and uncertainty in the issue that is felt by all unbiased observers of the situation. In the confusion of claims and denials filling the air today, the tabulated statements given out by the partisans of the various headquarters and the prediction that this or that delegation will flop to the banners of this or that candidate, there is but one thing that can be stated with any degree of certainty. This is the way the candidates will stand on the first ballot. Should the delegations all follow their instructions the several candidates will be sure of the following votes when the first ballot is cast: Parker is sure of the following votes: Alaska, 6; Arkansas, 18; Connecticut, 14; Georgia, 26; Indiana, 30; Louisiana, 18; Minnesota, 14; Mississippi, 20; New Hampshire, 8; New York, 78; Ohio, 2; Tennessee, 24; Texas, 36; Utah, 4; Vermont, 8; In addition to this number he is expected to have the 22 delegates from Alabama, which state indorsed Parker, but did not instruct. The same is true of the 26 delegates from Kentucky, who are understood to favor Parker, though they are without definite instructions. This will give Parker 354 votes at least on the first ballot. Next to Parker in the number of instructed delegates stands Hearst. On the first ballot the New York editor may count upon the following: Arizona, 6; California, 20; Florida, 10; Hawaii, 6; Idaho, 6; Illinois, 54; Iowa, 26; Kansas, 6; Maine, 9; Minnesota, 7; Nevada, 6; New Mexico, 6; Ohio, 8; Oregon, 6; Rhode Island, 6; South Dakota, 8; Utah, 2; Washington, 10; West Virginia, 2; Wyoming, 6; Total 210. The favorite son votes on the first ballot are expected to stand as follows: Massachusetts, 32 for Olney; Delaware, 6 for Gray; Wisconsin, 26 for Wall. The number of delegates without instructions is 318. Missouri is expected to vote for Cockrell on the first ballot, and West Virginia will cast 12 votes for Senator Gorman. The Parker men are confident that they will get at least a third or 106 of the uninstructed delegates on the first ballot. In that case Parker would then have 460 votes, or almost the total number. Those who share this confidence in Parker's strength expect the New York judge to be nominated on the second ballot, after Wisconsin and Massachusetts have cast a complimentary vote for Wall and Olney. Parker goes into the convention with practically the solid support of the entire South. The southern states that have instructed for him are Tennessee, Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia, Arkansas and Alabama. The southern states which have sent uninstructed delegates, but which have gone on record in favor of Judge Parker, are Virginia, South Carolina, Kentucky, and six of the ten delegates from Florida. The other four Florida delegates are for Hearst. North Carolina declined to indorse any candidate, though a majority of the delegates from that state are understood to favor Parker. These figures show apparently that Parker is the strongest man in the race. But, as the old saying goes, "there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip." Despite the strongest denials from the parties concerned, the rumor will not down that a combination is forming to down Judge Parker. Senator Gorman is credited with being the chief promoter of the movement. Others whose names are mentioned in the same connection are ex-Senator Smith of New Jersey, John R. McLean of Ohio, and Col. J. M. Guffey of Pennsylvania. In justice to these leaders it should be added that no proof exists that they are concerned in an anti-Parker conspiracy. In regard to Senator Gorman, however, a strong belief exists that he will be one of the dominant figures of

Centenary of George Sand

Paris, July 5.—In Paris, and, in fact, throughout the republic, many tributes were paid today to the memory of George Sand, this being the centenary of the great novelist's birth. The chief feature of the observance of the anniversary here was the unveiling of the magnificent George Sand monument in the Luxembourg. George Sand was born in Paris on July 5, 1804, and died on June 7, 1876. Her real name was Lucile Aurore Dupin, and she was the great-grand daughter of Marshal de Saxe. Her own mother was a Parisian milliner. She was married at the age of 18 to M. Dudevant.

The Carnival Train

Harry Crow, whose father ran the engine on the Lebanon branch until his wife died, and then got a run on the West Side, ran the carnival train down to Portland Sunday. There were two coaches and six freight cars. The coaches were pretty well filled with the motley crowd who compose the aggregation of side shows, with the beautiful dancing girls and some that were not so beautiful, the long-armed monkey with beady black eyes, and the red-faced men who got a gripsack full of plunks were snoring in the seats. That was the carnival special.
