Seattle Newspaper Man Went up in the Air

The Eugene Register correspondent at the American Lake encampment tells a good story on a Seattle Post-Intelligencer reporter. He says:

This afternoon was an exciting one in the Oregon quarters. Since the present maneuvers began the Seattle P-I. has not been giving the battalion full credit for its work, but has been devoting nearly all of its space to the work of the Second Washington, which has been very good, but the Oregon boys felt hurt at the slight.

Yesterday a P-I. representative made his appearance in camp while the boys were engaged in the friendly pastime of tossing each other up in blankets. As soon as he was seen the cry of "blanket, blanket, blanket the P-I. man!" rent the air. The said P-I. man, thinking that his life was at stake turned and fled to the camp of the Washington regiment, followed by a host of Washington boys, who are in sympathy with the Oregonians. He took refuge in the officers' quarters, where he was secure for some time; but as soon as he made his appearance he was nabbed by your correspondent of Company C, who had followed him thither, and carried into Company G street, where he was met by Oregon boys with blankets galore.

For several minutes he enjoyed his first experience in army life, by being tossed up in a blanket, to the satisfaction of the boys.

The fellow accepted the inevitable, and took the matter good naturedly, although he was badly frightened at first.

Knocked a Knocker. Because Paul Wendling, a Portland man, contended that the sanitation of Portland is not what it should be; that the drinking water is too warm and injurious to health; that boarding house meals were not served on time, and that their coffee is bad, he was adjudged insane and committed to the asylum Monday. This is a speedy and effective manner in dealing with knockers, to say the least.

Two Legged Pig. A freak in the way of a pig is owned by Charles Longmire, of the Wenatchee valley, Washington. The pig is a month old, and has but two legs. It can walk around and feed as well as any of the other half dozen of the same litter. It stands up and balances itself, jumping around like a chicken. It is the most remarkable thing that has been seen in this country in the way of freak animals.

Will Be Vegetarians. On account of the great strike, the people of the big Eastern cities will have to turn vegetarians. Not so in Salem, where the meat war is still on, and the very best afforded in all the land may be had at the cut prices at the old reliable market of E. C. Cross.

Sheriff's Sale of Lands. Sheriff W. J. Culver today sold on execution several pieces of property belonging to Robert A. Ross, to satisfy a judgment held by Coolidge & McClane. The latter firm bid the property in at $1200, an amount sufficient to cover their claim and costs.

Estate of Delman Pugh. John W. Pugh, administrator of the estate of Delman Pugh, today filed his oath of office and bond in the sum of $600. Three appraisers of said estate were also appointed as follows: Frank W. Waters, A. A. Lee and F. R. Waters.

Senator Alger sailed from New York for Europe this morning.

Work in Oregon Mines.

Charles White arrived down from the Treasure mine, in the Blue river district, last evening, and reports everything doing well at the mines.

C. H. Park, the owner of the mine, is having a large bunk and cook house built, which will be a great improvement. He is also putting in a sawmill at that place, and is now getting ready for the machinery, which is expected to arrive here this week, and he is also erecting a building large enough to hold the 40-stamp mill which he expects to install.

The road that the mine owners are building over the hill is a fine piece of work, and will be of much benefit to the mines and the people nearby.—Eugene Guard.

Filling Up Fast.

Sheriff H. K. Brown, of Baker county, accompanied by two guards, G. Clare and H. E. McCullough, brought down a crazy Chinaman, a prisoner to the penitentiary and two small boys to the reform school. It was quite a cosmopolitan bunch.
