COSTLY KISSING.

An Indiana woman has been awarded a judgment for $6000 damages from a man who kissed her six times. He must have been a tremendous hard kisser, or else the woman must have been easily susceptible of damage. Certainly only a Hoosier jury could determine how a woman can be damaged by a kiss or by even six kisses in quick succession. That woman is made to be kissed is proved by the fact that she is so kissable, and that man is made to kiss is long established and recognized because he will kiss at any provocation, providing he is within reach of something kissable. That woman can stand being kissed is proved by more numerous instances than could be recited in this chapter. Had this woman lost her nose or a foot in a railway collision the damage would have been determinable, but how can that which is a delight to so many women be such a great damage to another? A kiss is a strangely harmless thing, for you can give one without losing anything, or get one without gaining anything. You can get and give at the same time and not lose or gain a penny's worth. That some woman may object to being kissed by certain men is but natural and right, but that a kiss of one man should be heavenly to a woman, while that of another man should be actually damaging to the same woman, seems impossible and unreasonable. True there is a subtle sentiment about it that gives it wondrous shades of difference, but what do sober judges and serious jurymen know about that. Of course, it might be argued that the man kissed her against her will, but what weight would that kind of an argument cut? Doesn't a woman nearly always expect to be kissed anyway? And doesn't the man know that she expects to be kissed and wants to be, or at least wants to expect to be? Kisses would lose all their sweetness if they were too common. Woman recognizes this and flees to be pursued, and the man that fails to pursue does so at his own peril. There is no greater crisis in a man's life than when he kisses a girl, not knowing whether she will be glad or mad. After some experience he learns that the chances he is taking are not such long ones after all. Of course, the Indiana decision will not affect the price of kisses at this distance, but it establishes a dangerous precedent. It is not even worth six cents to kiss a woman who really does not want to be kissed. We, however, appeal from the decision of that court to the higher and greater tribunal made up of men who have kissed women who pretended that they didn't want to be kissed and of women who pretended they didn't, but wanted to be. We await the verdict. With Bryan announcing that he will continue in his efforts to reorganize the Democratic party and with President Roosevelt after the trusts and combines with a vengeance, the magistrates are finding a hard time to pick out their friends in the present campaign. It's almost a case of be it or be damned. If you do and be it. If you don't, Taggart will give them all the assurances necessary to get their money but Tom is not the whole show when it comes to winning things.

X-RADIUMS

A paper weight—electric lines projected. It's in the air—lots of electricity and paper railroads. Oregon needs more people, more railroads and more banks. Gambling has been stopped at Portland about as many times as Port Arthur has fallen. The maimed soldiers of Iowa are to organize. There is one trust that will proudly go on crutches. Granite roads and streets would advertise Western Oregon as progressive to beat the band. This country can afford to have several cargoes seized before going to war with any country. Vicksburg was reported captured many times before it was really taken. The same with Port Arthur. Has Dan J. Maloney secured permission, "according to program," to become president of the senate? An exchange remarks that "this is lovely weather for drying apples." It's a bad wind that blows no good. A young man who used to think that his girl was a peach has changed his mind because she did not "cling." If you do not see what you want around the carnival this week dig up a dime and you will be accommodated. Uncle Josh remarks that "a little nonsense now and then is relished by the best of men—and all the women." The W. D. Mixer Co., of Blodgett, Benton county, sold 8000 acres of lands in the Coast Range in the past two months. The sea serpents must be doing the Japanese resorters this summer. Not one has been reported on this side of the water. Oregon is getting pretty well advertised in one way and the other. Even the world's fair knockers help a little now and then. An exchange thinks the stork will displace the eagle under another Roosevelt administration. But the stork is not a bird of war. The big butchers' strike at Chicago will have one unexpected effect—it will teach thousands that they can live well without meats. Oh yes, the Willamette valley will have a network of railroads. It will be checkered like a country bedquilt with electric lines. But it will be some time. The baby show will attract the little ones. Of course, the usual number of old maids will be there to caress the darlings. Better not get them for judges, however. The railroad companies are about as slow to learn that gravel will not make as good a roadway as broken rock, as the people who build county roads and streets. Oregon people believe in summer resorts. No one works in July or August but those who have to, and they take their vacation at some other time of the year. Give the children the best the public schools will afford. If they want more let them pay for it, is good American doctrine. Free scholarships are not democratic. If the Chicago strikers can start a run on a bank, they are probably not able to run a bank if that is busted. It is one thing to tear down and quite another to build up industries. The usual number of drownings are reported. The didn't know it was loaded fund will have to hit a pretty warm pace this fall to keep within sight of the fellows who venture far out in the water. And now the Democrats are figuring out the doubtful states and by hard work are able to land Parker in the White House. But what good would Democrats be any way if they could not figure? If the Harriman party want to keep their business in Western Oregon they had better build a few needed extensions and branch lines. If they don't they need not be surprised to see half their business taken away by trolley lines. The people are not going to live forever without transportation lines.

A wise man has figured out that the name of "Esopus," the home of Judge Parker, comes from the Dutch of "Aesop." Several years from now the present stories about Esopus will be considered on the table order.

The only money ratio that seems to bother the Democratic party just at the present time is the one of contribution. The trust "sweltering" process will furnish the required lure for the brethren on the outside.

The national Republican committee must have heard what the Oregon Republicans did for the cause in June. It is stated that they contributed only $3900 to that election, and that did not come from the committee direct.

While the newspaper correspondents are at work figuring out how the next legislature will be organized, the politicians will be "doing things" and when the new year rolls around every thing will be in apple-pie order.

If the trotters and pacers at the state fair grounds keep on breaking their records for the next six weeks, spectators will have to provide themselves with snap-shot eyeglasses to see them go around the track. This is only judging from some of the published reports.

Parker is a good politician. His gold standard telegram and his resignation of a high office in advance of the presidential election are plays to the galleries that fill the imagination and will lose him no votes. The Republicans realize that they have a fight on their hands.

Alliance of Building Employes.

New York, Aug. 8.—To bring building contractors and employes closer together throughout the country with a view to lessening the number of strikes is the chief aim of the National Structural Building Trades alliance, the permanent organization of which is to be effected at a conference begun today by representatives of the interested labor organization. For several years the idea of the Alliance was agitated, but active measures were not taken to form such a body until last fall, when the National Building Trades Employers' association was formed. A committee of heads of national labor unions was formed shortly afterward, and sent out a call for a meeting at which temporary organization of the alliance was effected. It was decided to start with the national unions in the nine principal building trades. These are the Bricklayers and Masons' International union, the International association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Gas and Steamfitters, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, the Operative Plasterers, National union, the International association of Stationary Engineers, the National Electrical Workers' union, the Brotherhood of Painters, and the International Building Laborers' union. When the alliance is in running order it will represent a membership of 500,000 building trade workers. The organization will aim to facilitate the creating or trade agreements with the associations of employes where no such agreement exists, to bring about the arbitration of trade disputes, to do away with strikes and lock-outs, and to foster business relations between unions and employers.

Writes Very Fast.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 8.—John A. Shields, the little man who holds a big world's record by virtue of his speedy performance upon the type writer, continues to be an attraction as a typewriter in the Palace of Liberal Arts at the world's fair. Mr. Shields, whose home is in Holton, Kan., won the title of champion typewriter by writing 230 1/2 words in 62 seconds.

Since coming to the exposition his friends have continually urged him to try to exceed even this seemingly speed and in a recent trial he succeeded in writing 242 words, or 1063 letters, in 60 seconds. The test matter which he wrote contained every character upon the machine and also contained the letters of the alphabet in regular order. In making the record Mr. Shields was blindfolded, writing entirely from memory. The trial was witnessed by a committee of St. Louis men, connected with the typewriter trade.

Dogs Must Be Guarded.

The Albany postmaster has instructed the city carriers not to deliver mail at houses where vicious dogs are kept. This is in accordance with the instructions of the postoffice department, and was brought about by a cross dog attacking one of the carriers.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING

Dalton Stoops Tried to Swim the River at Eugene

Eugene, Ore., Aug. 8.—Dalton Stoops, aged 17 years, son of James Stoops, of Pleasant Hill, was drowned in the Willamette river about 50 yards above the Eugene bridge, while in swimming Saturday afternoon about 3:15 o'clock.

The boy was in swimming with a number of other boys, and started to swim across the river. As he was not a good swimmer his companions cautioned him not to attempt the feat. When he reached the middle of the river the boy began to cry for help. His cousin swam out to assist him, but he sank to the bottom and was drowned.

Word was immediately sent up town and in a few minutes a large crowd had gathered. Chas. Croner, who was driving along the road with his wagon, succeeded in bringing the body to the surface, using a long hook. The body had been in the water about ten minutes before it was rescued. Efforts were made to bring the boy to life again, but in vain. The body was brought to Day & Henderson's undertaking parlors.

The boy was visiting at the home of his uncle, Wm. Stoops, on High street.

World's Largest Motor.

In the August number of the Pacific Monthly is described one of the mammoth 5000 horse-power generators of the Niagara Falls Power company. One of the mammoth 5000 horse-power electric generators of the Niagara Falls Power company is shown. It is operated by a turbine located 140 feet below it in a wheel-pit cut out of solid rock. Connecting the turbine with this generator is a steel tube or shaft. The generator makes 250 revolutions per minute. As one horse-power more than equals the power of 10 men, this machine represents the force of an army of 50 thousand able-bodied laborers. In the station where this generator stands there are 10 similar machines, the total output of which is 55,000 horse-power in the station. This represents the force of more than a half million of men. It is by these machines that the falls of Niagara are "harnessed." Water flows from the upper river, through a canal to penstocks, which carry it down the pit to the turbines. Leaving the turbines, the water flows through a tunnel over a mile long, 200 feet below the surface, to the lower river. This tunnel runs under the heart of the city.

Road Franchise Granting.

The Benton county court has granted a franchise to the Willamette Valley Electric company to construct a road south from Corvallis along the public highway. The line will also be built to Albany. This is supposed to be the southern extension of the Portland-Salem road, incorporated recently by the French company. The Lane county court has agreed to grant the franchise asked for and will meet later afternoon to sign the necessary papers.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the hair is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbury's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

LANE COUNTY EXHIBIT

This morning E. M. Warren, who is collecting the Lane county fruit and grain exhibit for the state fair, invited County Judge Chrisman, Commissioners Hill, and Price and Messrs. Geo. Gross, H. L. Traver, F. M. Wilkins and a Guard representative to inspect the exhibit so far gathered at his home on West Sixth street says the Guard. The exhibit is an excellent one, considering the season, and is a credit to the county. The county court contributed $150 toward the exhibit, and the amount is being used to advantage by Mr. Warren. The fruit is put up in large glass jars and shows to a good advantage. Mr. Warren will have the complete collection of exhibits arranged for the fair sent down to Salem in a week or so ahead of time.
