

CARNIVAL OPENS TUESDAY

The Attractions Arrived at Noon by a Special Train

The Southern Carnival Co. arrived in Salem at noon today by special train and the work of putting up the tents and other apparatus will commence at once. The shows will all be in readiness for the grand opening of the carnival tomorrow evening.

The first night will be in charge of the Woodmen of the World and Women of Woodcraft and promises to be a grand affair. The parade will form at the Woodmen hall and march to the grounds, under escort of the carnival bands and company.

The attractions at the carnival consist of five free attractions and 15 paid shows, including all the latest acts that money can secure. Diavola, the daring young bicycle rider, is one of the best in the world.

Nat Reiss is an experienced carnival and amusement manager, and has the largest company on the road.

The Woodmen of the World have labored hard to make the carnival a grand success and have advertised it liberally throughout the country. It is expected that large crowds from neighboring towns will attend, as reduced rates have been made from all nearby points.

NORTH SALEM FIRE

Residence Occupied by Mrs. Perry Mauzy Destroyed

The dwelling house occupied by Mrs. Perry Mauzy, in North Salem, and owned by the F. E. Hodgkins heirs, was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock.

The origin of the fire is unknown but it is supposed that a spark had caught in the wood and smoldered during the day, as the stoves had been cold since early in the morning.

The loss on the building will be about $500 according to the agents of the property, Bonham & Martin. Mrs. Geo. Pearl a daughter of Mrs. Mauzy lost some household effects, including several valuable pieces of jewelry and clothing. Almost everything else in the building was saved.

The Salem fire department made a splendid run, but were unable to turn on the hose on account of the lack of water.

The building and contents were not insured.

BATTLE WITH THIEVES

A battle took place between a sheriff's posse and a band of horse thieves in Wheeler county Saturday morning, in which Deputy Sheriff Salelds was shot in the mouth and dangerously wounded. The posse was led by Sheriff P. L. Keeton, whose family reside in South Salem most of the year. One outlaw was wounded, but escaped with the other members of his gang. Officers are in pursuit of the outfit.

ROOMS WERE SCARCE

Quite a commotion was caused Saturday night at a late hour by the arrest of two young people who were occupying a room in a local lodging house by Chief of Police Gibson. The complaining witness was the girl's father, and he intended to swear out a warrant this morning, but on second thought refused to do so when the time arrived, fearing a prosecution of his daughter.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

RURAL MAIL ROUTE

Congressman Hermann Notified That One at Sublimity Is Established

The petition for the rural delivery route from Sublimity has been approved by Inspector Clements, owing to the efforts of Congressman Hermann. A letter received by him from the fourth assistant postmaster-general says:

"Replying to your letter of July 18, you are advised that favorable report has been submitted to the department on proposed rural route from Sublimity, Ore., and orders will be issued for installation of the route September 15, 1904."

The rural route will accommodate a large number of patrons and add another to the many already in effect in Marion county.

KITTENS SLEPT IN TREE

John Knighton says that a man learns something every day, in fact he is not satisfied at the end of each and every 24 hours unless he is wiser.

The latest thing that John has learned is rather novel, and worth repeating. He was presented with two white cats the other day and took them to his home in South Salem. The little fellows amused themselves as only cats will and seemed to enjoy their new home, for John is a pretty nice fellow any way and always entertains his company in the best possible manner.

When the shades of night fell around the Knighton home the kittens were comfortably housed in the wood shed and the family retired to peaceful slumbers. In the morning it was to be expected that pussies would still occupy their special quarters, but upon investigation the cats were noticeable by their absence. Search was made and at last the almost distracted owner, who had almost abandoned the hunt, found them in an apple tree, where from all appearances they had spent the night. A peculiar formation in the tree enabled the little fellows to coil up and be comfortable. This is the first instance to our knowledge that cats have roosted, especially provided with comfortable quarters.
